

A REPUBLICAN VICTORY

Old Cass Still Remains in the Republican Column.

Enthusiasts Only Elect Two on the County Ticket—Paul Jensen Receives a Large Majority in Both Counties—Cox is Elected Commissioner in the Second District.

The election is over. This is a fact that nearly every one is glad to note, but there are some men who are not feeling as well today as they were before election. However, the result of the election in Cass county, considering the fact that fusion of the opposition forces was to contend with, is very satisfactory to the republicans—having elected all the county ticket with the exception of two—sheriff and county superintendent.

In this city the election was very quiet, but there seems to have been a still hunt going on, as the vote was quite large—almost every democratic voter having cast his ballot. In the Fourth ward there were some ten republican voters who were registered not voting.

There were probably more scratched tickets cast than at any former election. Judge Ramsey was scratched in all of the wards, while some of the republicans received like treatment.

In Stove Creek precinct Douglass' majority was only three and Barton's majority was twenty-five. This has formerly been a republican precinct by about seventy. But Barton's home precinct, Greenwood, did nobly by him. It is counted as a democratic precinct, but he received a majority of twenty-nine. His neighbor precinct, Salt Creek, also gave him a good majority—19.

James Robertson distinguished himself with his ability to get votes, his majority being 482.

Paul Jensen, for district judge, made the best run of any republican on the ticket, outside of Mr. Robertson, his majority being 464. In Otoe county his majority is given as 240, bringing it up to about 700 in the two counties.

In the city the republicans elected the two constables—John Murray and J. H. Denson and one justice of the peace—Joseph S. Phebus.

The assessors elected were as follows:

First ward—C. E. Withrow, republican.

Second ward—P. E. Ruffner, democrat.

Third ward—Charles S. Twies, republican.

Fourth ward—Henry Ofo, democrat.

Fifth ward—Geo. C. Covatt, democrat.

The statement of the vote of the county cannot be given in full today on account of the incompleteness of the unofficial returns from several of the precincts, but will appear tomorrow. The majorities given the several candidates, as far as known, were as follows: Reese, 77; Jensen, 464; Houseworth, 81; Barton, 64; Robertson, 482; Wheeler, 228; Smith, 221; Hilton, 400; Douglass, 48; Cox (commissioner), 172. It is known that Cass is elected corner, but the returns are incomplete.

A Pleasant Meeting.

The young people's society of the Presbyterian church met at the home of Miss Laura Gault last evening. After the regular business of the society was transacted the remainder of the evening was spent in games and music. On the walls were found various conundrums which puzzled even the best guessers. Each one present was furnished with a card and requested to draw some specie of the animal kingdom. These drawings proved the memory picture of the majority of the artists to be very crude.

Refreshments having been served, the company was favored with two solos by Miss Mignon Christian of Ashland, after which the young people departed, feeling that the evening had been one of both pleasure and profit.

Death of a Good Woman.

Mrs. Bingman, mother of Mrs. A. L. Timblin, died last evening at the residence of her daughter, in the western part of the city, after an illness of about a week, aged 70 years. She had only been a resident of this city for a few months, but in that time had formed a large circle of friends who will learn with sorrow of her death. She was the mother of five children, all of whom survive her. The remains were taken to Louisville, Cass county, for interment.—Nebraska City News.

A Child's Narrow Escape.

Barbara, the two-year-old daughter of J. C. Ptak and wife, residing on Granite and Fourth streets, came near losing her life last evening from the effects of drinking some gasoline. Mrs. Ptak was cleaning a stove with gasoline and left a bottle of the fluid sitting on the stove while she attended to one of the other children. During her absence the little girl picked up the bottle and swallowed some of the contents, with the result that she nearly lost her life. A doctor was called and after working with her some time announced that she was out of danger, but she was quite sick this morning from the effects. Mrs. Ptak was badly frightened.

An entire span of the bridge went out, both ends having rotted off. Mr. Ryckler was in the city today to secure counsel.

Scrivens Fire Soon Stopped.

A fire was discovered in F. J. Morgan's clothing store about two o'clock this morning, and the ringing of the fire bell brought out the fire department none too soon to prevent a serious conflagration. Apparently a box, filled with sawdust, which was sitting near the stove, and used as a spittoon, had caught fire and smoldered for a time, finally burning through the floor it fell onto a box of rubbish in the cellar. There the fire spread and caught to the joists, and was burning briskly when discovered. It was soon subdued after the water was turned on. The damage to the stock from smoke was considerable.

Winter in the South.

The season approaches when one's thoughts turn toward a place where the inconveniences of a northern winter may be escaped. No section of this country offers such ideal spots as the Gulf coast on the line of the Louisville & Nashville railroad between Mobile and New Orleans. It possesses a mild climate, pure air, even temperature and facilities for hunting and fishing enjoyed by no other section. Accommodations for visitors are first-class and can be secured at moderate prices. The L. & N. Ry is the only line by which it can be reached in through cars from the north. Through car schedules to all points in Florida by this line are also perfect. Write for folders etc. to G. B. HORNER, D. P. A., St. Louis.

Power of the Tides Used in France.

The tides are now used for generating power at Pont l'Abbe, Finis-terre, France, during fourteen hours per day. At flood tide the water flows through a canal two and a half miles inland into a pond in the rear of the power house, and returns to the sea at ebb tide. The total fall is seven and a half feet, and eighty horse-power is generated by means of turbines. Means for applying this method of generating power to various industries have been considered.

TEA

Grown for the Use of the Chinese Royal Family Only.

New York Sun: The French have been telling of the ancient desire of the Chinese government to keep within the empire seven hills that are right on the edge of the country. The fact came out a while ago while China and France were rectifying the boundary between the French colony of Tonkin and the Chinese territory on the east. In the course of this work the French representatives readily acquiesced in the request of the Chinese that the Seven Tea Mountains, as they are called, be left on the Chinese side of the boundary. On these hills is grown the tea, par excellence, that is exclusively used on the imperial table at Peking. The method of cultivating it has been religiously handed down from ancient times. The tea plant grown on the Seven Mountains is grown only from the seed which is gathered in the fall and kept through the winter in sand. In the spring small pots filled with mellow earth are placed in the earth, and a dozen grains are planted in each pot. When the young shoots are seven or eight inches high they are planted on the slopes of the hills, which are laid out in terraces. The plants are covered with straw in winter and not a weed is permitted to grow among them. The flavor of the tea grown on these hills is regarded as particularly fine, and the imperial family and the functionaries of the court never drink anything else. Perhaps they do not consume all of the tea, for the variety P'u-er, the name of the town near the hills, figures in the Chinese markets to a small extent, and is sold at a princely figure. It may be, however, that it does not come from the tea fields that supply the Peking court.

LEHNHOFF'S

The New Fever.

The prospect is good that Platts mouth is to have a genuine dose of Cinematographic fever, the same as has been engaged by cities of our size the past few years. The symptoms are generally a breaking out around the mouth, of "Have you seen it?" followed by either "No, but I think I shall this evening," or "Yes, and I'm going again." The engagement of the famous Kline's Lumiere Cinematographe will be at the opera house three evenings, commencing Monday, Nov. 13.

Every film they carry is a gem. This big machine is new in the west; there are perhaps less than a dozen in this country, and they are a revelation in sound and life-like motions. The pictures are very large; the result is a clear and distinct picture taken with a camera that cannot lie, showing how, when and where our boys fell, who of the officers were to blame, if any, also correcting many false statements of the press, making just the sort of an entertainment to please the most intellectual classes, exactly what Plattsmouth people take kindly to and enjoy. Opera house three evenings, commencing Monday, Nov. 13. Prices 10, 20 and 30 cents. Seats on sale at usual place.

Pacific Steamship Floated.

After five months' work the Peninsular and Oriental steamship China of 7,899 tons burden, which went ashore at Perim in the Red Sea in March last, has been floated and brought into port. She went on the rocks, tearing up her double bottom, but the salvage tugs had pumps capable of discharging 14,000 tons of water an hour. This is said to be the largest salvage operation undertaken by English shipowners in many years.

In New Britain.

In the island of New Britain a man must not speak to his mother-in-law. Not only is speech forbidden to his relative, but she must be avoided; and if by any chance the lady is met, the son-in-law must hide himself or cover his face.

A Journey of 550 Years.

A well known astronomer calculates that if an express train running 250 miles an hour day and night, without stopping, kept it up for 35 years, it would just about complete the diameter of the circle made by the earth in its yearly journey around the sun. Now let this immense circle be represented by the lady's finger ring, and taking that as the standard of measurement, the nearest fixed star would be a mile distant, and the farthest visible through the telescope at least twenty miles.
