Soldiers On a Transport Bail the Boat to Keep From Sinking.

Part of the Crew Desert at Honolulu and the Officers and Privates Are Called Upon to Battle Against Drowning For Eleven Days and Nights—All On Board Pressed Into Service.

MANILA, Nov. 28.—8:15 p.m.—When the transport Manuauae anchored in Manila bay this morning, thirty-three days from San Francisco, there were several feet of water in its hold and 400 grimy, greasy, hungry, exhausted soldiers and sailors who had been passing buckets of water since November 17, night and day. First Assistant Engineer Dunlevy was under arrest, according to Lieutenant Colonel Webb Hayes' official report, the chief engineer would also have been under arrest if there had been anyone to replace him.

The colonel's report also declares that the captain of the vessel told him that the only thing which brought them through was the fact that the men were greenhorns and failed to realize their danger, while experienced seamen would have deserted the ship and taken to the boats in mid-ocean.

The Manuauae was a chartered ship flying the British flag. It carried three companies of the Thirty-first Infantry. I belongs to a firm of which Senator Perkins is alleged to be a junior member. The officers say the firm bought it for $45,000 and they assert efforts were made to sell it to the government for $150,000. It started from San Francisco, accompanied by the transport Pekin, which carried the remainder of the regiment, and encountered heavy seas to Honolulu without accident.

After starting it developed that the ship was undermanned and soldiers had to be detailed to act as firemen, coal-passers and waiters and to do other work. Before reaching Honolulu the crew concluded that the ship was not safe and the majority agreed to desert. Though they were closely watched many of them succeeded in getting away and the Manuauae left Honolulu with less than half its crew.

The captain of the transport told Colonel Hayes on November 17 that the vessel had sprung a leak and an investigation resulted in finding several feet of water in the hold.

Officers Work With the Men.

The steam pumps were tried, but failed to work and there were no hand pumps on board. However, forty-six buckets were found, others were improvised and the soldiers were employed in working the ship were organized into five shifts, and, stripped and forming lines, they began hauling, the officers working with the men, passing the buckets which were sent up to the deck by a windlass. The longest time a shift could stand was two hours, and often the period was not longer than half an hour. The hauling continued until the ship anchored here.

The same day the leak was discovered the machinery collapsed and the electric lighting plant and evaporating, distilling and refrigerating apparatus failed to work. There were no lamps and the few candles found were exhausted after a few days. During the last week of the passage the Manuauae was in utter darkness at night. It had been rolling in heavy seas all the way, but November 22 it encountered a typhoon and pitched and tossed alarmingly.

Officers Hold a Council.

The Pekin became separated from the Manuauae in the storm, the water rose rapidly and the hauling force was doubted, but the buckets gradually smashed and barrels and boxes were substituted for them, the men working in darkness, planks and pieces of iron shafting being violently washed among them. The firemen could only feed the fires by being lifted on the shoulders of the other men, through water waist deep. The typhoon lasted two days and a half and in the midst of it the engines stopped. The officers then held a council and found there were 440 persons on board with the boat accommodations for 213.

In the meantime the men below, ignorant of their extreme peril, were passing buckets and singing "What the hell do we care!" while the ship rolled helplessly on the ocean with hatches closed. The heat was intense until the typhoon had passed and the Pekin, which had retraced its course about seventy miles, came alongside the Manuauae, which was rolling so heavily that the soldiers in the hold could at each roll see the Pekin through the hatches overhead.

Colonel James S. Pettitt, commander of the Thirty-first volunteer regiment, ordered the Manuauae to proceed to Guam, and await relief, but the captain demurred, the officers say, because the government was renting the ship for $500 per day. Throughout the remainder of the voyage the engines failed frequently and the ship would roll for a few hours while the engines were repairing.

The officers say the behavior of the troops was beyond praise. For days they worked in the dark, suffering in the hold, sometimes in water up to their shoulders and planks washing about in a manner dangerous to life and limb. The officers took the lead in hauling and encouraged the men. The captain of the ship promised the men 25 cents a day for hauling, but he now proposes to pay them $1.50.

HAYWARD MORE RESTLESS

Senator Seems to Be Growing Slowly but Gradually Worse.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., Nov. 28.—The following is Dr. Whitton's bulletin of the condition of Senator Hayward at noon today:

"Senator Hayward passed rather a restless night and is still restless today. His temperature is 99.5, pulse 85 and regular, and respiration 24 and still intermittent. His mental condition and paralysis are unchanged. He is less inclined to sleeping in the day time."

From the foregoing statement there is nothing to be drawn that would indicate any improvement in the patient's condition in the last twenty-four hours.

If there is any change in Senator Hayward's condition since noon it is for the worse. He was restless all day and his condition tonight shows no improvement in this respect. The paralyzed members are not improved in the least and it is with difficulty that he can utter an intelligible word. He takes very little nourishment. He has lost a great deal of flesh since his present illness commenced, a little less than three weeks ago. His physical vitality seems to be slowly declining. Dr. Whitton posted the following bulletin at 7 p. m.:

"Senator Hayward passed a restless day. His temperature is 99.8, pulse, 87, and respiration 22. There is no change for the better."

Bryan Will Stay in Texas.

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 28.—W. J. Bryan and wife arrived here today to spend the winter in this city. They are the guests of former Governor Hogz temporarily, but will shortly rent a private residence for the winter. Mr. Bryan said he had come to Texas to spend the winter, to rest up and prepare for the campaign of 1900, which he expected would be a very hard one, and that he would only make few speeches in Texas during his stay.

ALVO ITEMS.

George Oliver has started a confectionery store in Chas. Jordan's building and is doing nicely.

The stock of goods is being put in the new furniture store and harness shop, and the proprietors will soon be ready for business.

The young men here have a new set of boxing gloves and spend a great deal of time practicing the manly art, and as a result we will probably soon have some young Jeffries and Fitzsimmons.

The Epworth League have arranged for a course of five lectures to be given during the winter. The lecturers they have secured, combined with the low price of the season tickets, insure a large attendance.

Several young men from the neighborhood are attending the Weeping Water academy this winter, and all have a good word to say for that school. The teachers are thorough and earnest workers and the associations are good.

Miss Bertha Ryan who, for the past five years, has been doing missionary work in India, returned home two weeks ago, and lectured here in the M. E. church, Monday evening Nov. 27, on her experience there. Her talk was very interesting and instructive.

John Summers met with a very painful accident Monday morning. He was helping shell corn and while making some repairs around the sheller, got his leg caught in the cog wheel, which tore out a large piece of flesh above the knee. Dr. Muir dressed the wound and made him as easy as possible.

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with typhoid fever, that ran into pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it, and am now well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvelous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for throat and lung trouble. Regular sizes 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottles free at F. G. Fricke & Co's. drug store; every bottle guaranteed.

Notice to Contractors.

Sealed bids will be received at the county clerk's office at Plattsmouth, Neb., until 12 o'clock (noon) Saturday, December 2, 1899, for the building of all bridges for Cass county, Nebraska, for the year 1900; bids to be accompanied by plans and specifications and a certified check for $500.

The board of commissioners reserve the right to reject any or all bids.

Mrs. J. R. Cox went to Council Bluffs this morning and Mr. Cox and Helen will go this evening, where they will spend Thanksgiving.

County Judge Spurlock this afternoon united in marriage James M. Figner and Miss Louisa Jane Ivey, both residing near Union.

William Case departed this evening for Blair, where he will spend Thanksgiving with friends. Mr. Case is on the jury and will return Friday in time for court.

G. W. Noble of Lincoln, ex county superintendent of Cass county, is in the city. Mr. Noble is now state agent for the New England Mutual Life Insurance company.

T. C. Ehrman departed this morning for Marshall, Mo., where he will visit his mother a few days. She is eight-one years of age and Mr. Ehrman has not seen her for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. B. own of Milan, Ill., who have been spending the winter with their son, F. P. Brown, were called home this morning on account of the serious illness of their son, Herman.

William Murray, one of the Mur grain dealers, is building a dump elevator near the Missouri Pacific depot. The elevator will have a capacity of about four cars and will be the means of bringing considerable grain to this market.

Policeman Archer last evening fined W. A. Thacker, "Judy" Julius and John Lloyd $1 and costs. These are the young men who were arrested for disturbing the peace by fighting near the A. O. U. W. hall yesterday afternoon.

Colonel Daniel Burris was in the city today enroute to Shawnee, Okl., where he will spend several months visiting a sister, whom he has not seen for over twenty years. He will visit other points in Oklahoma and return to Nebraska in March.

Mrs. D. S. Guild departed this evening for Philadelphia and West Point. At the latter place she will visit her son George, and witness a foot ball game between the Princeton and West Point teams. Mr. Guild will accompany her as far as Chicago.

Jacob Koch went to Stella this afternoon, where he will take part in "Aberdeen" under the direction of Lawrence Russell, tomorrow evening. Miss Dora Swearingen will also take part in the play, having been down there several days assisting in the rehearsals.

In glancing over the program of the fourth annual session of the Western Colorado Educational association we find that Miss Myrtle Porter of Monte Vista has an important part on the same. She is to discuss the subject, "The Moral Development of the Pupil in the High School."

Deputy District Clerk Wallace Carter was busy today looking for the fellow who gave him a spurious coin of the denomination of $1. He is the clerk of the A. O. U. W. lodge and collected dues from a number of members yesterday and in so doing got this "funny" dollar. It is understood that there are a number of counterfeit coins in circulation in the city, but they are quite crude, and if a little precaution is taken they are easily detected.

ROMANCE OF A TOOTH.

Involving Filial Duty, Gold, Love and Gunpowder.

Replacing human teeth with successful results has advanced so far beyond the tentative stage that Dr. Kirk, dean of the dental college at the University of Pennsylvania, has offered himself as a sacrifice to science by voluntarily having one of his teeth extracted and replaced for the purpose of noting the practical results of so painful an operation. What is claimed by the advocates of this new idea in dental surgery is that decayed teeth may be pulled out, filled, filed, and polished up and put back in the socket from which they were drawn, where they will grow again and as serviceable. Though the return of the tooth to the place from which it was extracted is an entire novelty, yet in the latter part of the fifteenth century it was not unusual for a wealthy person who lost a tooth to purchase one of the same build from another person and have it inserted in the mouth as soon as his own was removed. That this operation was frequently successful is shown by the well-known story of John Hall, the novelist. Mr. Hall was engaged to Miss Robbins, a very beautiful orphan girl, who lived on South Second street, below Dock creek, with her grandmother, who was in comfortable circumstances at the close of the American revolution. Mr. Hall was obliged to visit England, and in his nine months' absence Miss Robbins' income very materially decreased, owing to the fluctuations in real estate of that period. Her health failed, life itself seeming to depend upon her going to the country, but not a debt for rent could be collected, and the two ladies were literally without money. A dentist next door had always been friendly to them, and to him the granddaughter applied for advice. While waiting for him to finish with a patient having a front tooth extracted, the man said he would give $100 for one of Miss Robbins' front teeth. They dickered about the price, until finally he offered $200, and the tooth was extracted and immediately planted in the man's mouth. The dentist took the precaution of ascertaining that he lived in the city and was of good reputation, and all parties were content with the transaction. In the following October Mr. Hall returned from England, and immediately observed that Miss Robbins had lost a front tooth, whereupon her grandmother related the story of her filial devotion. Mr. Hall called upon the purchaser of the tooth, proposing to buy it from him at a considerable advance, but to this the purchaser would in no wise consent, upon which Mr. Hall struck him in the face and called him a coward. There were witnesses to the affront, so a challenge ensued, and they fought a duel with pistols in a vacant lot at Ninth and Arch streets, Philadelphia, was shown. Mr. Hall, it was said, fired too soon, the bullet striking the tooth in dispute and breaking it, leaving the root still in the jaw of the purchaser. Mr. Hall was a writer of fiction, some old volumes of his stories being still on the shelves of public libraries; but he did not mope his sweetheart, saying he could not allow any man to live with the tooth of his wife in his mouth.—Philadelphia Record.

Testimonial to Col. Bryan.

The American miners at Dawson City have sent to Col. William Jennings Bryan, who is now in Savannah, a magnificent and interesting testimonial. It is a gold watch chain made of gold nuggets, just as they were picked up in some of the running streams of the Klondike, or uncovered where streams once flowed. They are carefully fastened together in chain form, and the charm is a large nugget, nearly the size of a $20 gold piece, with one side smoothed off for the inscription, which is as follows:

Presented
By the Miners of the
"YUKON RIVER"
To Our Great Silver Champion:
COL. WILLIAM J. BRYAN,
Sept. 1, 1898.

The present to Mrs. Bryan is a miner's emblem of solid gold, and composed of a small spade crossed by a miner's pick. At the center of the crossing of the handles of the pick and spade are a gold nugget and a bucket tied there by a gold rope, while on the bowl of the spade are two small gold nuggets. Upon the bowl of the spade is this inscription: "Mrs. Wm. J. Bryan, Yukon, 1898."
