

ABSOLUTE PROTECTION

Must Be Accorded the Foreign Legation.

SUCH IS UNCLE SAM'S ULTIMATUM

Secretary Hay Does Not Mince His Words to Li Hung Chang.

British Policy Is First Free Foreign Ministers and Then Chinese Government by Chinese-Oriental News.

Washington, Aug. 3.—Secretary Hay's reply to Li Hung Chang which has been given out for publication has closed the negotiations with China unless the old viceroy is able to secure the full acceptance of our terms relative to the foreign ministers, and that at once. The negotiations began with the proposition made by Li that the legation be safely conveyed to Tientsin, the allies agreeing in that case not to advance on Peking. Secretary Hay replied that the United States government would not interfere until it had free communication with Minister Couer. Furthermore, Hay placed on the Chinese government the responsibility of protecting the legations, and insisted that messages to the American ambassador be permitted to pass as a matter of absolute right, and not as a favor. It is so limited that, until the legations are absolutely free, no negotiations can be had.

LI HUNG CHANG.

Nations will be entered into with China, which continues far is characterized as "unfriendly." Ominously Close to "Formal" War. No orders therefore looking to a relaxation of the preparations for the advance on Peking have gone out from Washington, for, as the situation is described by one of the leading officials here, "there will be no bargaining on our part in advance of the concession by the Chinese authorities of full and free communication with the foreign ministers." There is, moreover, a note ominously close to formal war in Secretary Hay's declaration that the conduct of the Chinese government is "unfriendly." The language is extreme in diplomacy, and it is only a narrow step between it and formal war, which it must be remembered has not yet been declared by this government.

Paris Is in a Tight Place. If the Chinese government now accepts our terms the United States government will be face to face with one of the most delicate and momentous diplomatic tasks ever undertaken. It must attempt to redeem its promise to its good offices in favor of China—and in the present temper of some of the European powers, the greatest difficulty may be expected to arise in the prosecution of this attempt. It is the confident expectation of the officials here, however, that if the Chinese government accepts in good faith the thing can be done.

POLICY OF GREAT BRITAIN.

London, Aug. 3.—Replying to a question in the house of commons yesterday, the parliamentary secretary for the foreign office, William St. John Brodrick, said there was no lack of co-operation among the commanders at Tien-Tsin, and no available delay. The government, he said, would press forward by every means in their power to the relief of the legations. "The cabinet," Brodrick said, "was completely unanimous against partition of China, which would be fraught with infinite danger, and the government had no reason to believe they were at variance with any of the European powers in that respect. Further, the government would do nothing to set up anything but a China administration in China. The government are in complete contemplation of the idea of organizing the Chinese army under foreign officers. What form the indemnity should take must be left for future consideration. The hour of commons yesterday, Brodrick thought it was a time when the less said the better. Great changes might result from the recent calamitous events, but he hoped the European powers would discover some foundation upon which to build up a Chinese government which would ensure civilization to a population forming one-third of the human race.

Advices received here from Tien-Tsin say that the Russian government had captured the forts ten miles north of Tien-Tsin. The Chinese garrison of 10,000 is said to have fled when the Russians approached. The capture of these forts is said to be an important victory, as it gives the allies points of defense and offense on the road to Peking.

It is estimated that the Peking relief force numbers 20,000 men and 170 guns.

The French consul general at Shanghai telegraphs to Paris as follows: "Li Hung Chang has stated to the United States consul that the ministers will be put in communication with their respective governments if the allies arrest their march on Peking. Chang is yet unable to secure a reply to my message, in his care, to M. Pinchon (the French minister in Peking), and the tsung-li-yamen will not consent to the forwarding of cipher messages for the ministers."

TRIAL OF CALEB POWERS.

Defense Falls to Get in the Testimony of Two Good Witnesses.

Georgetown, Ky., Aug. 3.—The defense in the Powers' case offered the testimony of six new witnesses in court yesterday. One of the witnesses of the day was the present by Colonel Mengel of the First Regiment, state guards, of an autograph letter from Governor Taylor, written on Jan. 18, two weeks before the shooting of Guellet, in which he instructed the soldiers to obey "all orders and signals" given him by Adjutant General Collier. The defense was overruled on two important points during the day. Judge Cantrell refusing to allow one witness to relate a conversation he claimed to have had with Wharton Golden relative to receiving pay for testimony, and refusing to allow another witness to testify to the resolutions adopted by the mountain petitioners and which they attempted to present to the legislature. The defense expected to show by these resolutions that the assembling of the petitioners was not for an unlawful purpose.

PISTOLS AND COFFEE, PERHAPS

May Result from the Following "Back Talk" by Marion Butler.

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 3.—A duel will probably result from a letter written by Marion Butler to Representative Bellamy, of Wilmington. Both men are fighters. The letter reads as follows: "You are quoted in the Raleigh morning papers as saying in a speech at Wilmington yesterday that the Democrats should 'forcibly' expel me from the North. Now, if you think I should be expelled from the state I suggest that you undertake the job yourself. "You are one man and I am one man. If you mean what you say and have the courage to back it up, you have a mob of 'Red Shirts' behind you. I suggest that you proceed to Raleigh and begin the expelling business at once. If you have not the courage to undertake this job, then I suggest that you have the decency to keep your mouth shut."

NO NEGRO NEED APPLY

At the Polls for a Vote in North Carolina

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 3.—After one of the most bitterly contested campaigns ever known in the Old North State the Democrats and white supremacy triumphed yesterday by a majority of about 300,000. The election disfranchised the negro by changing the constitution from its combination majority of Republicans and Populists to straight Democratic, insuring the defeat of Marion Butler for re-election as United States senator. The negro progress as a general thing, remained away from the polls.

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 3.—The weekly crop bulletin from the heavy rains in the southern counties during the early part of the week delayed harvest work, the completion of haying, and in some cases did slight damage to hay and crops. The report is that the weather, generally, however, the weather of the past week has been very favorable to all crop growth and harvest work.

Town That Is Bankrupt.

Joliet, Ill., Aug. 3.—Braceville, one of the mining towns in the Wilmington field, is in a bad way. The failure of the mine at the end of last spring, the passage of an appropriation bill has left the town without funds, and it is now reported that No. 3, the only mine in operation, will be closed down. If this is done it will leave Braceville without any producing industry.

ANARCHY IS EPIDEMIC

Or Assassins Are Endeavoring to Pull Off a Program.

SHAH OF PERSIA HAS A CLOSE CALL

Unknown Murderer Tries to Shoot Him and Comes Near Success.

Persian Monarch Acts as Though Such Little Matters Were Every-Day Affairs with Him—Assassin is Arrested.

Paris, Aug. 3.—Muzaffer-Eddin, shah of Persia, who has been a visitor to the exposition since Saturday as the guest of France, narrowly escaped an assassin's bullet yesterday morning. It had been arranged that he should visit Sevres and see the national pottery works, going afterwards to Versailles, and it was just after he had left the sovereign's palace on his way to the Seine to go on board a yacht placed at his disposal for the trip that an attempt upon his life was made. Only five minutes before the pistol was fired the shah was told by the coachman to get out of the car. He was given to the contents, so numerous had been former attempts on his life. "Didn't Mind a Little Thing Like That." As he was seated in the landau, before leaving the court of the palace his secretary brought him a letter dated the day before, signed with a name bearing an Italian termination. It said: "Today you shall meet the same fate as Humbert." In nowise disconcerted the shah handed the letter to the officer on guard and gave orders for the carriage to start. The gates of the palace were thrown open, and as the monarch emerged, a large crowd of curious on-lookers broke into cries of "Vive le Shah" and "Vive la Perse."

Attack of the Would-Be Assassin.

Hardly had these exclamations died away when a man dressed in the ordinary clothing of a Paris workman rushed forward from behind a group of automobiles where he was hidden and rammed under the imperial carriage overturning a bicycle policeman, who rolled under the feet of the horses. In an instant he was on the carriage step, holding the driver by the left hand and with his right he pushed a revolver toward the breast of the shah. He seemed to hesitate for a moment, as though undecided where to aim. This hesitation saved the Persian monarch's life, for before the would-be assassin could pull the trigger a strong hand grasped his wrist and wrenched it so that the weapon dropped harmlessly to the bottom of the landau.

Wanted the Man's Photograph.

"I'd like to have a photograph of that man," nonchalantly exclaimed the shah. Then addressing a few words in his native tongue to his companions in the carriage he told the coachman to drive on. Seated in the landau with the shah at the time the assault was made were the grand vizier, the personal physician of the monarch, and General Ferey, his personal aide. General Ferey, in the course of an interview subsequently, said: "It was the court physician who met the first criminal advance. It was he who seized the revolver, which is retained as evidence, and the movement of aggression for a sufficient time to allow the pistol to be knocked from the assassin's hand."

Assassin Calls for Help in Yarn.

The pistol carried by the would-be murderer was of the bullet type, loaded with five cartridges. When the police seized the man he tried to break away and cried: "Vive! children! people! an officer tried to stop him, but he shouted: 'To my friends.' Then he quieted down and submitted. When a knife was found on his person an officer remarked: 'You also had a knife,' to which the man replied: 'Yes; I took some precaution.' "Why did you attempt to assassinate the shah?" the officer asked. "Because," was the reply, "it pleased me. That does not concern you. To all other questions the prisoner remained dumb, and his identity is not yet established.

ASSASSINATION OF HUMBERT.

Result of a Plot That Was Formed in the United States. Rome, Aug. 3.—Bressi, the assassin of King Humbert, is said to remain indifferent and contumacious, rejoicing over the success of his crime, and declaring that the next to die will be the czar. As he said this before the attempt on the shah it would seem that his pals had changed the programme. It Corriere Della Italia says the police have discovered that a huge plot was formed in America to murder King Humbert, and that his assassination was to be followed by similar crimes throughout Europe. Another discovery is that Bressi last Sunday entered the royal chapel of the villa during mass, evidently with the intention of assassinating Humbert if he were there.

A man suspected of being an accomplice of Bressi was arrested Wednesday at a railway station here. He had recently arrived from the United States, and will be sent to Monza for inspection.

Notwithstanding the most thorough search the will of King Humbert has not yet been found. Count Brambilla has arrived in Rome to continue the search, which is retaining the arrangements for the funeral.

WIERD WEDDING STORY

Told by a Boy Who Has Made a Suicidal Attempt.

Terra Haute, Ind., Aug. 3.—Otto Cottom, a youth, shot himself at 4 o'clock yesterday morning, at the door of the home of his father, Thomas Cottom, and the doctors say he will die. On the 9th of July he had written a sensational statement that Otto Cottom and Lou Chandler, of National City, were married by the Rev. Dr. Schimer, of Indianapolis, on July 4. "The boy's father asked him about it as late as one week ago," he says, "but he refused to obey his publication was a joke. He has been conscious enough since he shot himself to tell about an alleged marriage ceremony performed in the woods near Fort Harrison, a few miles north of the city. He says that the girl made him believe that he must marry her. He did not know the man she brought with her, nor did he know the alleged minister. He says she left town immediately afterward, and he thinks she is in Peoria. He knew little about her antecedents. Evidently she had a slight acquaintance with him, for as late as one week ago she wrote a letter to him, and addressed it to 'The Window Trimmer,' at the dry goods house where he was employed. At the offices of the newspapers, he said that it was handed in by some one unknown. No license was issued here. MICHIGAN BURGLARIES. Things Seem to Be Working the State for the Benefit of the Nation. Grand Haven, Mich., Aug. 3.—The dry goods store of Beauty & Co. was burglarized and $500 worth of valuable silk goods was taken by the thieves. It is believed to be the work of the same gang that has been operating in western Michigan for some months. Clinton, Mich., Aug. 3.—The Exchange bank of Van Tuyle & Silvers was broken into at night. The front door was opened by the use of a jimmy. The burglar broke off the combination knob presumably with nitroglycerine, but failed to get any farther. Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 3.—Mrs. Clara H. Smith, of Grand Haven, with revolver drove away two men who attacked their house at midnight. The women shot many times from the upper windows of the house. RELIEF FORCE MOVING

Army Begins March to Rescue Legations at Peking.

LONG LETTER FROM THE BESIEGED

London Times Correspondent Tells a Story of Duplicity.

In Which He Indicts the Chinese Government for Much of the Trouble and Especially for Crooked Dealings.

Brussels, Aug. 2.—M. DePavevareu, minister of foreign affairs, has received the following dispatch, dated Shanghai, Aug. 1, from M. de Cartier de Marchienne, secretary of the Belgian legation, now acting as charge d'affaires of Belgium at Shanghai: "The allies are marching on Peking. They are eighteen miles from Tien-Tsin and should reach Peking in eight days. All the Europeans have taken refuge in the inner enclosure of the imperial city."

London, Aug. 2.—Dr. George Ernest Morrison, the Peking correspondent of The Times, has been heard from direct. The Times this morning prints the following dispatch from him, dated July 21: "There has been a cessation of hostilities here [Peking] since July 18, but for fear of treachery there has been no relaxation of vigilance. The Chinese soldiers continue to strengthen the barricades around the besieged area, and also the batteries on top of the imperial city wall, but in the meantime they have discontinued firing, probably because they are short of ammunition. The main bodies of the imperial soldiers have left Peking in order to meet the relief forces. Supplies are beginning to come in and the condition of the besieged is improving. The wounded are doing well. Our hospital arrangements are admirable."

PRINCE KUNG, PRESIDENT OF THE TSUNG-LI-YAMEN.

but for fear of treachery there has been no relaxation of vigilance. The Chinese soldiers continue to strengthen the barricades around the besieged area, and also the batteries on top of the imperial city wall, but in the meantime they have discontinued firing, probably because they are short of ammunition. The main bodies of the imperial soldiers have left Peking in order to meet the relief forces. Supplies are beginning to come in and the condition of the besieged is improving. The wounded are doing well. Our hospital arrangements are admirable.

"For Ways That Are Dark."

"The tsung-li-yamen forwarded to Sir Claude Macdonald a copy of a dispatch telegraphed by the emperor to Queen Victoria, congratulating her on the occasion of the centenary of her accession to the throne, and requesting her majesty's assistance to extricate the Chinese government from its difficulties. This dispatch to the Queen was made to the tsung-li-yamen by the grand council on July 3; yet the day before an imperial edict had been issued calling on the Boxers to continue to render loyal and patriotic service in the exterminating the Christians. The edict also commanded viceroys and governors to expel all missionaries from China and to arrest all Christians and compel them to renounce their faith. Other edicts applauding the Boxers speak approvingly of their burning out and slaying converts. Their leaders are stated in a decree to be princes and ministers.

"And Tricks That Are Vain."

"On July 18 another decree made a complete volte-face, due to the victories of the foreign troops at Tien-Tsin. In this decree for the first time, and one month after the occurrence—when the emperor was mourning the death of Baron von Ketteler, the German minister, which was attributed to the action of local brigands, although there is no doubt that it was premeditated—the assassination was committed by an imperial officer, as the survivor, Herr Cordes, can testify."

"HEATHEN CHINESE IS PECULIAR."

Which the Same Will Further Appear from the Following: The correspondent then tells something more of Ah Sin's "schisminess," as follows: "The force besieging the legation consists of the imperial troops under General Tung Lu and General Tung Fuh Slang, whose gallantry is applauded in imperial decrees, although it has consisted in bombarding for one month defenseless women and children cooped up in the legation compound, using shell, shrapnel, round shot and expanding bullets. They posted proclamations assuring us of protection, and the same night they made a general attack in the hope of surprising us. "There is still no news of Pei Tang cathedral. The wounded number 135, including the American surgeon, Hippitt, severely wounded, and Captain Myers, who is doing well. Seven Americans have been killed. All the ministers and members of the legations and their families are in good health. The general health of the community is excellent, and we are contentedly awaiting relief."

After enumerating the casualties already reported and giving the total of deaths, including American, as fifty-five Morrison says: "The Chinese understand the French legation, which is now a ruin; but the French minister (M. Pichon) was not present, having fled for protection to the British legation on the '1st day of the siege.' Tien-Tsin from the British minister, Sir Claude Macdonald, dated July 24: "We are surrounded by imperial troops, the writers, who are firing on us continuously. The enemy is enterprising, but cowardly. We have provisions for about a fortnight and are eating our ponies. The Chinese government, if there is one, has done nothing what-

REPUBLICANS OF HOWA

They Nominate State Ticket and Adopt a Platform.

Will Spend Half a Day at Chicago En Route—Stevenson to Join Him in That City.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 2.—Secretary of state, W. B. Martin, Greenfield, auditor of state, F. F. Merriam, Manchester; treasurer of state, G. S. Gilbertson, Forest City; attorney general, C. W. Mullan, Waterloo; judge of the supreme court, Emil McClain, Iowa City; railway commissioner, D. J. Palmer, Washington; presidential electors-at-large—John N. Baldwin, Council Bluffs, and Ole O. Roe, Des Moines.

The above ticket was nominated yesterday by the Republican state convention. The new auditorium was packed almost to suffocation with delegates and visitors, but the work of the convention went off smoothly and without a hitch, notwithstanding the warm weather for the session offices. No Work for the Credentials Committee. Hon. W. L. Roach, of Muscatine, was the temporary chairman at the morning session and delivered a brilliant discourse on the platform of the Republican standpoint. Senator J. H. Trewin, of Allamakee county, was the permanent chairman at the afternoon session, but delivered no speech beyond thanking the convention for the honor. The committee on credentials reported every delegation present and no contests. The committee on resolutions not being ready to report waiting for the committee for secretary of state was proceeded with and W. B. Martin was chosen on the third ballot.

Platform of Three Paragraphs. The committee on resolutions then reported the shortest platform of the campaign. It consists of three paragraphs, the first of which indorses the state and national administration, and the Philadelphia platform which is presented with "unqualified approval," with the candidates nominated thereon. The second paragraph pays a tribute to the memory of Senator Gear. The third paragraph prays for the safety of Minister Conger, who "in the remote east, among a strange and alien people, in scenes of terror and of peril . . . is now representing not only the honor of his country but the dignity and manhood of the American people."

Rest of the Ticket Nominated. State Auditor Frank F. Merriam, of Manchester, was renominated by acclamation. The ballot for state treasurer resulted in about a two-thirds majority for G. S. Gilbertson, of Forest City, D. J. Palmer, of Washington, was renominated for railway commissioner by acclamation, and C. W. Mullen, of Waterloo, chosen on the second ballot for attorney general. The big fight of the convention was over the nomination for supreme judge. Four ballots were taken, resulting in the nomination of Emil McClain, chancellor of the law department of the State university at Iowa City. At 7:15 p. m. the convention adjourned sine die.

The original plan of keeping the two candidates here and night was at the request of Tom Taggart, of Indianapolis, changed, and the special train which is to take the party from here will leave on the "Big Four" at 1 p. m., and reach Indianapolis about 7 o'clock. The only stops of importance between Chicago and Indianapolis will be at Kankakee, Ill., and Lafayette, Ind. He spoke in reply to the address of Governor Roosevelt before the National League of Republican Clubs at St. Paul. The club convention adopted resolutions reaffirming the Kansas City platform and indorsing the nominees. Altgeld's speech was a sharp arraignment of Roosevelt on a number of points and it was delivered with the ex-governor's well-known verbal vigor.
