FRIDAY, JUNE 23, 1899.

WHAT philanthropist will donate the ground upon which to erect a public library building? Do not all speak at once.

ADMIRAL DEWEY has very sensibly requested that the money contributed to buy a mansion for him be used to build a home for veteran soldiers and sailors.

The proposition made by Tom E. Parmele to furnish free of charge enough brick for the erection of a building to be used for the public library in Plattsmouth is a good one, and the citizens should see that enough money is secured to do the rest.

NEMAH county, where the republicans in former years were so busy fighting among themselves that they had little time to look after the work of carrying the county, now has one of the most wide-awake republican organizations in the state, and there seems to be an entire absence of factionalism.

THERE seems to be a great disagreement between the Colorado silver trust and the laboring men over the matter of wages. It would be a good time for Bryan to go west and deliver one of his speeches. He would find plenty of idle smelter employes for audience, providing he could get them into the hall.

The political party which in 1892 solemnly declared the country to be in the midst of "moral, financial and political ruin," is hunting for an issue upon which to wage the next campaign. What's the matter with the old platform? "Financial ruin" would sound especially good this fall. Such a plank would cause a laugh throughout the state, and would make the campaign a very jolly one.

The new superintendent of the Lincoln insane asylum accused the retiring head of the institution of carrying away things that did not belong to him, and especially raised a howl about the abstraction of some choice bulbs from the asylum conservatory. Within a week the new superintendent made arrangements to send some of the bulbs to friends of his own at North Loup. It is a nice quarrel over property that is paid for by the state.

The magnitude of foreign business in the Philippines is shown by the receipts for customs. The total receipts from all sources at the ports of Manila and Iloilo during the first four months of 1899 were $1,414,636. During the same period 399 vessels entered and 429 cleared from the port of Manila and fifty-seven vessels entered and seventy-seven cleared from Iloilo. This is a time of war when commerce is practically abandoned.

SOUTH OMAHA has a population of 12,000, and the recount of the ballots cast in the last fall's election shows that the free silver republicans cast just 35 votes. The populists cast just about one-tenth as many as the democrats. In Omaha out of 25,000 votes the populists and silver republicans combined cast less than 1,500. And still these parties come down to the fusion state conventions with delegates based on the combined voting strength of all the confusion parties.

TRUSTS IN EUROPE. A staff correspondent of the Philadelphia Press furnishes some interesting information in regard to trusts in England and on the continent, which shows that monopolistic combinations flourish in Europe and particularly in England as well as here—a fact which should receive the attention of those who characterize the tariff as the "mother of trusts," says the Bee.

The correspondent says that trusts exist in nearly every country in Europe and are quite common in England. There are over 200 in Germany, as enumerated in the newspapers of that country, and a large number in France. There are more in England than the public is aware of. These British trusts are organized on practically the same basis as the combinations in this country and their methods of business are similar. They have the same general purpose that American trusts have and they seek its accomplishment by like means, even employing coercion. A quotation is given from a Birmingham paper in which it is stated that many of the victims of the trusts would give half they possessed to escape from an espionage and dominion they detest but cannot shake off without the gravest business risks. The same paper refers to this system as having been denounced by the highest authorities as illegal conspiracy, yet it continues and is growing in free trade England.

The correspondent points out that in addition to the syndicates and trusts and combinations in England there are a number of incorporated companies with immense capital which practically monopolize many branches of business. There are many organizations on the continent which combine and sell conjointly through a central bureau in order to dictate prices and deprive individual members of every vestige of independence. No member of such a trust has a right to take or fulfill an order whether at wholesale or retail. In that way the coal industry of Germany is practically under the control of a combination and there are many such combinations in France. The chemical industry of France, like that of Germany, is almost exclusively controlled by a combination.

Perhaps the European trusts are somewhat less oppressive generally than those of the United States, but they are essentially similar in character and object. The significant fact, however, is that monopolistic combinations have long flourished in free England and have grown so numerous and so strong there as to be the subject of serious public discussion. Those who assert that the tariff is responsible for trusts here cannot ignore the existence of like combinations in a country where there is no tariff protection and they will find it a rather difficult matter to defend their position. The further fact that some of the strongest of the American trusts have no tariff protection increases the difficulty of sustaining the assertion that the tariff is responsible for the industrial combination.

WORKED THE LEGISLATURE. Last winter when the legislature was in session the members of the state house gang pretended that they were overworked, and that substantial increases in salaries and additional emoluments would be absolutely necessary, says the Opinion. They took out before a committee that they must have more help and more pay to enable them to properly attend to the business of the state.

Everybody knew that this was all a pretense, and that both the amount of pay and the number of employes should be reduced. It was amusing to hear the sham reformers talk, and it was still more amusing to see them doing night work. A large amount of midnight work was burned by clerks who pretended to bend over their desks and sweat with the arduous labors of their job. The gas bill of $500 which was charged up against the legislature for the month of December was partly because of the "night work" of the deputies, and part of it was just ordinary fraud.

After the legislature had adjourned there was a remarkable change in the capital building. Night work was abolished by mutual consent, and the "reform" officials commenced to take junket trips. When warm weather came a number of them made weekly fishing trips that lapped over each other. There has not been a time during the present season when at least ten of the officials and deputies of the building have not been out of the city on some sort of junketing or pleasure trip.

But the fraud worked well with the legislators, most of whom had their vision half obscured by their own interest in bills which must run the gauntlet of the executive office. Economy seemed impossible in the face of a howling, hungry mob of sham reform office holders.

INFORMATION AND OPINION.

Chicago is raising its hands in horror and peeping from behind them at the nude figures of nymphs, heroic in size, which adorn the new fountain just erected on the lake front. They were modeled by young women of the Art Institute, under the guidance of the director, Lorado Taft. Those who are not scandalized on moral grounds, but condemn the figures purely from an artistic standpoint, declare that these figures are evidently copied from models whose waists have been ruined by long wearing of the corset.

Governor Tyler of Virginia has received a letter from a woman of that state, whose name is withheld, asking permission to take the place of any life-term convict in the penitentiary. She wants to serve out such a term faithfully in order that she may feel that she has not missed her life. The governor was so impressed with the idea that the woman was neither a lunatic nor a crank seeking notoriety that he answered her letter at length, explaining that the laws of the state prevented him from granting her request.

For the second time in a year the voters of Rhode Island have rejected the draft of a new constitution. The draft rejected last Tuesday by a vote of two to one provided for a change of the state election from April to November, for two-year terms for state officers, annual sessions of the legislature and made reading and writing a condition of the elective franchise.

A sharp fight for the senatorship has already been started in Virginia, where the term of Thomas S. Martin expires on March 4 next. The legislature to choose his successor is to be voted for this year, and as Mr. Martin's friends have control of the democratic organization machinery in Virginia, a strong effort of all his opponents is being made to commit nomination to be chosen at the primaries to other candidates. There are several already in the field, particularly William A. Jones, congressman from the First Virginia district, who was re-elected last year, and Fitzhugh Lee.

humptious husband who talked back at his better half was placed across her knee and slipped vigorously and warmly. The faculty of doing the right thing at the right time and in the right place is a gift peculiar to the sex.

It is said that Dr. Nanson has resolved to enter the lists as an antarctic explorer. Letters received in London from him state that he hopes to have an expedition organized and ready to start in 1902. He is at present engaged in preparing his plans and will endeavor to shape them so that he may supplement the work which the British and German expeditions propose to accomplish.

When a horse balks, the usual plan is to secure a large serviceable whip and fail the hide of the animal. Once in a thousand times, perhaps, this will make a balky horse work; in the other ninety-nine cases it is pretty sure to ruin the animal for keeps. Not long ago a Beatrice citizen bought a gentle family horse, and when he hitched it up one morning it wouldn't go. So he sent into the house for a novel he was interested in, and sat in the buggy calmly and comfortably, storing his mind with useful knowledge for about three hours. Long before the expiration of that time the horse was dead tired of the job of standing still, and wanted to start, but the citizen said "whoa," in a commanding tone, and what it was. Finally the gentleman put the book down, took up the lines, and said: "Get up!" And the horse got up, and it has never shown a sign of crankiness since, and probably never will again. Balky horses are generally the best horses, when they can be broken of the unfortunate vice; it is because they are nervous, high strung animals that they become balky. The very worst thing that you can do to a balky horse is to yell at it, and use a whip, and get excited.—Beatrice Express.

The Lincoln Blizzard makes some serious charges against the management of the Kenney industrial school. The charges are right to the point, and no matter how irresponsible the paper making them, the reformers cannot ignore them honorably. The natural reference is that the delay in answering is caused by there being no answer handy.—The Opinion.

ROCK BLUFFS ITEMS. Corn is growing fast, but the weeds are growing faster. Spring wheat is heading out and looks extra good for this time of year.

During the rain storm Thursday morning lightning struck a large maple tree that stood within a few feet of Mrs. Bates' house. The next day that tree was cut down for some reason.

Joseph Shera set out 2,500 peach trees last spring and they are alive and doing well. When this orchard and Wm. Caldwell's 2,000 peach trees get to bearing, there will be no going to Missouri after peaches from this locality.

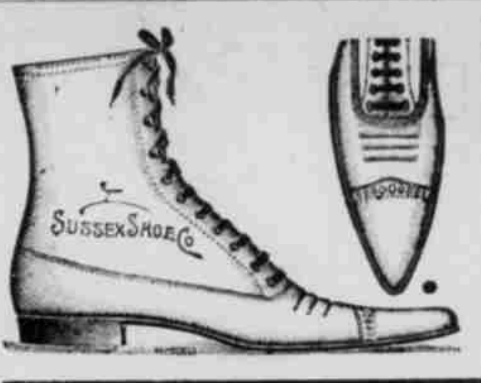

If the potato crop is a good one this year, Rock Bluffs can feed a good many people with that vegetable. Wm. Caldwell has planted thirty acres, Joseph Shera twelve acres, F. Hall six acres, Wm. Sutton four acres and a great many from one to three acres.

David Allen returned last Thursday from Oklahoma. He brought back his wife and children, but that is all. Before David went to Oklahoma he had a house to live in, a team to work and a cow to milk. But now he has none of these, nor a dollar with which to buy. This is another verification of the fact that there is no place like Nebraska and that it would be a grand thing for the comfort of some people if they knew when they were doing well.

NOTICE A mean man; he is always apologizing. A man is not very old if he buys and enjoys ice cream soda. A woman's dress never turns out as she thought it would.

An Atchison man complains that his wife not only entertains informally but indefinitely. People too good to express a dislike for certain people, give their feelings away by referring to them as "he" or "she." A young man's troubles are partly with the people. They won't give him a chance to do business if the old man is around.

A woman always likes the hat that some other woman wears better than she likes her own, and blames the milliner for it. As soon as a man gets a little money saved up some of his folks have trouble, and he has to spend it on a relief expedition to save them. Don't encourage those at the breakfast table to tell what they dreamed the night before. It leads to as much lying as telling fish stories. Most people believe that a man should be permitted to do a reasonable amount of lying about himself, without calling him down. Society is that place where young people ruin their digestion while looking for husbands and wives with whom they are not happy afterwards. When the boys begin to hang around a house where there are marriageable girls, the girls' father begins to understand his father-in-law better. A large crowd of young people from this city went out to a dance near Eight Mile Grove Saturday evening. They report a good time.

OVERTOOK THE SHERIFF

Jar of the Train Causes Sheriff Wheeler to Lose a Race.

Sheriff Wheeler Starts For Kansas With a Forgee and Shortly Afterward an Order For the Prisoner's Return is Secured - Coroner Sattler's Timely Wake-up. The forgery case of R. S. Witters, the fruit tree man of Weeping Water, took on a new phase Saturday evening. In the complaint Witters is charged with performing the crime of forgery in Kansas during the last spring. His wife was in the city Saturday and employed Matthew Gering to defend him in the matter. She claimed to be able to prove that her husband had not been in Kansas for two years, and so her attorney drew up a writ of habeas corpus to prevent Witters being taken to Kansas. The papers were made out and everything fixed up in proper style, but when they went to serve the papers the sheriff nor prisoner were not to be found. Sheriff Wheeler had expected Sheriff Murray of Nemaha county, Kansas, to come after Witters, but he did not show up and a team and buggy were secured and they started for Kansas overnight, R. W. Hyers going along to do the driving. Attorney Gering went before Judge Ramsey and secured an order requesting the sheriff to bring the prisoner into court Saturday, July 1, and arming Coroner Sattler with the order started him after Witters. It was expected that the sheriff and prisoner would board the night Missouri Pacific train at some point below here, and Sattler bought a ticket to Myriad and from Myriad to Murray and so on until the station of Wyoming was reached. At this station Wheeler was in readiness to board the train, but took the precaution to look through to see whether or not anyone was on his track. After surveying the situation and seeing no familiar faces he took his prisoner into the car. The train then started and in so doing gave a quick jerk, arousing a gentleman whom the sheriff had noticed sleeping with his hat over his face. This proved to be no one but the wily coroner from Plattsmouth, and after rubbing his eyes a moment recalled the object of his journey. Looking around he spied a man with handcuffs on and near him sat Sheriff Wheeler. The coroner drew the papers and then Wheeler knew it was all up with him. The party went to Nebraska City and laid over there, arriving here yesterday noon. Wheeler says that if the train had not made the quick start he would have landed his prisoner over the Kansas line and Coroner Sattler would have had an opportunity to view the landscape in the Sunflower state.

Denies Many of His Statements - Agrees With Him on Few Points.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—Henry T. Oxnard, president of the American Beet Sugar Producers' association, has prepared a reply to H. O. Havemeyer's recent argument before the industrial commission at Washington. He flatly denies many of Mr. Havemeyer's statements and accuses that gentleman of seeking to destroy the American beet sugar industry in order to foster the refineries that handle foreign raw material, besides attempting to divert public attention from the Sugar trust by attacking the tariff.

In conclusion Mr. Oxnard says: "I will not dispute Mr. Havemeyer's claim that 10 per cent is sufficient protection to the sugar refining interests which he represents, but I do assert that he cannot make the American people believe that the industries of this country and business prospered during the years we were struggling under the Wilson law, when the average protection amounted to 40 per cent." He says that the American people believe that the industries of this country and business prospered during the years we were struggling under the Wilson law, when the average protection amounted to 40 per cent.

Dakota Troops are Praised.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The report of Thomas H. Barry, adjutant general of the department of the Pacific, to General Otis concerning the operations of the brigade commanded by General Owenshine on February 5, consisting of the Fort Smith infantry and First North Dakota, was made public today. These troops marched through jungle and mud, and without faltering, drove the enemy from strong positions. He commends General Owenshine and the men under him. A report from Major Frank White, commanding the First battalion of the North Dakota volunteers, was also made public. He says the men performed their duties satisfactorily.

Gov. Poynter at His Old Home.

EUREKA, Ill., June 24.—Governor W. A. Poynter and wife of Nebraska were given a public reception at the court house today. Mayor George F. Hootman presided at the meeting, which was largely attended. Elder N. S. Haynes welcomed them on behalf of Eureka college, of which the governor was a graduate in 1867. Dr. B. J. Radford spoke words of greeting in behalf of the citizens. Governor Poynter responded in a neat speech. This was the old home of the governor, and he received a warm welcome from his many friends, who have watched his career in Nebraska. He expects to be home Monday.
