Plattsmouth No. 85 Nebraska No. 85

THE present legislature is absolutely subservient to Bryan, the brewers, and the corporations.

ONE good way to make a good town is for everybody to get out and push. Plattsmouth is full of good pushers. Let us get out and push.

THERE is just one way to achieve success in the commerical world. That is to procure a good product, and push it by good advertising. Not all advestising is good, but good advertising insistently, consistently and persistently done will bring success.

THE George Washington University the other day conferred the degree of L. L. D. upon President Theodore Roosevelt, Governor Charles E. Hughes, and Bishop Alfred Harding. It is difficult to say which received the greater honor, the university or the persons receiving the degree.

BY READING the items included in the appropriations recommended by the democratic legislature it will be observed that not a dollar in included for the expenses of the State Railway Commission. This is no surprise, as there is little doubt, but that this is a democratic corporation legislature, pure and simple.

A GOOD CONGRESSMAN

Representative and Mrs. Pollard had expected to start for their home immediately after inauguration, but will be detained probably two weeks. Their little son has been taken down with measles, of which there are several thousand cases in Washington at present. His case is not dangerous, but is by no means mild.—Lincoln Journal.

The First District never had a congressman, who did more real practical service to his district than Congressman E. M. Pollard. This district is purely an agricultural district, and Mr. Pollard procured the sending of experts from the Agricultural Department into the orcards and fields to demonstrate by practical application how to protect the crops and obtain the best results. These experts were not mere book farmers, but practical experimentalists, who had fully tested the experiments before giving them to the farmers. The benefits derived must last for years.

Thousands, tens of thousands of dollars, are expended each year, in each county, in the district, in repairing and maintaining public roads. Mr. Pollard procured experts on the subject of good roads to be sent from the Agricultural Department to teach those interested and those who should be interested, how to build and maintain good roads, at a minimum cost to the taxpayers. These experts were not mere theorists, but actual and practical experts in road building. We fear that in some instances those who should have profited most, failed to appreciate the advice given by these experts. Every farmer in this county knows that much advancement in the method of building and maintainting good roads is certainly needed.

No congressman in the history of the State ever did so much for the City of Plattsmouth, as has been done by Congressman Pollard. It is high time that the people wake up and realize that such a valuable public servant as Congressman Pollard has been should be kept in a position where he can continue the good work. There is no question but that Cass county and the First District, as well as the state and nation, are loosers by the retirement of Mr. Pollard. At the next election he should be asked to take up the work and continue it.

JOURNAL GETTING NERVOUS.

If the solons of Lincoln intend to carry out their party pledges they had better be moving as the session of the legislature is drawing near a close. And if they don't carry out their pledges, the members at fault might as well write finis after their political careers.—Plattsmouth Journal.

Don't get discouraged "Bob." The "Kunnel" will write you a letter soon telling how "busy" those "shrewd fellows" have been. But, we must confess that we have never heard of as worthless, incompetent, and irresponsible a bunch of "pie hunters" having ever before been assembled under the name of a legislature.

CASS COUNTY INTERURBAN SYSTEM.

An interurban railway through Cass county would be of vast value to the farmers. Where is the farmer today, who would dispense with the rural mail service, or with the farmers' telephone. These two services have added much to the market value of the farms of this county, and an interurban railway would add vastly more. Where is the farm that would not be greatly enhanced in value if there was an interurban railway running past his door. The modern interurban is not only a passenger carrier, but is rapidly becoming freight carriers. The freight cars used on the modern interurban railway, easily have a carrying capacity equal to the freight cars on the steam railroads in the early days. Many persons living in this country will remember that only a few years ago in some parts of the country there were railroads known as narrow gauge roads. The interurban railway freight carrying capacity is even greater than those early railroads.

Suppose for illustration an interurban railway in this county was built connecting the towns of Eagle, Elmwood, Alvo, Greenwood, Murdock and Manley with Weeping Water, and then a line was run from Manley to Murray, and another line from Plattsmouth to Union arranged so that on all of the lines between all the towns thus connected by interurban lines the farmers could at their very door load their grain, produce, milk, poultry, apples, etc., on the interurban freight cars and promptly get it to market. It would bring a daily market to his very door. This alone would make the farmers of this country thousands of dollars, and at the same time would make all of the towns in the county better towns. It would be the very kind of progress that would add to the happiness and properity of country life. The eastern states have in many instances adopted this system of interurban railways. There is no reason why Cass county should lag behind.

THIS Bryan-Brewery-Corporation legislature will go down in the history of the state as the most worthless, most incompetent, and subservient legislature that ever occupied seats in the state house.

MR. LEE J. MAYFIELD, who for many years has been proprietor and editor of the Louisville Weekly Courier, has decided to retire from the field of journalism. Lee has has made a success of the Courier. We wish you success in whatever field you may enter, Bro. Mayfield.

THE decision of the United States circuit court in the rebate case against the New York Central Railroad company imposing a fine of $108,000 upon that company for granting rebates to the American Sugar company, was affirmed by the Supreme Court of the United States. The company was convicted upon six separate offenses, and a fine of $18,000 was assessed by the court for each offense. Slowly but surely, one by one, the penalties are being enforced against the great corporations for violation of the law. A re-trial of the famous case against the Standard Oil Company, in which Judge Landis assessed a fine of $29,000,000, is now in progress at Chicago. It pays best to obey the law. Corporations are beginning to learn these facts.

THE independent steel manufacturers have forced the price of structural steel down from $1.60 to $1.25 per ton, and the price of steel bars dropped as much as $4.00 per ton. Competition forced the United States Steel Trust to make similar reductions in prices. Competition is not entirely obliterated yet.

IF THERE is a single local merchant in this city, who cannot give consumers better bargains than they can get in Omaha or from catalogue houses, then that merchant has not mastered his own business. It is being done and will continue to be done by some of the local merchants. It should be done by all, for the reason that it can be done. This has been demonstrated to the full satisfaction of the writer.

WE ARE informed that one who assumes to speak with authority has told some of the saloonkeepers that they could keep open until 11:30 p. m. If this be true, and the saloonkeepers of this city have no more sense than to follow such advice, then we predict that the day will not be far distant when they will find the public aroused against them. It is the abuse of the liquor traffic that has set in motion the temperance movement. It is the abuse of the liquor traffic that will keep the movement alive and active until the last vestige of it shall have been wiped out.

IN 1899, Mr. Bryan solicited a donation from Mr. Carnegie for a Carnegie library for the city of Lincoln, and in 1909, Mr. Bryan opposes the Carnegie pens on fund for aged professors of the University after they retired from teaching. "The Carnegie of that day and the Carnegie of today," Mr. Bryan explained, "were not the same. The Carnegie that established the libraries was an ironmaster, but the Carnegie who established the pensions for teachers is a steel magnate." The difference is not in Mr Carnegie, but in Mr. Bryan. In 1899, Mr. Bryan could gain some prominence by procuring the donation, in 1909, he could get more advertising by opposing it. The sole question with Mr. Bryan seems to be, does it benefit Bryan.
