

CHASING REBEL CABINET

Lawton Believed to Have Run Them Into the Mountains.

Campaign Is Severe on the American Troops—Officers and Men Reported to Be Marching on Half Naked, Subsisting on the Country—Court to Fix Blame for Loss of Charleston.

MANILA, Nov. 21.—6:05 p. m.—The whereabouts of Generals Lawton and Young is becoming as mysterious as Aguinaldo's. The belief is beginning to grow at Manila that General Lawton has struck the trail of the insurgent "government," and is pursuing the ministers into the Binaua mountains. It has been his ambition to capture the Filipino leaders and he and General Young believe that a cavalry brigade, living on the country, could run them down to any part of the island.

One vague report brought by Spanish prisoners, is that Aguinaldo and others were nearly surrounded by Americans soon after the insurgent chief left Tarrac, but he escaped through the lines in peasant's clothes. Officers and soldiers arriving at Cabanatuan from General Lawton's force describe the campaign as one of great hardships. Many men dropping out sick were left at various towns without adequate supplies and attendance, some of them making their way back across the terrible roads.

A number of horses were dying and many of the soldiers and even some of the officers were marching on, half naked, their clothes having been torn to pieces in getting through the jungles. Some of them were reduced almost to breechcloths and hundreds were barefooted, their shoes being worn out, and all were living on any sort of provisions. Bread was rare and caribou meat and bananas were the staples.

General Lawton foresaw that the campaign would involve such hardships, but he considered it the quickest and cheapest way of ending the war.

The last number of the Independence, published at Tarrac, the day before the Americans entered the place, contains a despondent valedictory entitled "Adieu!" The tone of the article showed that the writer considered the game was played out. He said:

"Obliged by circumstances, we have found it necessary to interrupt with this number the pleasant labor of defending our ideals and interests. We take leave of the public and our readers with grief most profound and bitterness most cruel."

The paper also contains "news" illustrating in what a Munchausen world the Filipino leaders have tried to keep the people. A Washington dispatch, dated September 14, described Senator Hoar as opposing the McEary resolution in the senate that day.

Court to Fix the Blame. MANILA, Nov. 21.—5:40 p. m.—A court of inquiry will be appointed to inquire into the loss of the Charleston and any subsequent action will depend upon the fixing of the responsibility for the disaster, which is dependent on the court's findings.

The United States gunboat Helena arrived at Camaguin during the night of November 12. The watchers of the wrecked cruiser saw its lights and thought there was a fire upon a nearby island, whereupon they began to take steps to help those endangered, but as the searchlights of the Helena communicated its presence, the village where the men of the Charleston were located rang with cheers. A party from the Helena and Charleston visited the stranded vessel November 13. It was found that the bows were clear and the aft bridge submerged, making it doubtful whether anything can be salvaged. The Helena left for Kimpaguin November 14, but heavy weather obliged it to return to Camaguin for shelter until the 19th. It signaled the Baltimore at Lingayen last night.

The crew of the Charleston first landed on a small island near a town, not knowing what kind of a reception they would meet from the natives. When the Americans learned the natives were friendly they occupied the town's nipa huts and the inhabitants supplied them with beavers, rice and fruits. In order to guard against possible attack from the mainland, detachments of the Charleston's crew patrolled the island and a post was established on a hill.

A few of the men experienced slight attacks of fever, owing to exposure. The Zamboanga coast is carefully patrolled by war ships in order to prevent the escape of Aguinaldo.

It is believed the Baltimore has proceeded north to receive the American prisoners from the Filipinos.

A Pleasant Party. From Wednesday's Daily. In spite of the inclement weather of last evening a large party of young people assembled at the home of Jessie Rhoades to help that young lady celebrate her eleventh birthday in a way that will long be remembered. The evening was passed most pleasantly with games and music. Mrs. Rhoades was assisted by Miss Florence Martin in entertaining the young people. After refreshments were served they departed to their homes wishing their friend many happy birthdays.

HAYWARD IS NO BETTER.

Condition of the Stricken Man Shows No Improvement as the Hours Go By.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., Nov. 22.—Senator Hayward's condition is gradually growing worse and his physician is considerably worried over the case. The paralysis is extending and there are fears that other organs may be involved. Senator Hayward's mental condition is the cause of much anxiety by his friends. His mind is not at all clear and he speaks with difficulty.

His condition today is not much changed from last evening. He was restless and uncomfortable at intervals throughout the night and his pulse and temperature were slightly above normal this morning. It cannot be determined whether or not inflammation exists about the lesion in the brain.

Boss Robbers' Bold Escape. TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 21.—State Bank Examiner Breidenthal returned from Parker, Lin county, today, and told of the bold escape of the two safebreakers who, Thursday night, bound and gagged Cashier Slaughter of the Parker bank, destroyed the safe with dynamite and secured $1,800.

The marshals of the surrounding towns were notified and a posse chased the robbers for two days. The robbers boldly entered La Cygne and after securing a meal, boarded an outgoing freight. The train crew had been warned of the proximity of the men, but contented themselves by putting them off the train.

Later the robbers encountered Postmaster Newbold and another man, two of the posse. Newbold's partner became frightened, fired his gun in the air and fled. The robbers seized Newbold before he could shoot and taking his Winchester from him, escaped to the hills and finally got clear away, notwithstanding the hills were surrounded by dozens of armed men.

LETTER FROM CALIFORNIA.

Cade Rogers Writes of His Trip to the Pacific Coast.

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Nov. 19.—To the Editor of THE NEWS: Last fall I was stranded in northern Iowa by sickness, where I recovered by the tender care of kindest friends. I then rendered a couple of abandoned claims against the government, which were settled last August satisfactorily.

In the early part of October steam carried me from Council Bluffs across the western plains. Striking the mountains at Pueblo, Colo., I journeyed up the deep canyon of the Arkansas river to Leadville, giving me a bird's eye view of California Gulch, where I worked over forty years ago. There night set in, and I was again taken sick. Fortunately, there was a doctor on board, and under his care I soon recovered. We went down the western slope, and diving through a couple of long, dark tunnels, soon emerged into the valley and rushed northward for Salt Lake City. Not far to our left lay the spot where the "Mountain Meadow Massacre" was committed by old Brigham's destroying angels, John D. Lee and others. After reaching the city, I laid over ten hours and took in the sights. By street-car, buggy and on foot I visited old Brigham's church, temple and tabernacle—the latter having sufficient room to seat 12,000 people. Some sculptor chiseled old Brigham's likeness out of stone, and it stands on a high foundation in the middle of the cross street, with his hand extended as though he were addressing a large audience. Well, enough of him—he gets close attention paid to his wants below.

Next to Ogden City, forty miles north; thence westward over the long and lonely desert, crossing the Sierra Nevada, we soon came into the Piute Indian country, where the train stopped twenty minutes for refreshments. Many redskins were "round-about" and attracted the attention of hundreds of passengers. Being quite well supplied with pocket change, I scattered it broadcast to bring the hundreds of smaller Indians nearer to the train, so the eastern tender-foes could get a better view of them. Such scrambling was never seen, and passengers were well-pleased with their performance.

Soon after we reached the fine California valleys, and there appeared to be no end to the fruit ranches and wheat fields. For some time people have been plowing and seeding, and rain is just setting in in these parts. All grass is green and looks fine; flowers are in bloom, and all looks to me both lovely and strange. There are many large cities and towns in these valleys, containing from twenty-five to one hundred and fifty thousand inhabitants. Sacramento and Los Angeles are the largest I have visited. The latter city lays back twenty miles from the coast. This little town, Santa Monica, lays near the beach and is a great resort for eastern pleasure-seekers. My first stroll upon the beach was near the water's edge, where small waves came gently near my feet. But soon a large wave rolled in and caught me about the knees. Hundreds laughed at my scratch; but I escaped without a scratch; then I—

Wandered on the pebbly strand To call the toys that found me lay, But as I picked them in my hand, I threw them one by one away. —CADD RODGERS.

A JURY IS SELECTED.

Very Little Progress Made in the Harris Murder Case.

Attorneys for the Prosecution and Defense Give the Jury a Brief Outline of Each Side of the Case—H. G. Beardley of Elmwood the First Witness for the State.

From Wednesday's Daily. The time of the district court up until 10:30 this morning was occupied in securing a jury to try the case of State vs. John W. Harris.

Attorney Gering for the defense very closely examined every man called, but finally waived the peremptory challenges of the defense, and the following jury was accepted: Joseph Pittman, Robert Crawford, J. H. Becker, D. McNurlin, Horace Allison, Chris Hanson, T. T. Wilkinson, C. S. Twiss, T. J. Thomas, J. O. Webber, Ira Searles and L. B. Egenberger.

County Attorney Root outlined the case of the prosecution, while Mr. Gering did the same for the defense, after which the state called its first witness, Undertaker H. G. Beardley of Elmwood.

At this juncture Mr. Gering entered a lengthy objection to the introduction of any evidence in the case, on the ground that the constitution of the United States provided that no person should be tried for murder or any other infamous crime, without first having been indicted by a grand jury. This is the first time that this point has been raised in a trial court, and it was argued by the attorney at some length. Mr. Root replied briefly after the noon recess, after which Judge Ramsey overruled the objection.

Mr. Beardley then testified as to having handled the body of Jones and as to an autopsy having been held by Drs. Soetger and Altou.

Dr. Soetger then testified, describing the wound which caused death, and his testimony was corroborated by Dr. Altou. Dr. Soetger also produced the bullet which inflicted the fatal wound, and the same was placed in evidence.

Race of An Iron Horse.

The Burlington's eastbound fast mail train made a record breaking run between Burlington, Ia., and Chicago, Tuesday morning. When the train left Burlington it was thirty-six minutes late, but it was pulled into Chicago on time. The distance is 206 miles and was covered in 209 minutes, including all stops. The run of eighty-three miles from Mendota to Chicago was made in seventy-six minutes—the best time ever made between those points. The forty-six miles between Mendota and Aurora was covered in thirty-nine minutes. Nearly all the way there was a heavy head wind and the train was unusually heavy, having a big lot of foreign mail.

Conductor Cone was in charge of the train, which was pulled by the famous engine, No. 1,592. Samuel Dove held the throttle and Charles Shanahan handled the shovel. Deducing the time for mail and water, the average rate of speed of the train was about eighty miles an hour. During some spurts it is believed that a speed of ninety miles an hour was attained.—State Journal.
