GEORGE L. FARLEY, Proprietor. DAILY EDITION. One Year, in advance, $5.00

THE LARGEST CIRCULATION Of any Cass County Paper.

TUESDAY, JUNE 5, 1900.

BUT one member of the house voted against the anti-trust bill.

AGUINALDO is reported either killed or wounded. American soldiers have his house and papers.

THE Boer delegates expect to visit Omaha June 8. Extensive preparations will probably be made for their reception.

THE Presbyterian church was never more packed than it was last night. The people are taking unusual interest in our public schools.

TO WILLIAM REED DUNROY is due the credit, very largely, for the artistic work in decorating the church for the commencement exercises.

IN THEIR state convention the democrats of New Jersey did not instruct for Mr. Bryan, but the delegates will in all probability support him.

REV. WILLIAM MANSS, who delivered the address here last night, will deliver the commencement address for the Lincoln High school this evening.

STAND up for Plattsmouth by cleaning your alleys. You can probably hire the work done cheaper than can the board of health—at your expense.

IT is generally conceded that Mr. Bryan is worth about $400,000. Some claim he is worth much more than that. He can scarcely pose as a poor farmer.

THE Log Rolling to be held in this city August 18 will be the event of the year. Plattsmouth will be filled with neighboring Woodmen and their friends.

THE Boer delegates expect to visit Lincoln in the near future. Mr. Bryan will probably tell them what he would have done for them had he been president.

J. P. DOLLIVER is being prominently mentioned for the vice presidency. His friends think he would be a fine campaigner, as well as an excellent presiding officer.

GEORGE A. HAY will make a good secretary of the county central committee. He has the confidence of his party, as well as of the people of the county generally.

THE republican county central committee will undoubtedly lay out a plan of action today that will make the republican majority in Cass larger than it has ever been before.

MESSRS. S. Waugh, C. C. Parmole and S. H. Atwood are among the delegates appointed by Governor Poynter to attend the International Mining congress, to be held in Milwaukee June 19-23.

J. STERLING MORTON says a reunited democracy with Bryan is impossible. Gold democrats consider him unsteady and dangerous as a party leader, and would not care to support him on any kind of a platform.

THE fusionists will not be half so noisy over the trust question from now on. The republicans in both branches of congress supported the anti-trust bill, while most of the fusion members of the senate voted against it.

MAYOR VAN WYCK is in danger of being impeached and removed from office on account of his connection with the great ice trust. Governor Roosevelt is investigating the matter. He says he will move slowly in the matter.

THE state Sunday school convention will be held in Lincoln June 19-21, inclusive, and promises to be a large and most enthusiastic meeting. Several of the Sabbath schools have already selected delegates to represent them on that occasion. An excellent program has been prepared.

THE San Francisco health authorities maintain that the filthy condition of Chinatown is responsible for the visitation of the bubonic plague. If some of the alleys of Plattsmouth are not looked after soon, we might as well prepare to wrestle with any old germ that can withstand the stench.

BIXBY says that our popocratic friends have been so wrought up over the campaign clack about imperialism that they have trouble in going to sleep at night for fear they will awaken and find themselves ruled over by an emperor. He suggests that they take the professional politician too seriously.

THE anti-trust bill introduced in congress by the republicans is making the fusionists lots of grief. Mr. Bryan having advocated a constitutional amendment his friends are naturally embarrassed in opposing the measure now before them. Each side is accusing the other of working for political prestige in the coming campaign.

FUTURE OF THE BOER REPUBLICS.

Lord Salisbury's latest after-dinner speech strengthens what has been said before by the premier and other members of the government concerning British intentions toward the Transvaal and the Free State. It is not yet time for details, but "not a shred of the former independence of the republics shall remain."

There is an emphasis in the expression which leaves no possible room for doubt. The entire political machinery of both republics will be overthrown, and governmentally considered, their development will be along new lines. It does not follow, however, that in being deprived of independence they will be deprived of civil liberty. We doubt if the most active and stubborn Boers will suffer much on this score. They will be minus the offices and honors that have gone out of existence when the war is ended, but they will enjoy as great a security in their persons and property as any Englishman and have all those means of redress in the courts which are conceded to Englishmen.

Furthermore, it is not at all probable that much time will be lost in giving the republics a thoroughly liberal political system like that of Cape Colony. Great Britain has several kinds of government for her various dependencies, but in spite of the numerous Kaffirs the Free State and the Transvaal will naturally fall into the white group. The provisional regime made necessary by the unsettled condition of the country after a war will soon give way to institutions essentially republican in spirit.

The event will be hastened, too, by a new influx of Britons, which will increase the old Uitlander majority in the Transvaal and tighten its hold on the local legislature. But it would be a mistake to suppose that such immigration would be a menace to the political or civil rights of the Boers. They will have proportionate representation ultimately, which is all that any people may ask anywhere.

In the Free State, which lacks the mines to attract the outsider, there is likely to be a Boer majority for some time to come, but there is a Boer majority in Cape Colony which is treated exactly as if it were an English majority. It controls the legislature and makes cabinets. So long as there is no secession there will be no distinction between one white man and another.

Possibly the two republics may be consolidated for administrative purposes temporarily, but it is doubtful if this will become a permanent policy, since each is large enough for a separate establishment. The drift finally will be toward that South African federation of which there has been so much talk of late.

THE CANTEN.

The prohibition convention that met at University Place the other day to nominate a county ticket, passed a resolution deploring the unhappy results of the army canteen upon the boys in blue, says the State Journal. As all army officers agree in testifying that the canteen has greatly reduced drunkenness in the army and has also greatly checked desertion which usually follows a big spree and absence without leave resulting from the effects of vile whisky obtained at the saloons that are to be found outside all army camps, the natural deduction would be that the prohibitionists of Lancaster view with alarm the reduction of the number of deserters from the army and deplore any measure that will decrease drunkenness among our soldiers. There are all sorts of funny people in this world.

THE Falls City Journal speaks to the point: "If Governor Poynter does not want to go down in ignominious defeat this fall, he had better decline the nomination. Hon. Charles Dietrich will be the next governor of Nebraska, and the people will have a chance to see the difference between a political administration and a thorough business like administration."

IN TALKING with people from various sections it takes but a short time to ascertain the fact that the people are going to stand by the administration. The national republican ticket will receive more votes, generally speaking, than that of the state or county. Thousands of the fusionists will support the McKinley electors.

INFORMATION AND OPINION.

White Buffalo of Chicago and Tom Thunder of Black River Falls, Wis., did not get together with tomahawks. White Buffalo is an Irishman named Tom Roddy, and is now chief of the Winnebago Indians. Thunder objected to his inauguration and sent in a challenge for a duel to the death with tomahawks. The fiery Toms met to arrange for the battle. Roddy poured out a few fingers of blarney, which Thunder swallowed with evident relish. The operation was frequently repeated and old Thunder became convinced that White Buffalo was not the cigar sign his enemies pictured, but the real thing. Thereupon Thunder subsided and buried the hatchet. It's a cold day when the tribe gets left.

H. L. Barck, overseer of the poor in Hoboken, N. J., is very warm in his advocacy of a whipping post to punish inhuman fathers who desert their children. Governor Roosevelt, about a year ago, suggested the same punishment in New York for wifebeaters. Mr. Barck is circulating a petition to present to the New Jersey legislature.

MOTHERS AND TEACHERS.

The Questions as to How They May Co-operate for Mutual Benefit.

Mrs. Henry Hempel, formerly of this city, gave a very interesting address at the commencement exercises of the Havelock schools last week. The following is a portion of the address, taken from the Times of that place: "It is a great pleasure for me to meet and greet here tonight my associates, zealous co-laborers in the work of the mothers club, and those, too, who have encouraged us in the work by their interest so kindly manifested. To all I offer a sincere heartfelt greeting. "According to the constitution in article 2, the object of this association is to stimulate intellectual and moral development, to encourage a bond of sympathy between the mothers and the teachers. Now how may a mother co-operate with a teacher? This is the question. In the first place, I will say it is to be regretted that we do not visit the schools as we should. It has been wisely said that from the moment you leave your little one at the school room door you have added to the responsibility of the teacher, but you have in no wise lessened your own. This is a point which is not understood or appreciated as it should be by mothers. How many are often strangers to the teachers, and hear only the child's version of school matters? Much of the discord which now exists, might be obliterated if mothers and teachers thoroughly understood one another. Should the teacher seek the mother's acquaintance or vice versa? Certainly we all know that the child is the one to be benefited and you, mothers, will surely agree with me that our interest in our own children is, and should be, greater than any teacher could possibly have."

When the county commissioners were in Eagle last week they gave us to understand that they would aid some in putting the road from J. J. Bahr's to town in better condition. Cass now has three careful commissioners who look after the affairs of the county in a business like manner.—Eagle Beacon.

Experts of the ordnance bureau of the war department say that the cost of firing the 12-inch guns of the coast defenses, which are the largest now in use, is approximately $600. A charge consists of about 300 pounds of powder, valued at $300, and about 800 or 900 pounds of shot, at an average cost of 30c a pound.

A street car conductor of Chicago the other day stopped a funeral procession in order to administer a thrashing to the driver of the hearse. The driver had persistently refused to turn out of the track to allow the car to pass, and, upon being invited by the conductor to visit the car barn in order to take a "licking" at some future time when both parties to the dispute should be at leisure, he proposed to settle the matter at once. He climbed down from the hearse, was knocked out in the first round and the blockade was lifted.

The United States and Russia are between them producing, in round numbers, 130,000,000 barrels of petroleum per year, and the production of outside countries has of late increased so much that they are able to bring the world's aggregate annual production to about 150,000,000 barrels.

The president has appointed Colonel Luther H. Hare of the Thirty-third volunteer infantry (captain Seventh cavalry) and Colonel J. H. Smith of the Seventeenth infantry, to be brigadier generals of volunteers, in recognition of their distinguished services in the campaign in the Philippines. This action fills the only vacancies in the volunteer brigadier rank. They were kept open in order to permit the president to bestow the appointments upon specially deserving officers in the field.

Among the veterans in attendance at the Confederate reunion in Louisville are the six Jackson brothers of Columbia, S. C.—Robert, Levi, Owen, Malcolm, Knox and Warren—who, ranging in age from seventeen to thirty, joined Company I, Eighth South Carolina Infantry, in 1861 and remained in the war until Lee's surrender. In all that time only two of them were wounded, though they fought all through the Virginia campaign. They now own adjoining farms in Marion county, South Carolina.

A statue of Brigadier General Griffin A. Steadman, jr., eight feet high, executed by Frederick A. Moynihan of New York City, is about to be cast in Providence, R. I. The statue is to be erected at Camp Field, Hartford, Conn., where General Steadman was born on January 6, 1838. He was killed during the morning of August 5, 1864, during the explosion of a rebel mine at Petersburg. He was only 26 years old. His commission as brigadier general reached his tent on the battle field a few hours after his death.

Lord Roberts has had few equals in the handling of sword and lance, says a writer in the New York Penny magazine. He was always especially fond of tent pegging and so excellent in the difficult diversion that he carried off the first prize at the Indian tournament from the whole Indian army when he was already past his sixtieth year. The love of free, rapid movement soon made him an accomplished cyclist and he did much of his work in Ireland, especially at monoovers on the wheel. He so believed in his bicycle that he induced his staff to follow his example although all were not equally well equipped for riding it.

The Brooklyn Eagle invited its readers to send in nominations for the Hall of Fame. In the 750-lists of names submitted, Abraham Lincoln and Benjamin Franklin tied for first place. General Washington was third, General Grant fourth, Robert Fulton fifth. Others among the leading fifty were Greeley, Longfellow, Emerson, John Quincy and Samuel Adams, Jefferson, Farragut, Sheridan, Daniel and Noah Webster, Clay, Nathan Hale, George Clinton, Monroe and Seward.

HAWAII AS A FENCER.

Where Weapons Are Words and Quickwitted Are Winners.

HAS A FEW SHARP EXCHANGES

With Tillman, Allen and Teller as His Antagonists—Statement and Retort Much to the Point.

Washington, June 2.—The lion's tail came in for another twist yesterday in the senate, Hale being again the twister, this time because he did not approve of Great Britain spending hundreds of millions to beat the Boers while many people in India were starving. Perkins presented a petition from Californians asking that congress appropriate something for East Indian relief, when—"The world has been horrified, almost stupefied," interjected Hale, "at the suffering now being endured in India. "The situation is awful. Now the senator comes here with a proposition that we should appropriate money for the relief of these people. I should like to ask the senator what England has done for the people of India. She has spent tens and hundreds of millions of dollars in striking down and crushing republics."

Hanna in a New Role. Hanna as a witty, well-equipped debater, is something that very few of the senators have ever thought of. He speaks readily, says what he has to say, well and his arguments are forcibly put, but when it comes to meeting the sharpest controversialists on the floor and holding his own—at the least—that is a scene no one had ever expected to view. But that was the scene yesterday. The fun began when he said that the delay in the navy's building now was due to a great extent to the opposition of the senators from South Carolina (Tillman) and New Hampshire (Chandler) to the payment of a reasonable price for armor.

Hanna said, discussing the armor plant question, that it would be impossible to construct an armor plant under five years that could supply the government with suitable armor, and then it cost perhaps 50 per cent. more than it could be procured for from a private concern. "Has the senator ever read Mr. Carnegie's testimony?" inquired Tillman, "in which he said that he could begin the manufacture of plate within nine months?" "Oh, yes," replied Hanna, "and it may be said in that connection that Mr. Carnegie had everything in readiness for the manufacture of the plate at that time."

Hanna then proceeded to point out that it would be impossible to get the necessary presses for the armor plate factory under two years. "How does it happen," inquired Tillman, "that several steel mills have recently been shut down, if that be true?" "The same man who said he could manufacture steel armor plate at $200 per ton," retorted Hanna, "closed down the steel mills to influence the stock market."

"That is the way with men when they become millionaires through the medium of trusts," returned Tillman caustically. "They all become liars and thieves."

"Well, replied Hanna calmly, "I hope the senator does not mean quite that."

"Oh, no," said Tillman, "I mean the remark only as a general proposition."

Hanna was then proceeding with his discussion of the manufacture of armor plate, carrying his description from the ore mines to the completed ship, when he was interrupted by Allen.

"Is the senator interested in the manufacture of armor plate?" "I am not," emphatically replied Hanna.

"Has the senator ever manufactured armor plate?" pursued Allen. "No."

"None but political armor plate," suggested Allen sarcastically. "None but political armor plate," retorted Hanna, turning squarely to Allen.

"I have found that pretty laughable," [Applause and laughter.]

ISSUE OF VERACITY WITH TELLER As to the Matter of Banks and the Campaign Assessment.

Teller said he had not intended to bring politics into this controversy, but that when the chief representative of the Republican party, as he regarded Hanna, came here as the champion of the combinations he felt that he was justified in saying that the Republicans expect to repeat this year the tactics of 1896, which consisted of levying assessments upon every manufacturing institution in the country.

Would Not Suffer So Again For Fifty Times Its Price.

I awoke last night with severe pains in my stomach. I never felt so badly in my life. When I came down to work this morning I felt so weak I could hardly work. I went to Miller & McCurdy's drug store and they recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It worked like magic and one dose fixed me all right. It certainly is the finest thing I ever used for stomach trouble. I shall not be without it in my home hereafter, for I should not care to endure the sufferings of last night, again, for fifty times its price.—G. H. Will, foreman, Largettstown, Wash., D.
