HE WHO teaches often learns himself.

IT IS disheartening to call a bluff that is not a bluff.

THERE'S always room for one more in the crowd at the bottom.

THE drudgery we call a drag may be the counterpoise that helps us to rise.

TAKING pleasures as they come is happiness; running after them is misery.

IT'S the little kindnesses we sow that give us the harvest of perpetual pleasure.

IT OFTEN takes the barrenness of the desert to teach us to look up to the stars.

WE BLAME Providence for our poverty, but take the credit ourselves when we get rich.

SOME people never get too old to learn, and some others never get old enough to learn anything.

IF YOU don't see what you want, advertise. The fact that you want it is ample reason that you ought to have it—and advertising is a means to an end.

LOCAL merchants handling alfalfa seed should use great care in procuring clean seed, as this will be of the greatest possible benefit to the farmers. The greatest expense the farmer has is to fight weeds. For this reason he should be specially interested in not planting such weed seeds as are often found in clover and alfalfa. Dodder is a parasitic plant and often kills clover. Buckhorn seed is common in clover, as two destructive kinds of plantain.

Long ago the Scotch learned this.

The sturdy old Scotchman must be amused at the recent "discoveries" that oatmeal is the best food in the world.

Our scientific men have been making experiments which prove that Americans eat too much fat and grease and not enough cereals.

The Scotchmen say: "Look at our nation as proof. The sturdiest nation on earth." Still we have one good point to make. We make better oatmeal than the Scotch.

They buy Quaker Oats and consider it the leader of all oatmeals to be had anywhere. If you are convenient to the store you'll probably buy the regular size package. For those who live in the country the large size family package is more satisfactory. Follow the example of the Scotch; eat a Quaker Oats breakfast every day.

Card of Thanks.

We desire herewith to express our thanks to the many friends whose heart felt sympathy was so manifestly shown toward us during our great bereavement in the loss of wife daughter and sister. Most earnestly do we express our thanks for the large number of beautiful floral offerings and to Dr. Huntington and the pastors of the city for their words to comfort.

Such acts of sympathy show forth the real Christ-life of helpfulness and have done much to make lighter our sorrow. May the dear Heavenly Father fill all your lives with his richest love.
