

ANTONE WANTED TO DIE

Now Lies at His Home With a Bullet in His Lung.

Unhappy Family Affairs Cause Him to Become Jealous and He Tries to End His Troubles by Shooting Himself—Physicians Believe That He Can Live Only a Short Time.

Carl Antone, a well known citizen who has resided in this city for many years, shot himself through the left breast with a revolver shortly after 12 o'clock this morning, the ball entering about an inch above the heart and penetrating the lung. The attending physicians state that internal hemorrhage has set in, and that his chances for recovery hang on a very slender thread.

Antone lives in the Second ward with his wife and four-year-old son. About 12 o'clock last night, it is said, he came home in a seemingly intoxicated condition, and began to upbraid his wife for alleged infidelity. During the quarrel he suddenly produced a gun, and, fearing that he would do something desperate, his wife grabbed the arm holding the deadly weapon, but she was too late—the gun was leveled at his breast and discharged. He fell to the floor with the blood oozing from an ugly wound.

Neighbors were attracted to the scene by the loud report of the weapon, and a physician was hurriedly summoned. It was found that the bullet had lodged in the lung, just above the heart. It is evident that the vital organ was his target, but his aim was a little high.

The immediate cause of the tragedy was jealousy. For some time a cloud has shadowed the happiness of this family, and the motive of Antone's mad act was probably to put an end to his troubles. He had stated to friends that his better half was unduly intimate with another man, and about three weeks ago he left her. About a week ago they resumed living together, and from all appearances their differences had been amicably settled.

Antone is a butcher by occupation, and was formerly employed at the meat market of Kunsmann & Range. Lately he has been doing odd jobs in the butchering line. Antone was married to his present wife about three years ago. Her former husband, it is said, was killed while digging a well at Louisville, this county, about four years ago.

District Court Notes.
The case of Louise M. Rowitzer vs. W. D. Wheeler and others was given to the jury at about 9 o'clock last night. After being out for a few minutes a verdict, in the sum of $2,200, was returned in favor of the plaintiff. Before the trial of the case began the defendants offered to settle the controversy by paying the plaintiff $2,400, but this was refused. All the parties to the action, however, seem to be well pleased with the outcome.

In the case of the Kilpatrick, Koch Dry Goods company against Walter Palling, tried this morning, the jury brought in a verdict for the defendant in the sum of $28. The original claim of the plaintiffs was $135.

The trial of the case of L. W. Castor vs. D. S. Draper was in progress this afternoon. This is a suit to recover a balance claimed to be due on a note.

Kelso Is Honored.
Friends and acquaintances of Wilbur M. Kelso, who was one of the Plattsburgh Herald staff a number of years ago, will be glad to learn of recent honors bestowed upon him. Yesterday's Chicago Times-Herald contained a splendid outburst of Mr. Kelso and said, in part:
"A downtown business man has been elected by the students in the University of Chicago Glee, Mandolin and Banjo Club to be the business manager of the combined organization. The new business manager, who accepted the position yesterday, is Wilbur M. Kelso, manager of the Monahan Antiseptic company, 59 McVicker Theatre building."
"Mr. Kelso was a student in the university from 1915 to '16, leaving in that year to take law examinations, after which he was admitted to the Illinois bar. While in the university Mr. Kelso was assistant manager of the University Weekly. During the last few years he has aided the student organizations of the various organizations occasionally, and last year he had charge of the business management of the university comic opera, which netted over $3,000 for the women workers in the University Settlement League."

Funeral of Glen Royce.
The funeral services over the remains of Glen Royce, whose death occurred Thursday, were held at the Christian church at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Interment was made in Oak Hill cemetery. The Modern Woodmen of America, of which order the deceased was a member, had charge of the funeral.

BOY INSTANTLY KILLED

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Wash Young Meets With a Sad Accident.

While Riding a Pony in the Pasture the Animal Stumbles and Falls on Top of the Unfortunate Lad—His Neck is Broken—Body Found Several Hours After the Accident Occurred.

George, the nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wash Young, lies cold in death at the home of his parents, four miles west of this city, as the result of a sad accident, which befell him late yesterday afternoon. After school yesterday he went to the barn and saddled his pony in order to go out into the pasture after the cows. Mr. Young, who had been to town, came home about 9 o'clock and found the boy had not returned. The father at once set out to search for the missing boy, but found no trace of him. He returned to the house, thinking that the lad had probably put in an appearance in the meantime. Finding that he had not done so, Mr. Young decided to make another and more thorough search of the premises—this time accompanied by his dog. As if by instinct, the dog bounded ahead and led Mr. Young directly to a place where a sad sight was revealed to the horror-stricken father. The boy and pony were found—both dead—lying in a hollow, which, from a distance, slightly hid them from view. The animal had evidently stumbled while galloping down the incline, falling on top of the unfortunate lad.

Thinking that the boy had only been stunned by the fall, Mr. Young immediately got him out from under the horse and carried him to the house. Dr. Schildknecht was at once summoned by telephone, but when the physician arrived he found that the little fellow had been dead for several hours. His neck had been broken, and the pony suffered a similar fracture.

The members of the afflicted family have the sincere sympathy of the entire community.

The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence. Rev. Asa Sieeth of the Methodist church will conduct the services.

RETURN OF GOV. YATES.

After He Looks Over His Mail He Will Re-Open His Office.

Jacksonville, Ills., Dec. 5.—Governor-Elect Yates has returned from his western and southern trip much refreshed by his outing, and still fighting shy of political questions, especially of the Republican factional kind. When asked what he would do regarding the United States senatorship and the speakership of the house, he said: "I know of nothing new to communicate concerning those matters. I have not kept track of Illinois politics since my departure three weeks ago."

"I want the next three days to look over my mail, and then I expect to give a good deal of time to receiving callers at the internal revenue office in Springfield, where I shall be from now until Jan. 14, except Saturdays, when I shall be in Chicago, and except also an occasional day in Jacksonville. I hope and expect applicants for office to come and see me, but also to remember that I shall not announce or promise any appointments before inauguration day."
