

DR. JONES BOUND OVER.

Attorneys For Both Sides Make Lengthy Arguments.

Doctor Furnishes a Bond For His Appearance In District Court—A. B. Smith Wins His Case—Constable McNurtin Successfully Lands Young Murphy At the Reformatory.

The arguments in the case of the State of Nebraska vs. Dr. Isaac D. Jones, begun yesterday, were not completed until about 11 o'clock this morning. The attorneys for both sides of the controversy made eloquent speeches to the court, outlining in detail the causes of the trouble between the two factions—license and anti-license—at South Bend, and H. D. Travis, for the defendant, talked at considerable length upon what he considered was the real motive, which prompted the complaining witness, William Brownell, in taking the course he did.

After briefly reviewing the testimony brought out on the trial, Justice Archer decided to bind the doctor over to the district court in the sum of $500. Frank Creamer and J. E. McGinnis attached their signatures to the bond. The court room was crowded with spectators throughout the proceedings, but no feature of a sensational character was developed.

The case wherein Doctor Jones is charged with abortion will come up for trial in Justice Archer's court on April 15.

Smith Wins His Case.

The case of Anselmo B. Smith vs. C. Lawrence Stull was decided by Judge Jensen this morning in favor of the plaintiff, in the sum of $73.85, with interest on the note in question from a certain date, amounting, in all, to about $81.

It is thought likely that the case will be appealed.

Avoca Divorce Case.

The divorce case of Anna Wilkinson vs. John Wilkinson occupied nearly the entire day in district court. The plaintiff in this action alleges, among other things, that the defendant has on various occasions been extremely cruel to her, and for this reason asks for a separation. S. M. Chapman and C. E. Tefft appeared for the plaintiff and Matthew Gering conducted the defense.

B. C. Marquardt, W. H. Kette, Joseph Graham, John Wilkinson, Maud Wilkinson and several other Avoca people were in attendance.

The Question of Alimony was Being Discussed as THE NEWS goes to press.

Suit on a Promissory Note.

The suit of Brenner vs. Stam, on a promissory note, was on trial this afternoon before Justice Archer and a jury composed as follows: C. L. Marshall, John Crandall, L. B. Egenberger and D. M. Jones. Both parties to the action live in the vicinity of Weeping Water.

Attorneys G. E. Hager of Lincoln, assisted by C. S. Pulk, appear for the plaintiff, and A. N. Sullivan is looking after the interests of the defendant.

As THE NEWS goes to press the case is still in progress.

Young Murphy Recaptured.

Constable Dick McNurtin of Weeping Water, who started from this city one day last week for the Kearney reform school with Joseph Murphy, evidently had a lively time before he succeeded in landing the little fellow at his proper destination.

It appears that the boy jumped from the train while it was in rapid motion, near Dorchester, and the constable, not caring to follow him just then, waited until the train reached Friend, and then returned to the scene of the lad's wild leap. He secured the services of the town marshal at Dorchester, and together they started for the place where the boy had leaped from the train. On the way they met a man who had seen the boy, and he gave the direction he had taken. In the course of several hours, however, they found and again captured the lad, and he is now safely housed at the reformatory.

Mr. McNurtin says he has taken six boys to Kearney, but young Murphy gave him more trouble than all the others combined.

Was Pleasantly Surprised.

About forty members of the Rebeck lodge called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Petersen last evening, the object of their visit being to celebrate Mrs. Petersen's birthday anniversary. She had been kept in ignorance of the plans made for the affair, and it was consequently a very agreeable surprise to her.

The evening was very pleasantly spent listening to vocal and instrumental music, social conversation and other amusements. A fine luncheon was also prepared and most heartily enjoyed by the guests.

The party did not disperse until a late hour and every one expressed themselves as having had a jolly social time.

Miss Horlocker Acquitted.

HASTINGS, Neb., March 30.—(Special to THE NEWS.)—Viola Horlocker, the young lady who has been on trial for attempting to poison Mrs. C. Morey, has been acquitted, after a long and intensely interesting trial—the jury returning a verdict to that effect at 11:45 this morning.

"Fill up the beakers to the brim; there is life in every drop," was written by a man whose lamp of life has long since ceased to burn. If this man had stayed on earth long enough to have called at the Plattsmouth Magnolia infirmary he would have been today healthy, wealthy and wise.

A Plattsmouth Product.

The following lines, from the Omaha Bee of last Sunday, are wrongly credited to "An Omaha 11-year old," as they were the production of Leon, the son of G. F. S. Burton of Plattsmouth. "Below the verse," says the Bee, "was a drawing of birds with muffers about their necks."

Sing a song of springtime; Hear the blizzard blow— Four and twenty blackbirds Sitting in a row. When the spring had opened They didn't do a thing; Could you expect a frozen bird To sing a little sing?

Some Good Advice.

It always pays to patronize home people. Money sent away for clothing, dry goods, groceries, house furnishings, etc., seldom returns. But money spent at home circulates among home people, and in a thousand ways benefits each individual member of the community. Among the business people this applies with special force. We all depend on each other, and if we send away for things we can buy at home, we should not complain if our customers do the same.—Nebraska City News.

HONOR NEW MEMBERS.

Ladies' Auxiliary of the M. W. A. Gives a Banquet.

Representatives from nearly every Woodman Camp in the County Are in Attendance—Imperial Mystic Legion Holds a Good Meeting—A Pleasant Birthday Party.

From Thursday's Daily.

The Modern Woodmen of this city had a fine time at their regular meeting at their hall in the Fitzgerald building last night. Representatives from nearly every camp in the county were present, together with over 150 members of the local camp. Fifteen were initiated, and the initiatory team was at its best—many favorable comments being heard in regard to their work, especially that of the excellent chief forester, Harry Barthold.

After the business of the lodge session had been disposed of, the members repaired to the vacant store room on the lower floor of the building, where the Ladies' Auxiliary, known as the Royal Neighbors, had made extensive preparations for a big banquet in honor of the new members. Two large tables, extending the entire length of the room, had been loaded down with good things to eat, consisting of oysters, salads, pickles, fruits, buns, coffee, cake, and other good things too numerous to mention. It is only proper to say that the repast was most heartily enjoyed, and the ladies were complimented upon the thorough manner in which they had planned for the affair.

The local camp of Woodmen is enjoying a remarkable degree of prosperity, having added thirty-four members to its list during the last three meetings, and now has twenty-six applications on hand—and all this without an outside solicitor. The order throughout the county is also prosperous. There are sixteen camps in the county, embracing a membership of almost 1,800, and every lodge heard from reports numerous late additions.

Initiate New Members.

The meeting of the Imperial Mystic Legion at the Workman hall last evening, was a very interesting one. Two new applicants, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Moore, were duly initiated into the mysteries of the order, and they are now full-fledged Mystics.

Several visiting Mystics from Pacific Junction were present and gave testimony to the benefits of the order, and cordially invited members to visit with their lodge.

After concluding the business of the session, the members were invited to partake of a fine supper, which had been prepared by the ladies.

The officers of this lodge are sparing no efforts to make the meetings interesting to the members, and with this end in view will arrange for special features as often as possible.

Juniors Entertained.

In response to invitations sent out by Misses Ethel Dutton and Mae Baird, some twenty-eight of the older members of the Junior Christian Endeavor society of the Presbyterian church, gathered at the home of Miss Winifred Unruh on Tuesday evening. Various games had been planned by the leaders for the amusement of the young people, in which all joined most heartily. Mina Herold favored the company with several selections on the mandolin, after which they repaired to the dining room, where Mrs. Unruh, assisted by Miss Elith Buzzell, served sherbet and cake.

At ten o'clock the guests departed, thanking their hosts for their evening's enjoyment.

Insane Woman Wields a Knife.

Sheriff Wheeler, Jake Rummel and A. W. Magowan, who went down to Murray yesterday after Mrs. Cable, the insane woman, had quite a lively time before they succeeded in getting the unfortunate woman to this city. Upon reaching her home, some three miles southwest of Murray, they found that she had locked herself in a room. She had in her possession a dangerous looking butcher knife, together with several other instruments which she threatened to use if they did not leave the premises. However, the officers finally succeeded in getting into the room by removing the hinges on the door, and, fortunately, overpowered her before she could do any harm with her knife.

They brought her in about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and she was immediately examined by the board of insanity and pronounced insane. The sheriff, accompanied by Mrs. S. A. Davis, took her to the asylum at Lincoln this morning.

ATCHISON GLOBE SIGHTS.

Unless a man is a candidate, he does not believe in women registering. A man's right arm is stronger than his left because he uses it so much in lifting his hat to women. A pretty woman can look sympathetically at the happiest man in the world, and he will at once begin to feel that he has troubles. A woman can buy an inferior article in groceries, because a better is too expensive, and keep her contentment, but she can't do it in a dry goods store. Every man who practices hypocrisy should know that he is not fooling anyone. Other people know he is a hypocrite as well as he knows it himself. When a fool stays up half the night and blows in a lot of money he calls it "living," and points to his savings box to bed-early neighbor with contempt. A young man seems to be willing to make almost any sacrifice for the girl he loves, except to go home early and save her from a scolding next morning. Try THE NEWS a week—10c.

MURDOCK ITEMS.

Indiana's Pride in Its School House.

Indiana has three log schoolhouses—and no more. They are honorable relics of the days which saw the beginnings of our splendid public school system. The present is represented by thousands of well-constructed buildings, many of them so artistic as to be worthy of a place in the Paris Exposition gallery of photographs of educational structures. The state superintendent is sending pictures of many of the Indiana school buildings to the exposition, and the News has begun a series of reproductions of characteristic school houses throughout the state.—Indianapolis News (Ind.)

Cruel Shock to a Writer.

Margaret Deland, the writer, had a tale of woe which she told, to the great enjoyment of a small group, when she was here not long ago, to lecture before the Woman's club. Some one mentioned the last published of her books, "Old Chester Tales." "I rather like that book," she said pathetically, "like that a few days ago, when a young friend of mine complimented me on it. 'Oh, Mrs. Deland,' she said, 'I've just been reading your new book, 'Old Chester Tales.' I think they're delightful.'"—Worcester (Mass.) Gazette.

Major T. W. Symons, of the canal committee appointed by Governor Roosevelt, has contributed an article to the April Forum on "Canals from the Great Lakes to the Sea," which contains a vast amount of information upon this most important subject. In treating the question Major Symons asserts that the only practicable route for a canal from the great lakes to the Atlantic seaboard, entirely within the limits of the United States, is possessed by the state of New York. He also shows that in trying to find the correct solution of the problem, it early became evident that certain interests demanded one kind of canal, while other interests demanded a different kind of a canal. In this article all factors have been carefully weighed, and the following different classes of canals are described and considered: (1) A great ship canal suited to ocean-going vessels; (2) a ship canal suitable to vessels navigating the great lakes; (3) a barge canal suited to vessels of 1,000 to 2,000 tons burden; and (4) a small canal suited to vessels of 250 to 500 tons burden.

The New York legislature has passed and Governor Roosevelt has signed a bill for the preservation of the romantic scenery along the Hudson known as the Palisades. The bill provides for the appointment of a commission to condemn lands along the river for an interstate park—a similar measure having been introduced into the New Jersey legislature, with every prospect of success.

Lady Churchill's Wit.

Lady Randolph Churchill has inherited the wit of her father, "Uncle Larry" Jerome, as she demonstrated upon one occasion to an eminent British politician. He was somewhat annoyed at the campaign she had made, and said: "I really don't understand, madam, why or how it is that American ladies refuse to enter political life in their own country, but overwhelm us here in England." "That is because you never traveled in the states. The men there are so intelligent and patriotic that they do not require the services of our sex as an educating force."—The Argonaut.

Did you ever take a cork, stick through it a horseshoe nail, put on the top of the cork two or three feathers, tie a long string around the cork and then spear for apples or potatoes? Just try it some time, and see how proficiently and how straight you can learn to throw the bob in a short time. The cork keeps the horseshoe nail in without slipping and the feathers serve to guide the bob through the air.

They Marry Young.

The Boer youth weds extremely young. His education is over and he is considered a man of business when he is 16. His bride does not come to him portionless, but usually with a dowry of cows, goats and sheep, a span of oxen and a quiet riding horse. To each child that is born a well-to-do Boer likes to assign certain farm stock as a "nest egg" for a future dowry or as a start in life.—London Daily Mail.

Is the Bee a Dipsomaniac?

"The bee's alleged perfection of policy and government has been the theme of laudation for centuries," said a well-known California apiculturist, "but truth compels me to say that this insect is not the paragon of virtue and industry she is universally supposed to be, and many are her tumbles from the lofty moral perch. I use the female gender advisedly. I use the male of the sex freely. The favorite relaxation of the bee is to abandon her moral attitude altogether and go off on a spree. I have seen bees so drunk that they could not fly, and in a condition of mental and physical paralysis due to their copious imbibing which would have killed any toper with envy. It is a very common thing on a California bee farm to find the transgressing honey-makers 'groggling about on the tops of flowers or writhing about in the dust of roads and performing all the absurd antics of a rum-dazed man.'"—New York Journal.
