

GROCERY QUALITY and PRICES

The higher the quality, the lower the prices! We mean that on really superexcellent groceries our prices are considerably lower than what you'll find in other stores. In fact, the majority of the groceries that we carry are not to be found in any other store in town at any price—they're too fine to find ready sale in ordinary stores. That's why we make a specialty of them, at even lower prices than worthless stuffs are offered for elsewhere. Dependable groceries—low prices. A combination thrifty people will not ignore.

Case Quality

Case Machinery is best because it is simple in construction, durable and long-lived. This class of machinery is so constructed as to require less power to operate and are moneymakers. Our Case Traction Engines are spring mounted thus reducing vibration to a minimum. They are simple in construction so that all the details can be easily mastered. They are so strongly built and put together that they will last a lifetime. These engines are favorites with threshermen because they consume less fuel and have large tanks and roomy fuel bunkers. For an all round, good, serviceable engine get a Case Engine. See me for catalogues and prices.

Use of Salt.

Salt in moderate quantities is good for everybody. It aids digestion, and, better still, it makes one thirsty. If we eat plenty of salt and salty foods we will drink more water, and most people do not drink enough water. Try eating a raw apple sprinkled with salt. It is very good, particularly good for children. Pepper, on the other hand, and spices should not be given to children, unless in the most meager quantities. At many of the sanitariums the food is not seasoned at all, except with salt.

Editor's Notice.

If the heeler who handed in a slip of paper marked, "How much did Salome?" will bring himself and a stout hemp rope to the office tonight we will supply the necessary chandelier.—Yale Record.

Fact.

Ambitious young men who contemplate a change from bookkeeping should bear in mind the fact that there is likewise an upkeep connected with a poultry farm.—Indianapolis News.

"Showed" Him How.

A Missouri man sent a quarter several hundred miles to find out how to save his sock heels, and the fellow suggested that he cut out the heels with a pair of scissors and put them in the top drawer.

A Corsican Receipt.

Knicker—"What do you do when you are found out?" Bocker—"Bear it with the resignation of a Christian and the stern indifference of a philosopher."

Died with Sword in Hand.

With a sword in his hand, a retired mariner named Richard Crick, age 85 was found dead in his bed at his residence, 19 Falconer terrace, Plaistow, England.

Uncle Eben.

"Sometimes," said Uncle Eben, "de man dat insists on bein' de whole show ain' got much respect foh de feelin's of de audience."

Her Comment.

"The plot thickens," said the old lady, as she sowed grass seed for the third time.—Yale Record.

But Is He?

When a man pawns his watch he probably believes that he is making good use of his time.

Virtue in Patient Waiting.

Collier: Patient waiting is often the highest way of doing God's will.

In Praise of Dutifulness.

The dutifulness of children is the foundation of all virtues.—Clemson.

Amusing the Baby.

A simple device for keeping baby amused and happy is to fasten at intervals upon a broad bright ribbon the little toys of which he is most fond, suspending the ribbon above the bed upon which he lies, within reach of his little hands, by securing one end to the head of the bed and the other to the foot. He will then entertain himself by the hour pushing the toys back and forth and watching them swing above him.—Harper's Bazar.

Property and Proprietors.

The rights of property have been so much extended that the rights of the community have almost altogether disappeared and it is hardly too much to say that the prosperity and the comfort and the liberties of a great proportion of the population have been laid at the feet of a small number of proprietors, who neither toil nor spin.—Joseph Chamberlain.

Lightning Flashes.

Accumulating evidence shows that lightning flashes may have a much more varied structure than was formerly supposed. Photographs by A. Larsen, a Danish photographer, indicate that flashes may be made up of small electric discharges, or rushes, of which 40 may follow along nearly the same path in half a minute.

Just What She Wanted.

Mrs. Nurick was in the jewelry store. "Here are some new sovereign spoons we have just got in," said the clerk, placing a tray for her inspection. "Oh, ain't those lovely!" she exclaimed. "I must have some of those! Our cook makes such lovely soups!"

Cult of the Garden.

There never was a time when the interest in gardening was so keen as it is now. Gardening has become the hobby of the wealthy and well-to-do classes, who not only enjoy plants and flowers when they are grown, but take an active part in the culture of their favorites.—Estate Magazine.

By Force of Circumstances.

"I am convinced," said the proprietor of the jeweler's shop, as the plate glass window shattered into a million fragments and the chauffeur and his machine began to rattle behind the counter, "that the taxicab has come to stay."

Where China Gets Its Reading.

The school books in China are translations of manuals used in Japan, while military lore is taken from the German, and treatises on mathematics, physics, chemistry and mechanics are reproduced from English or American works.

Lost Ring Found After 42 Years.

The gold band ring which Theodore Geissel found while digging in his garden recently has been claimed by Mrs. Anna Wolf, widow of Joseph Wolf of Woodbury, who is now 86 years old. She says it was her wedding ring, which she lost 42 years ago as she was milking a cow while living on the place. At that time diligent search failed to reveal it.—Mantua correspondence Philadelphia Record.

Unable to Learn.

A remarkable report concerning a Peckham schoolboy who cannot learn was presented by the education committee of the London county council. Though nearly 13, the boy has only learned during his career two or three letters, and here he has forgotten. He cannot write, neither can he calculate. It was decided to expel the boy from school.

Keeping a Husband.

Mrs. Hatton of Chicago is lecturing to the women of that town on "How to Keep a Husband." It's no problem at all. The woman that properly feeds and clothes her spouse, furnishes him with cigars and gives him for spending money a fourth of what the boarders pay, will never be apt to lose him.—Houston Post.

Who Rode the Donkey?

Percy (exhibiting a bromide enlargement of kodak snapshot of himself riding a donkey)—"See, Dick, I had this taken when I was south during the holidays. Do you think it does me justice?" Dick—"Why, yes, rather; but who's the awkward rider on your back?"

More Lives Than a Cat.

A police agent at Tiflis, Russia, escaped the fifteenth attempt upon his life a week or two ago, when he was merely knocked down by a bomb explosion that killed his two companions. Although he is entitled to a pension, he prefers not to quit the service.

Flavored with Tomato Catsup.

The waters of Narragansett bay were well seasoned with tomato catsup the other day when 650 cases containing 15,000 bottles were dumped into the sea because the manufacturers had not labeled the bottles in accordance with the pure food law.

Didn't Mean Hair Loom.

"Speaking of bedrooms," broke in the loquacious landlady, "I have one which has come down through five generations and—" "Pardon me," came the voice of the frivolous boarder, "but do you refer to the butter?"

"Give me the man who loves his work,
However hard it be;
Who only thinks it mean to shirk,
And hates the hireling's plea.
Though hands and face be hard and brown,
That were a trival thing;
Who wears his duty like a crown,
Is every inch a king."
