

Land Opening

AN IRRIGATED TRACT
OF

20,000--ACRES--20,000

IN

The Great
North Platte Valley of Nebraska

NOW OPEN FOR SETTLEMENT

The irrigated land in this valley is, without doubt, the very best purchase on the market today. Conditions of climate, altitude, soil, geographical position and WATER SUPPLY all favor this locality. This land will be sold with perpetual water rights from one of the earliest appropriations out of the North Platte River, the largest and best river that flows east from the Rocky Mountains. This river may well be called the "River Nile of America." It carries double the amount of water of the South Platte, the Arkansas and the Cache La Poudre rivers combined. The silt and mud carried in the water leaves a coat of fertilizer each year equal in richness to that which for thousands of years has been annually deposited by the River Nile upon that rainless and otherwise sterile country of Egypt, making it one of the most fertile valleys on earth.

THE LAND OF SUNSHINE AND HEALTH

The country where every crop grown in this latitude reaches perfection—where floods don't drown out your crops in spring, or drouth burn them up in summer; where SUGAR BEETS, POTATOES, PEAS or ALFALFA will pay 25 PER CENT on $200 PER ACRE.

The North Platte Valley has demonstrated the adaptability of its soil to the beet, and during the past three years the crop was shipped first to Grand Island and then to Ames, Nebraska, and this year to Sterling, Colorado, the factory paying the freight. This they will not have to do when there is in cultivation the necessary acreage to insure a factory. (5,000 acres.)

BEST OF RAILROAD FACILITIES

The Belmont canal is in Cheyenne county. Its water supply comes from the North Platte River, which is the finest stream flowing east from the Rocky Mountains. The headgate is located about eight miles east of Bridgeport, Neb., and the canal follows along the foot of the hills, which rim the valley in the south side of the river, for over forty miles.

Do you want land where there is no such thing as crop failure? Where you control both seed time and harvest. Where you have no long cold wet spells to interrupt the cultivation of your crop? Where you apply the water when the proper stage of growth is reached and the sunshine does the rest? Where no ill-timed showers spoil your ungarnered grain? And where you never fail to get the highest market price for your products that are grown to perfection?

If you do, now is your opportunity. For further information write
