

WANTED TO BE TOUGH

Arrest of a Young Man Who Flashed a Gun.

Judge Archer Gives Him An Instructive Little Lecture, and Points Out the Evil Results Which So Often Follow the Course He Pursued—Fined the Sum of $1 and Costs.

Harry Hickson, the young man who endeavored to show how tough he was by flashing a revolver in Louis Olsen's pool and billiard hall Wednesday evening, was arrested by Marshal Slater about 5 o'clock last evening. He was escorted before Judge Archer this afternoon and given an opportunity to explain matters. When the court had concluded questioning the prisoner, his honor proceeded to outline most graphically the evil results which so frequently attend the course he had pursued, and concluded his remarks by pronouncing a fine of $1 and costs, which will amount in all to about $5.60. In the absence of the necessary wherewithal, young Hickson will stay with Jailer McBride for a few days.

Hickson has been working for the Burlington as a section hand. He called at Manspeaker's livery barn yesterday morning and hired a rig with which to drive out into the country—promising to return in an hour. The day wore on and the team was not returned, and, fearing there was something wrong, the owner notified the officers. Shortly before 5 o'clock Marshal Slater's eagle eye spied the fellow skulking along near the old cannery site—evidently trying to avoid the officers. In a very few moments Hickson was "seeing things" through the bars of the jail. He refused to tell where he had left the team, but the outfit was found several hours later. The horses were tied to a telephone pole on Wintersteen hill. It is not known whether it was his object to steal the team or merely to get out of paying for their use.

He was fined only on the charge of disturbing the peace, the complaint being made by the proprietor of the billiard hall.

Sheriff Destroys Liquor.

By order of the district court, Sheriff Wheeler was called upon to perform a duty this afternoon which many of the bystanders greatly regretted. Last fall, it will be remembered, the officers pounced upon William Fullride's establishment at Nehawks and captured a large supply of choice liquors which the proprietor was trying to sell without a license. The court fined Fullride $100 and ordered the sheriff to destroy the liquor. This afternoon the boxes and jugs of fancy juice were quietly carried out of the sheriff's office and placed near an opening of the sewer in the court house lawn. Then Sheriff Wheeler began the arduous task of pulling the corks and permitting the liquor to run into the sewer. Heads appeared from the court house windows and nearby buildings anxiously watching the proceedings, while many of the bystanders jokingly expressed their protests against such unnecessary destruction of "good stuff," many of them even offering to take charge of some of the bottles and thus save the sheriff the trouble of opening them. However, the order of the court had to be carried out, and they could not be accommodated.

Partial List of Subscribers.

As mentioned in Wednesday's issue, it is the intention of the library board to have a complete list of the contributors to the new library fund framed and also printed in the city papers. Good Mosquito Story.

Posey Messersmith was telling his friends today about a narrow escape he had last night from being eaten up by mosquitoes. He has a fine patch of tomato plants at his place, and when the cold wind came up during the night he grabbed some gunny sacks and rushed out to cover them up, fearing they would be destroyed by frost. On the way he noticed what appeared to be a big, black cloud coming directly toward him. Posey has read a great deal about tornadoes and cyclones, and concluding that his life was more valuable than all the tomato plants he could raise in ten years, he dropped the sacks and dashed back to the house as fast as his feet could carry him. Through the window he viewed a magnificent sight. It was a swarm of mosquitoes much larger than his house, and they lingered around the premises for a few minutes waiting for him to come out. However, they finally continued their flight eastward, and as they disappeared in the distance Posey heaved a sigh of relief.

Jack Murray, who has been employed as bar tender at John Mumm's saloon, resigned his position last evening. Mr. Murray left this morning for Council Bluffs, where he hopes to secure a good position.

WAS A PRETTY WEDDING

Nuptials of Miss Edith Patterson and Charles H. King.

Happy Event Occurs at the Presbyterian Church and is Witnessed by Many of the Relatives and Friends of the Young Couple—Miss Tony Kessler Plays the Wedding March.

From Thursday's Daily.

Very beautiful and perfect in its appointments was the wedding of Miss Edith Patterson and Charles Homer King, which took place in the Presbyterian church of this city last evening. The church never looked prettier than it did on this occasion. The altar was decorated with myriads of palms and tropical plants, the different heights and breadth of leaves with their exquisite shades of tender green forming a background of exceeding beauty for the artistic grouping of the bridal party.

An elaborate arrangement of broad white satin ribbons designated the seats reserved for the relatives. Miss Kessler at the organ played appropriate selections—the triumphant strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march pealing forth as the bridal party walked slowly down the aisle. Ray Patterson as usher-in-chief came first, followed by Charles Patterson and Mr. Henry, brothers and cousin of the bride. Miss Mae Patterson, also a cousin, led the bridesmaids—Miss White and Miss Valley—all three effectively gowned in white, their bouquets being immense bunches of pink and white poppies. Miss Walker as maid of honor, wearing pale pink organdie over pink silk also carried poppies and made a lovely color picture as she preceded the bride, who was attended by her father.

It is needless to say that the bride was lovely in an exquisite creation of white satin and tulle made entrain and with severe simplicity—the rich folds of satin falling most gracefully, the glistening folds displaying the richness of the fabric veiled by the filmy softness of the bridal veil.

Mr. King, attended by his best man, Mr. Lamb of Chicago, received his bride at the altar, Dr. Baird performing the marriage ceremony impressively. Miss Kessler played softly and sweetly while the solemn words were said that united the destinies of these two young lives.

A reception to the out of town guests, the bridal party and the most intimate friends, was held at the home of the bride from 9:30 to 11 o'clock. The spacious grounds were brilliantly illuminated, the interior decorations also being brilliant and attractive. Misses Elizabeth Dovey and Margie Walker presided at the punch bowl assisted by Ellen Pollock and Hattie Parmelee—the little misses displaying a grave decorum while attending to their duties that showed they appreciated the responsibility of their position. White and green were the predominating colors in the decorations of the room where the elegant and costly presents were displayed. Lovely point lace, cut glass fragile china, pictures and quantities of silver attesting the love and esteem of friends at home and abroad. Many congratulatory telegrams were also received. The whole house was a garden of bloom, each room having a distinct color scheme. The room where the bridal party stood was beautifully decorated in green—poppies, roses, ferns, asparagus and trailing vines of smilax being used. Daisies, nasturtiums and lilies held up their heads and nodded a welcome in the parlors, and the refreshment room was lovely with floral decorations and airy festoons. Delicious refreshments were served during the reception hour.

The time to say farewell to one of Plattsmouth's brightest and sweetest daughters came all too soon, but inextinguishable train time arrived, and, followed by all imaginable wishes for future happiness and prosperity, the young couple embarked on the first stage of their life's journey. Their immediate destination was St. Louis, out after August 1 they will be at home at Waukegan, Ill.

The guests from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. James Walker and daughters, Murray; Mrs. Werden, St. Joe; S. G. Latta and wife, Murray; Mr. and Mrs. King, Waukegan, Ill.; Mrs. Isabel Campbell, Mrs. George Harvey, Mrs. J. R. Campbell, Miss Jean Campbell, Miss Ruth Philippi, Omaha; Silas Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Patterson, Mrs. Harry Long, Lincoln; Miss Marie Johnson, Evanston, Ill., and Mr. Lamb, Chicago.

ROBBED THE PASSENGERS

Lone Robber Goes Through Two Sleeping Cars Near Bradshaw.

Speaking of the robbery which occurred near Bradshaw Wednesday evening, the State Journal says:

"A lone highwayman went through the Portland and Deadwood sleeping cars on train No. 41 at 1:10 yesterday morning, and dropped off the train one mile west of Bradshaw, making his escape in the darkness. From verified reports it seems that he secured about $185. He got on the train at York, it is believed, presenting a ticket to Aurora. He entered the car and sat there for a few moments. Then he went out on the platform, disguised his face with a mask and went into the sleeping cars. Finding Sleeping Car Conductors Landauer and Cooper he ordered them at the point of a gun to proceed ahead of him, while he commanded passengers in the berths to donate their money. The conductors awakened the sleeping passengers while the robber took their pocket-books. So far as known he took no jewelry, seeming well satisfied to get the money. He did not shoot anyone, but threatened to. The latest list of losses follows:

"E. P. McMullen, Spokane, $55; F. M. Woodbridge, Harrison, Mo., $60; N. Soudale (address not given) $6; J. Evers and wife, known as Miss Isabella Henderson, (an actress) of Helena, Mont., $55; N. W. Sherry, Omaha, $4; Conductor Landauer, $5.

"Passengers in the coaches ahead were not molested. After securing the booty the robber calmly pulled the air brake cord, brought the train to a stop and jumped off. The train stopped one mile west of Bradshaw. The robber alighted on the south side, and the fireman in the engine says he saw two men standing beside the track waiting for him. The train started and the men were lost to view, but one of the trainmen says he saw them start south on foot.

"No. 41 was in charge of Engineer Finch and Conductor Green. As soon as the facts were reported to the railroad officials. Within one hour after the robbery Superintendent Bignell had received the news, had arranged to pursue the robbers and had communicated the facts then known to General Manager Holdrege, who authorized him at once to offer a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of the thieves."

STEWART ESTATE MUDDLE.

Louis A. Ksenky Claims He Is Entitled to An Unnamed Sum of Money.

The Stewart estate muddle, which is now in the courts of Lancaster county, seems far from being settled. Speaking in regard to the latest developments in the case, the State Journal says:

Louis A. Ksenky has filed a petition in county court alleging that the estate of Robert M. Stewart, deceased, owes him an unnamed sum of money, and asking the removal of the administration of the estate to the court that the petitioner shows to the court that the daughters of Robert Stewart, have appeared in court alleging that Annie M. Stewart was not the wife of the deceased, and that they object to her administration of the estate, as well as to allowances prayed for. The petition says the estate is now on the verge of proceedings which endangers the claim he holds against it. It is alleged that Mrs. Stewart received $1,200 in settlement with the Burlington for her husband's death. The court required her to give a bond in the sum of $1,000, and it is alleged that she has failed to comply. Mr. Ksenky prays for an order summarily removing the administration.

Some time ago Frederick Shepherd, attorney for two daughters of Stewart, who reside in England, filed an action in county court to secure the dismissal of Mrs. Annie M. Stewart as administratrix, alleging that she was not the legal wife of Robert Stewart, late of Havelock. It was alleged that Stewart left a wife in England. The English wife is said to be an inmate of an insane asylum. Two daughters learning of their father's death, investigated the matter and the above suit resulted. In this action the attorneys have stated that there is not the slightest blame to be attached to Mrs. Stewart and that if the facts alleged should prove to be true it is maintained that she knew nothing of her husband having a wife in England.

Realized a Neat Sum.
