The Omaha today. convention rose and was led in prayer by Rev. Maxfield of the Methodist church. The Eagle quartet then rendered two rousing campaign songs. J. M. Teegarden was selected as temporary chairman and J. C. Current as temporary secretary.

The chairman appointed a committee of three on credentials. There being no contests, the list of delegates, as handed in by the various wards and precincts, were declared the delegates to the convention.

On motion, the temporary organ ization was made permanent.

Hon. E. M. Pollard was given a few minutes to present the plans of the State Republican League, which, it can be said, is doing some excellent work. The convention then took a re- outfit. cess until 1 o'clock, in order to give the delegates from the First commissioner district an opportunity to nominate a candidate.

J. H. Haldeman was selected chairman and A. L. Tidd secretary. C. S. Polk, on behalf of the Second ward of Plattsmouth, presented the name of Captain L. D. Bennett. There being no other nominations, Mr. Bennett was nominated by acclamation.

When the county convention reconvened, the quartet was again called into requisition and was heartily en

Proceeding with the business in ac cordance with the call, Judge Spurlock presented the name of Jesse L Root for county attorney, and Mr. Root received the unanimous endorsement of the convention for a second term.

For state senator Hon. John A Davies placed in nomination Judge W. H. Newell, who received the same hearty indorsement given Mr. Root.

For representatives the following names were placed before the convention: M. L.
