

AN AUSPICIOUS EVENT.

Marriage of William Booth Elster and Miss Anna Sullivan.

Two of Plattsburgh's Most Popular and Esteemed Young Society People Are Joined in the Holy Bonds of Matrimony—Will Be "At Home" to Their Friends After November 1.

Many beautiful weddings have been solemnized in our city, but none more beautiful or perfect in every detail than the marriage ceremony which united Dr. William Booth Elster and Miss Anna Sullivan at the Presbyterian church Wednesday evening.

The auditorium was thronged at an early hour with the invited friends of Judge and Mrs. Sullivan and, while Miss Kessler played softly selections beautiful and appropriate, the ushers, Dr. Stuart Livingston, T. E. Parmele, Henry Gering and Charles Sullivan, attended the guests to their seats.

Just before the entrance of the bridal party Miss Mayme Sullivan sang "I Promise Thee" most charmingly and, as the last sweet notes lingered on the air, the triumphal notes of Mendelssohn's wedding march heralded the approach of the wedding party, which appeared in the following order: Ushers Charles Sullivan, Stuart Livingston, T. E. Parmele and Henry Gering; bridesmaids Florence White and Alice Murray; Maid of Honor Miss Minna White, walking alone, followed by the bride, leaning on the arm of her father. They were received at the altar by Dr. Elster and his best man, Mr. George Guild, and Dr. Baird, the officiating clergyman, who performed the ceremony in his usual solemn and impressive manner.

The beautiful altar decorations, the soft tones of the organ, the graceful and lovely bridal party, as they stood before "the man of God," made a lovely and impressive picture.

The bride was richly attired in white tulle, trimmed with ruffles of chiffon, a gracefully arranged veil of white tulle, reaching nearly to the end of the elaborate train of her gown. She carried an immense bouquet of bride's roses.

The maid of honor, Miss Minna White, was gowned in white organdy, over yellow silk, and carried yellow roses.

Miss Florence White and Miss Murray wore pale yellow gowns and carried roses of the same color.

A reception at Judge Sullivan's to the immediate friends and relatives followed the ceremony and the very best wishes for the happiness of this deservedly popular couple were tendered by the many friends, who remembered them with gifts, useful and beautiful. They will commence house-keeping surrounded by the most pleasant environments and will be at home to friends after November 1.

Died During Amputation.

From Thursday's Daily. Sherman Short, the young son of James Short of Omaha, and a grandson of W. B. Short of this city, died yesterday while surgeons were amputating his left leg. The body will be brought to this city for burial on the Burlington this evening at 8:27 and the funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence of W. B. Short, south of the B. & M. shops. The remains will be interred in Oak Hill cemetery. All friends of the family are invited to attend.

HEAD CUT FROM BODY

An Unknown Man Loses His Life In the Burlington Yards

His Head Severed From the Body and Carried Two Car Lengths Away—Coroner's Jury Unable to Find Any Clue to the Man's Identity—Was a Ghastly Sight.

The third man to give up his life in this city within the past two months by injury on the railroad was killed in the Burlington yards some time between the hours of 8 and 11 last night.

About 10:40, as Engineer Joe Lloyd and Switchman C. B. Miltonberger were at work, they saw the body of a man lying on the track just above the switch shanty. They alighted from the engine and found that the man's head had been entirely severed from the body and was two car-lengths away from the body. Coroner John Sattler was summoned and the body was taken to the undertaking rooms of Streight & Streight, where a search was made to find something by which the dead man could be identified, but without avail. In his pockets were found a leather pocket book containing $28.85 in money and a Rock Island railroad ticket from Albright to some point out in the state, but there was no letter or anything containing his name.

Coroner Sattler empaneled a jury this afternoon consisting of James R. Hunter, P. E. Ruffner, B. L. Kinkaid, Fred Kroehler, William Weber and L. Ottmat, who, after viewing the remains, rendered a verdict that the man, to the jury unknown, came to his death by being run over by a train.

It is not known whether the man was killed by the freight train No. 74, the fast meat train, or passenger train No. 12. The freight train pulled out of the yards at 8 o'clock and the passenger train pulled in at 8:25.

The body was cold when found and it is certain that he had been dead more than two hours.

It is not thought that the man was a tramp, as he wore a fair suit of clothes and had on clean underwear and socks. His hands were calloused and he had the appearance of being a laboring man. He was between twenty-five and thirty years of age, and had dark sandy hair and a smooth face. There was a slight abrasion of the skin on the forehead and also a wound on the back of the head, but neither would amount to anything. The wheels struck the lower part of the chin and also crushed the upper part of the chest. It was a ghastly sight which met the eyes of the railroad men in the light of the lanterns.

The body will be buried tomorrow morning.

REV. S. A. DONAHUE

Testifies to the Good Qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

On the 10th of December, 1897, Rev. S. A. Donahue, pastor M. E. church, South, Pt. Pleasant, W. Va., contracted a severe cold which was attended from the beginning by violent coughing. He says: "After resorting to a number of so-called 'specifics,' usually kept in the house, to no purpose, I purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which acted like a charm. I most cheerfully recommend it to the public." For sale by all druggists.

Many Thanks.

"I wish to express my thanks to the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, for having put on the market such a wonderful medicine," says W. W. Masegill, of Beaumont, Texas. There are many thousands of mothers whose children have been saved from attack of dysentery and cholera infantum who must also feel thankful. It is for sale by all druggists.

Cuba's Rarest Bird.

The rarest of all birds in Cuba is the anti-tricolor, commonly known as the Cuban macaw. Its habitat is the swamps, and the following general description will illustrate its beauty: Forehead red, becoming yellowish on top and shading into bright yellow on the neck; back feathers, cinnamon edged with green; under parts scarlet, with a dash of orange on the throat; secondary feathers bright blue on the upper surface, pale brown underneath; tail feathers cinnamon and yellow. Seen in the dusk resting on the lily pads of a swamp, the anti-tricolor is one of the handsomest specimens of bird life to be found in any land or any climate.—Cuban Letter.

Composed on Trains.

Sir Arthur was once asked where he was able to compose best, and under what circumstances his ideas flowed most freely. "There is no place," he said, "where I have so many inspirations as in a railway carriage. There is something in the rapidity of the motion, in the clanging of the iron, and in the whirring of the wheels, which seems to excite the imagination and supplies material for a host of harmonies."

Mrs. Ida Cutler was shelling some corn Sunday evening for her chickens, and her little three-year-old daughter pulled herself up on the sheller and caught her foot in the wheel. Relief of Eye-Gone Days.

St. George's church, at the top of Lord street, Liverpool, England, is undergoing demolition, and the workmen have just come upon a curious relic of by-gone days. The church stands on the site of a baronial castle said to have been first built by Roger de Poelsters in 1072. After being used for various purposes, the castle was demolished early last century to make room for the church. While at work the demollishers of the church came upon a large slab in the east aisle, immediately under the stained glass window facing Lord street. The slab being raised disclosed twelve steps cut in rock and leading to a platform, and an arched doorway led to another flight of five steps, at the foot of which was a square chamber about fourteen feet in height, also cut in the rock. From this place there is a passage apparently running in the direction of the river, while marks on the walls suggested that the tide flowed in at high water, though the church is on a high level and nearly 200 yards from the river. It is supposed that these steps and passages were hewn in the rock to provide an outlet from the castle near the water-side, and that when the castle was removed it was thought easier to cover the entrance than to fill up the passage. Found air prevented the workmen from exploring further.

SOME NEW INDIAN WOMEN.

Celebrities of Dusky Hue in Art and Literature.

White women are not alone in pushing themselves to the front along artistic and literary lines. Their sisters of the red race are also making reputations in the same ways. The most distinguished literary Indian woman in America is undoubtedly Pauline Johnson, the daughter of a chief on the reservation at Brantford, Ont. Miss Johnson is a poet of no mean ability. Her poems have been published in many periodicals for the last five years. Miss Johnson also reads from her own poems and gives impromptu readings of Indian character costume. In London she is received by literary students on an equal footing. Eugenie is an Indian princess, who lives with her father, Chief Philippe Vincent of the Hurons, at the Indian Lorette, near Quebec. She is well educated, having spent eight years in the convent at Charlesbourg; speaks French and English as well as her own tongue and plays, sings and composes songs, weird melodies. One of her official duties is to guard the medals presented to her family by George IV., Queen Victoria and the prince of Wales. Br'cht Eyes, or Insh-ta Theambra, is a daughter of the Omahas, who has won distinction both in literature and art. She has written many magazine articles and has illustrated a book of Indian folklore. Jane Waldron of the Sioux selected music as her profession. She became proficient and labors constantly at the various government schools to teach the pupils the rudiments of music.

There are two Indian girls on the stage—Go-Wan-Go-Mohawk and Gretchen Lyon. The former writes her own plays and is stage manager as well as star. There is a very clever Pawnee girl, Maud Ech-Hawk, who teaches in the Hope Indian school at Springfield, S. D. Minnie Cornelius, an ambitious Oneida Indian girl, was graduated from Grafton hall, Fond du Lac, Wis., last June. She speaks five languages fluently and will practice medicine among her own people.

The Revolving Plate.

A very deceptive optical illusion is accomplished by the use of a revolving china plate. Sitting at one side of the table you rest the plate on your knee, so that about one-third of it shows above the table. Take a knife in both hands and rest it on the plate. If you now lower and raise the knees alternately, quickly and evenly, it gives a motion to the plate, as if it was actually revolving round. In fact, it is so illusive that to the operator himself it has the same appearance.
