

WAS A GOOD MEETING.

The Campaign Opened In This City Last Evening.

Ex-Congressman E. J. Hainer and Hon. Paul Jensen Are Enthusiastically Received—Candidate For District Judge Makes Many Friends During His Stay In Plattsmouth.

The republican campaign was opened in this city last evening at Waterman's hall when Hon. Paul Jensen, republican candidate for district judge, and ex-Congressman E. J. Hainer of Aurora spoke to a large audience of voters and a number of ladies.

County Attorney J. L. Root introduced the speakers, the first to be presented being Mr. Jensen. His remarks were received with cheers by his hearers and it was very plain to be seen that they were favorably impressed with the young candidate. He showed his loyalty by saying he was for his country, right or wrong. In preparing an ideal judge he said there were very few of them and he did not expect to be an ideal, but if elected would do his best to impartially decide all questions arising before him. He was highly pleased with the reception he had received at the hands of Plattsmouth people.

Mr. Root next introduced Mr. Hainer, who held his hearers in rapt attention for an hour and a half, during which time he discussed the issues of the day in a masterly manner. He did not make attacks on the opposition in which wild statements were made, but quoted figures as proof of his statements. His statements regarding the trusts and upon imperialism were convincing. Mr. Hainer is one of the most logical speakers who ever addressed an audience in Plattsmouth, and those who failed to hear him missed a rare treat, indeed.

E. S. Greusel's Funeral.

The funeral of the late E. S. Greusel occurred yesterday afternoon from the family residence in Havelock. The funeral and arrangements for interment were in charge of the Masonic order, of which he was a member. The floral offerings were beautiful, the casket being banked in cut flowers with set pieces arranged around it. The funeral address was delivered by Rev. Burgess of Plattsmouth, an old friend of the deceased, an old story of the general manager of that road, which was told a few years ago when a like order was issued. On January 1 of that year Mr. Dickinson sent the customary number of annuities to his railroad friends, all of them being stamped across the face: "Not Good on No. 1." In return an eastern railroad manager sent Mr. Dickinson an annual over his line stamped across the face: "Good Only on Freight Trains." Mr. Dickinson sent a new pass to his eastern friend which was stamped across the face: "Good on Any Train Run By the Union Pacific Company."

The shops are undergoing a coal famine and as a result the hammer shop has been closed for two days. It is furnace coal that they are out of, but it is expected to be here soon.

A special free car was provided on the morning train for the accommodation of those who desired to attend the funeral of E. S. Greusel at Lincoln today. A large number of Burlington employees and members of the Masonic order, as well as other friends, attended.

The entire day was consumed by General Colby in his argument to the jury for the defendant, and it cannot be denied but what the able attorney clearly, explicitly and forcibly with much ability and eloquence presented to the jury such facts which established the innocence of his client of the crime of which he stands charged.

Reviewing the testimony of the forty-nine witnesses, one by one, who were sworn and testified for the prosecution and the defendant, drawing conclusions therefrom, he presented the same to the jury in a masterly manner, with candor and sincerity, and to such an extent that he received the plaudits of the audience.

Beyond all question it was one of the best arguments ever made in this county in a court of justice, and demonstrated the superb ability and eloquence of the speaker. Ignoring no facts, interspersed now and then with sarcasm and vituperation towards a few of the witnesses of the state, replete with pathos and facts, he convinced his hearers of the sincerity of his convictions and the innocence of John C. Watson. In making the final appeal for the defense Mr. Colby's argument consumed a little over five hours in delivery.

At the conclusion of his argument at 4:15 o'clock, court adjourned on account of the indisposition of Mr. Sawyer until 9 o'clock this morning, when he will begin the final plea for the state. And thus ended the tenth day of the trial of John C. Watson.—Nebraska City Press.

John Not Dead.

The accident caused by the giving way of a bridge on which a traction engine was trying to cross on Friday last, in which John Nee was so badly injured and scalded, has terminated fatally, as Mr. Nee died last night. Everything that medical skill could suggest or devise was done, but he received such a shock that he could not recover.—Nebraska City News.

MR. E. S. GREUSEL'S SUCCESSOR.

Railroad Officials Have Not Made a Selection Up to the Present Time.

It was stated yesterday by Burlington officials that E. S. Greusel had not been discharged from the service of the company, but that the company had intended to change him to another position. It had been contemplated for some time to transfer him to some other place, and it is said that Mr. Hawkworth, superintendent of motive power, had spent two days with him at the shops trying to induce him to accept the order of the company. It seems that Mr. Greusel did not want to be transferred, nor did he want to resign, although the promise had been made that he would be assisted in getting a good position with some other road.

Mr. Hawkworth is in charge of the shops, and it was stated yesterday that Mr. Greusel's successor had not yet been chosen. While the company has many good men, few men combine the mechanical genius and executive ability possessed by Mr. Greusel, and the position is not easily filled on such short notice. While the company contemplated getting a new man for the position it was not expected that it would have to be done so quickly.—State Journal.

RAILROAD NOTES AND PERSONALS

From Thursday's Daily.

For moving the Thirty-ninth from Fort Crook to Vancouver barracks, the Burlington has gotten the contract by way of Cheyenne, then to the Union Pacific and Oregon Short Line. The price is $25.32 for officers, $13.64 for men, $1.05 per hundred for freight, and $126.63 for the car-load of horses. There were five bids.

A new time card will go into effect on the Burlington next Sunday. The only change that is known at this time is the time of No. 6. This train now goes east at 7:12 a. m., but will be made an hour later.

In a circular issued by General Manager Dickinson of the Union Pacific, it is stated that on and after October 15 passengers traveling on free transportation will not be carried on the "Overland Limited" train, the Union Pacific's west-bound No. 1. This order was in force a few years ago, but has not been observed for some time. The issuance of this order recalls a good story on the general manager of that road, which was told a few years ago when a like order was issued. On January 1 of that year Mr. Dickinson sent the customary number of annuities to his railroad friends, all of them being stamped across the face: "Not Good on No. 1." In return an eastern railroad manager sent Mr. Dickinson an annual over his line stamped across the face: "Good Only on Freight Trains." Mr. Dickinson sent a new pass to his eastern friend which was stamped across the face: "Good on Any Train Run By the Union Pacific Company."

The shops are undergoing a coal famine and as a result the hammer shop has been closed for two days. It is furnace coal that they are out of, but it is expected to be here soon.

Watson Case About Concluded.

The court room during yesterday's session of the district court was filled with an appreciative audience, including many ladies who attended to listen to the closing argument of the attorneys in the celebrated Watson case.

The entire day was consumed by General Colby in his argument to the jury for the defendant, and it cannot be denied but what the able attorney clearly, explicitly and forcibly with much ability and eloquence presented to the jury such facts which established the innocence of his client of the crime of which he stands charged.

Reviewing the testimony of the forty-nine witnesses, one by one, who were sworn and testified for the prosecution and the defendant, drawing conclusions therefrom, he presented the same to the jury in a masterly manner, with candor and sincerity, and to such an extent that he received the plaudits of the audience.

Beyond all question it was one of the best arguments ever made in this county in a court of justice, and demonstrated the superb ability and eloquence of the speaker. Ignoring no facts, interspersed now and then with sarcasm and vituperation towards a few of the witnesses of the state, replete with pathos and facts, he convinced his hearers of the sincerity of his convictions and the innocence of John C. Watson. In making the final appeal for the defense Mr. Colby's argument consumed a little over five hours in delivery.

At the conclusion of his argument at 4:15 o'clock, court adjourned on account of the indisposition of Mr. Sawyer until 9 o'clock this morning, when he will begin the final plea for the state. And thus ended the tenth day of the trial of John C. Watson.—Nebraska City Press.

A RAILROAD WRECK.

A Calamity Which May Prove a Blessing In Disguise.

Save this and wait until Wednesday, October 18. The entire stock of a large wholesale clothing and shoe house, while enroute from New York to Chicago, was wrecked by fault of the railroad company. The shipper and the railroad company failed to agree as to the actual loss and the railroad company was forced to take the same and will turn it into money at once. The stock consists of $175,000 worth of fine men's, boys' and children's clothing and ladies' and gents' shoes. Part of this mammoth stock has been shipped to Plattsmouth, Neb., and removed to the large store room in Golding's building, three doors east of Bank of Cass county, on Main street. As the building has only been leased for four days, everything must go rapidly. This great railroad wreck sale of fine clothing and ladies' and gentlemen's shoes will commence Wednesday, October 18, in the large store room in Golding's building, on Main street, and continue until Saturday night, October 21. Below we quote a few prices to show what extraordinary bargains we offer:

Another Kensington Tea.

Mrs. C. C. Parmele gave her fourth Kensington tea yesterday afternoon, entertaining twelve lady friends most delightfully. The beautiful parlors were made more beautiful by a profuse display of cut flowers and graceful vines. The tea table was especially attractive with pink roses on ferns. The hostess presided, and skillfully cooked dainties on the chafing dish before her were a part of a delicious luncheon.

During the afternoon the ladies were given little booklets containing the names of the books in the old testament skillfully transposed and it took long guessing to translate them into the original. Mrs. J. L. Root proved the most successful and received the enormous bunch of American Beauty roses which was given as the prize.

Mrs. Parmele proved herself an adept at entertaining and her many friends will long remember her elegant hospitality.

A "KENSINGTON" TEA PARTY.

Mrs. Parmele Entertains a Number of Her Lady Friends.

Mrs. C. C. Parmele has been entertaining her almost four hundred friends with a series of Kensington teas that have been most delightful social functions and thoroughly enjoyed by her invited guests. Wednesday afternoon about thirty-five ladies were entertained, Mrs. A. E. Cass and Mrs. T. M. Patterson assisting the hostess. The parlors were decorated with cosmos—pink and white; the reception room and library were most beautiful with pink roses and trailing asparagus. The dainty tea tables, eight in number, were lovely with china, cut glass and souvenir rosebuds. The name cards bearing the monogram of the hostess were also treasured souvenirs. The elaborate luncheon was served in courses and was discussed with much favorable comment from the guests.

An amusing feature of the afternoon was a sewing contest. Mrs. Parmele produced a pile of tea towels, announcing that prizes would be given to the swiftest sewer, also for the best workmanship. Mrs. Wise captured the prize for completing her work first. Mrs. Streight, Mrs. Livingston and Miss Baker were the successful contestants for the best hemmed towels. The prizes were fancy candles and beautiful wrought iron candle sticks, and the recipients were quite objects of envy to their less fortunate competitors.

Mrs. Parmele will entertain again this afternoon.

Too Late.

It is one of the attributes of a good master that he knows how to say things in a way to make them remembered. During my second year at a medical college (says a doctor) I had a class-mate whom it would not be uncharitable to call a dullard. One of the professors was in the habit of taking the boys unawares, and quizzing them. He said to this fellow one day: "How much is a dose of croton oil?" "A teaspoonful," was the ready reply. The professor made no comment, and the fellow soon realized that he had made a mistake. After a quarter of an hour he said: "Professor, I want to change my answer to that question." "It's too late, Mr. —," responded the professor, looking at his watch. "Your patient's been dead now for at least fourteen minutes."

Facts Told by Eyes.

It is said that the health of the brunette type of eye is, as a rule, superior to that of the blonde type. Black eyes usually indicate good powers of physical endurance. Dark blue eyes are most common in persons of delicate, refined or effeminate natures, and generally show weak health.—Pittsburg Post.

Bicycle Protection in Transit.
