

THE COUNTY INSTITUTE

Inclement Weather Does Not De-tract From Its Interest.

Professors Schoeffer and Byron W. King Talk in a Most Entertaining Manner and Attract the Teachers Much Food For Thought—Other Notes of the Institute.

WEeping WATER, March 31.—(Special to THE NEWS.)—Although the ground was covered with snow yesterday, the teachers seemed happy and were on hand at the opening session of the institute. The scripture lesson was read by President Taylor of the Weeping Water academy. Rev. Cressman of Doane college offered prayer.

Superintendent Schoeffer then took up his work on geography. He showed that the word "day" as used in geography had several meanings, as for instance, when it is said the revolving of the earth on its axis causes night and day. Such a day is but twelve hours long. When it is said that a year is 365 days long, a day of twenty-four hours is meant. But when we speak of any certain day, as the fourth of July, we find it is more than fifty-six hours long. This was explained by showing where the day begins and ends, and where it ends. This brought in and made necessary an explanation of the international date line.

Dr. King continued his work in reading, showing how to secure good expression. He claimed that teachers try to do too much in a reading lesson. They should give their attention to the securing of expression and leave the matter of pronunciation, articulation and position to other lessons.

In the afternoon the usual lectures occurred. Superintendent Schoeffer talked on the subject, "The Good Line in Education." The speaker claimed that some teachers died long before they were ready to be buried. They cease to develop and grow long before they are ready to lay down their educational positions. To know how to keep teachers alive and active is one of the things that keep superintendents awake nights. As aids in keeping teachers from the dead line the doctor mentioned the school journal, the institute, the summer school and state and national associations. When a teacher ceases to study he ceases to grow and is then dead. But growth must be of an unselfish nature or it will defeat its objects. A growth in selfishness weakens the will and dreads the teacher. He claimed that one reason why country boys are taking such high positions in all our large cities is because of the unselfish labor on the farm. They labor with an object in view, even the getting of bread and butter. This was one of the best afternoon lectures we have had.

After a few minutes' intermission Dr. King began his lecture on "Hygienic Physiology." This was an attempt to show that the first and most important thing needed for the health is not exercise, but air. We can live a long time without exercise, or food, or drink, but we must have air every moment or we die. The next most important thing, in the doctor's estimation, is drink—pure, cool water. The next most important thing in the consideration of health is sleep. A man can go longer without food than he can without sleep. Next in order comes food, clothing, exercise and good nature. The clothing is for comfort, not for show. We should exercise for health and endurance rather than for strength. To these should be added good nature and a kindly disposition.

In the evening Dr. King took for his subject "Shakespear and the Infidel." According to him, Shakespear was a man who believed in man, God and the devil. In a Heaven and a hell. He claimed that the great dramatist never dreamed of an infidel for in all his writings none such is mentioned. Ingels could not act the part of Shakespear's lowest characters, because even the imps, witches and devils believed in a God.

Institute Notes

A. H. Waterhouse and wife of Lincoln are here today. Mr. Waterhouse was formerly superintendent of the Weeping Water schools. J. C. Geddes of Danville, Ill., representing Dodd, Mead & Co. of Chicago, was here yesterday. He thinks this the best institute he ever attended. Principals Bowers and Herge have been called home on account of sickness in their families. The Congregational church is too small for the evening sessions. Last evening it was crowded. The people of Plattsmouth are to hear Dr. King in his popular lecture, "All the World's a Stage." He deserves a large audience.

These institutes are worth much to Weeping Water in the way of education along school lines, and we believe the people appreciate it.

An Early Blaze

The residence of James Kennedy, three and one-half miles south of town, was burned to the ground about 6 o'clock yesterday morning. The flames were so far advanced before the fire was detected that the members of the family barely had time to get out of the house without stopping to get their clothes. They remained in the barn until parties in town were notified, when a hack was sent out for Mrs. Kennedy and the children. Only a very few pieces of furniture were saved. Mr. Kennedy carried $300 insurance on the house and $200 on the furniture. He works in the Burlington shops. The origin of the fire is supposed to have been a defective flue.

MATTERS POLITICAL.

It is said that J. M. Loyda, the democratic nominee for city attorney, has not fully decided upon which platform he will make the campaign—16 to 1 or anti-expansion.

De. C. A. Marshall's conscious would not permit him to make the race for school board on the democratic ticket and he withdrew. The report was circulated that he was a Bryan follower and that was too much for him.

There seems to be a misunderstanding among some of the voters in regard to who is the republican candidate for city attorney, it being understood by some that it is the senior member of the law firm of Beeson & Son who is making the race. Allen J. Beeson, familiarly known as "Jake," is the nominee. While Jake would be willing to run on his father's record, he would prefer that the voters should have a clear understanding and elect him on his own record. Mr. Beeson is a promising young attorney who has a bright future before him and will fill the office, if elected, with honor to himself and the party which elected him.

H. D. Travis has also refused to make the race for member of the school board—evidently realizing that the odds were too great in favor of the republican school board ticket.

J. R. Cox and George Dodge have consented to allow their names to appear on the democratic school board ticket, being selected to fill the vacancies caused by the withdrawal of the names of H. D. Travis and Dr. C. A. Marshall.

THE SCHOOL BOARD TICKET.

In selecting candidates for members of the board of education the republicans have displayed exceptional ability and good judgment. Good schools are the essentials of a city and with this lies the board of education. Its members should be men of strong mind and of ability, and that these men possess these qualities no one can gainsay.

Lloyd D. Bennett has been in business in Plattsmouth for many years, and is known by almost every man, woman and child in the city. Being a conservative, painstaking man and having previously served on the board for a number of years, he is familiar with the duties involved and will fill the office in a most satisfactory manner.

Caroline E. Westcott needs no introduction to the voters of Plattsmouth, being one of its pioneer business men. Everything Mr. Westcott sets about to do is performed in a business-like manner and with a view to which commends him to the voters. He is a large property owner and a man with a family, and has always taken a lively interest in the affairs of the city and especially those pertaining to educational matters. Mr. Westcott would always be found on the right side of any question pertaining to the schools.

Walter L. Taemas, the other nominee, is a graduate of the Plattsmouth high school and is familiar with the needs of the schools. Having resided here since childhood, he is known as a man of ability and integrity and he would fulfill the duties of his office in a conscientious and able manner. He is also a patron of the schools.

By comparison of these men with those whose names appear on the democratic ticket, the voter will readily see that he or she can do no better than to place a cross in the circle at the head of the republican column.

MANY queer things happen in Ohio and not the least of which was a marriage the other day at Butler which was witnessed by two children of the contracting parties. Nine years ago the parents were married, but after four years of wedded bliss they were divorced, the husband going to New York to live. A correspondence sprang up between them with the result that they were remarried.

The generosity with which the senate passed salary appropriation bills yesterday was something startling, the total increase over the appropriations of 1897 being $29,150. The "reformers," being desirous of creating jobs for the faithful, have provided for three secretaries of the board of transportation. These economical (?) reformers are queer critters.

THAT misfortune never came singly is once more proven by the fact that the Missouri legislature, on top of the war tax, has passed a bill providing for the levying of an inspection tax of 1 per cent per gallon on all beer manufactured in the state. This is indeed a sad blow to the Missourians.

The quickest way to get the city's bonded indebtedness paid off is to vote "yes" on the proposition to refund the bonds at next Tuesday's election. A saving of nearly $1,100 per year in interest is a great item to be considered, with the same privileges as to redemption as now exist.

The republican aldermanic ticket is one which everyone, regardless of politics, can vote without fear of making an error. They are all capable men who would fill the seats in the city council in a capable manner.

To the Public.

PLATTSMOUTH, March 30, 1899.—As announced in the press of the city, last night was the time set for a meeting of the police committee of the city to investigate the charges preferred against me by Judge Archer. I was present at the time set and demanded a hearing by the committee.

The complainant was not ready to proceed, alleging as a reason for delay, the absence of City Attorney Clark from the city, and requesting a postponement of the hearing.

Believing that any delay in hearing the matter might lead to a belief that I did not want an investigation, and believing that delay was simply intended to create a feeling against me with the public, I protested against such a course and demanded a hearing so that I might be vindicated. The committee, however, saw fit to postpone the hearing until some future time, and granted the complainant a continuance. Respectfully,

CHARLES HASSON.

"PRETERNATURAL SUSPICION."

A Frenzy of Frenchmen Which Englishmen Cannot Comprehend.

The frenzy of suspicion—"preternatural suspicion," as Carlyle called it—into which Frenchmen, when excited, are apt to fall is most difficult of explanation, especially to Englishmen, who cannot even comprehend why Frenchmen should believe that English gold is expended upon the Dreyfus agitation, and consider the belief either fictitious or simply silly, says the Spectator. The belief with thousands is one of the ailments of European races, possessing besides that touch of humor which should prevent any one from believing that an unbroken egg has been poisoned. We confess that suspicionous notions are, who have watched French politics through a lifetime. If it were always directed against one set of enemies it might be interpreted as a mere form of hatred, but this is not the case. There is more suspicion in Paris of French Jews at this moment than of Englishmen, and as much suspicion of a very grave and reputable class—the Huguenots—as of either. The feeling is often set down to ignorance, but classes of Englishmen who are quite as ignorant are comparatively free from it, and the French populace suspects above all men those who live their lives all day and every day under their microscope eyes.

MAD DOG.

Kept by Health Authorities to Test Symptoms of Hydrophobia.

New York Herald. The fact was brought out that the supposed mad dog which bit two children at Youngkinsville, N. Y., on Sunday afternoon had bitten a third person, Otto Simonson, a sailor on the Baltimore and Ohio barge "Arctica." Simonson was on the street and encountered the dog just after it had bitten the children. The animal sprang upon him, tore his coat tails into shreds, and bit him slightly in the left leg before he succeeded in getting it off. Simonson and Charles Perrine, the boy who was bitten, applied to Dr. John L. Feary, chief of the Richmond borough health department, and were sent to the laboratory of the health department in Manhattan borough, where they were treated by Dr. Cabot. They will be isolated daily for two weeks. Edith Lawrence, the girl who was bitten, was reported to be hurt seriously injured, and her parents have not yet decided to subject her to the Pasteur treatment. The dog, which is part Newfoundland, was kept in the dog pound. It would eat nothing and showed an aversion to water, but was not thrown into convulsions when water was placed near it. The animal was boxed up and sent by wagon to the bacteriological department of the health department, where it will be kept alive as long as possible, and tests made to positively determine whether it is suffering from Hydrophobia.

NEW THINGS IN LEATHER.

Novelties That Will Please the Most Fastidious Woman.

Small pocket diaries of snake-skin, with silver mountings, are the latest and make a handsome birthday gift. Says the Philadelphia Record. Antique designs prevail in the stamped leather pocketbooks, diaries, belts, traveling bags, etc., on view now. You may have a choice of red, blue, green, white or black leather case for your French traveling clock these days, whereas a few years ago only black could be obtained. Calendars in burned leather, mounted in silver or gilt, are both new and pretty. Narrow belts are the proper thing for this season. A good one has a strap across the inside of the back to be slipped under an ordinary hook on the skirt-belt. By this simple means the skirt is held up and the belt kept down. Writing sets in all the different bright shades of leather come to match the coloring of ladies' rooms in her desk furnishings. Trunks for the skirts and waists, to be hung up wardrobe fashion, will be a boon on account of their convenience, and the fact that they avoid crushing. Coral-pink monkey skin, with the usual silver mountings, of course, is the very newest touch for the ultra-fashionable girl who likes delicate beauty in her belongings.
