

THE NEWS-HERALD

PLATTSMOUTH, NEBRASKA

Entered at the postoffice at Plattsmouth, Cass County, Nebraska, as second class mail matter.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF CASS COUNTY

THE NEWS-HERALD PUBLISHING COMPANY, Publishers

P. A. BARROWS Editor and Manager

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION
One Year in Advance, $1.50. Six Months in advance, 75c

Plattsmouth Telephone No. 85. Nebraska Telephone No. 85

OCTOBER 7, 1909

REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET.

For Justices of the Supreme Court—
JOHN B. BARNES,
JACOB FAWCETT,
SAMUEL H. SEDGWICK.

For Regents of the State University—
CHARLES S. ALLEN,
W. G. WHITMORE.

For Regent of the State University—
(To fill vacancy.)
FRANK L. HALLER.

COUNTY TICKET

County Clerk—
GEORGE LUSHINSKY

County Treasurer—
JOHN GERRY STARK

County Judge—
A. J. BEESON

Sheriff—
C. D. QUINTON

County Superintendent—
E. E. ODELL

Register of Deeds—
LAURENCE H. DAFI

Coroner—
B. I. CLEMENTS

Commissioner—
M. L. FREDRICH

Race track betting in New York has been given a hard blow and many prominent men and officials will be caught in the net that is being set for them.

James J. Hill has given orders that the pay of shopmen on the Burlington and Great Northern shall be raised, to go into effect September 1st. The increase will amount to one cent an hour.

Some of the democratic papers refer to the republican candidate for county superintendent as being "hardly a voter." The democratic candidate can not even be put in the "hardly" class.

George L. Sheldon has announced that he will make no declaration of his intention to be a candidate for governor next year until after the present campaign is over. Cass county republicans will hail with delight a declaration from the governor that he will again be a candidate.

And now the Omaha World-Herald and the Lincoln Evening News, after playing "two souls with but a single thought" are now gnashing their teeth at each other over the late unpleasantness at Omaha in which the governor was rudely "insulted," and neither can forget nor forgive.

In Massachusetts the disgruntled republicans who are "formists" the president have formed an alliance with the democrats as a "protest" against the stand taken by Mr. Taft. This is another indication of how quick after a man gets to kicking, then goes to knocking, that he is a fit subject for a democratic alliance.

Our democratic friends do not seem to be saying quite so much about having Senator Burkett and C. O. Wheldon enter that joint debate since W. J. Bryan refused to enter into the same kind of a discussion with Senator Bailey giving as his reasons for not doing so as being mighty poor judgement for two members of the same party to enter into a discussion of political questions. Premature discharges have always been the weakness of the democratic blunderbuss.

Members of the newspaper profession all over Nebraska will sympathize greatly with Editor and Mrs. Ross L. Hammond of Fremont in the death of their fourteen year old daughter Louise which occurred very suddenly last week. Miss Louise was the eldest of their children and a very bright and promi-ing girl just budding into young womanhood, and their loss can only be appreciated fully by those, who like the editor of this paper, have passed through the same trying affliction.

A. W. Ladd of the Albion News and Ross L. Hammond of the Fremont Tribune, having caught the spirit of controversy lately brought out in the north pole discovery, are each claiming to be the oldest editor in point of service in the state. We do not know which man is entitled to the honor, but we do know that they have both fought many hard battles to keep the wolf from the door in the early days of the settlement of Nebraska and both of them are entitled to be called any old thing that they desire. If Hammond wants to be called the King of Beasts, than Ladd can be the Monarch of the Jungle.

"Bishop Sunbeams," a copy of which has been received at this office, is the second one of Richard L. Metcalf's book which have been placed before the public. The first one, "Of such is the Kingdom," had a most phenomenal sale and Bishop Sunbeams will without doubt outrival its predecessor. Mr. Metcalf has a pleasant way about him in every day life, and his every day life shows in the many fine things found in his last book. Nebraska people should appreciate its editor-author, as they have already, and secure this book, not because its author is a Nebraska man, but because the book is a worthy one and everyone should read it.

The campaign so far in Cass county has passed with very little hard feelings on the part of any of the candidates and it is hoped that no one will get so anxious for the office that he will attempt to secure it at the expense of the friendship of his rival. When election is over every candidate ought to be able to take his opponent by the hand, look him straight in the eye and congratulate him, or receive his congratulations, without the feeling in his heart that he has possibly been unfair in his campaign work. The thought of a campaign honestly conducted and lost, is of more value than an office gained with the loss of self respect and the friendship of your defeated rival.

THE COUNTY SUPERINTENDENCY.

Mr. E. E. Odell, who is a candidate on the republican ticket for County Superintendent, is a young man well qualified for the position to which he aspires. He is a native of Iowa, graduating from the Farragut High School in 1899, but came to Nebraska in 1900 and entered the Nebraska State Normal School at Peru, where he was educated, taking both the training and higher courses.

He has devoted all his time to educational work having taught seven years in rural, village and city schools. His work as a teacher has been remarkably successful, being praised by all who are familiar with it. He is a wide awake school man, keeping abreast of the times and very enthusiastic for only the best in education. His character is above reproach, being that of an exemplary young man. He united with the the Christian church in 1898 and has been an active worker ever since. The voters of Cass County should vote for E. E. Odell and by so doing secure a thoroughly competent man to direct the school affairs of the county.

There is something very peculiar about a democratic platform. It is generally made to get in on, but not sufficiently strong enough to stand on after being in. It is a sort of "good stuff here, but mighty poor over yonder," and keeps a fellow guessing most of the time as to what a democrat really believes anyhow. Here in Cass county the democrats are howling loudly because a republican is a candidate for a third term, and say that a man who would ask for a third term is not the right man to have in office. Down in Richardson county the whole caboodle of democratic officers who had served their second terms were nominated for the third time and that too on a positive declaration two years ago that they would not be candidates for another term. If it is wrong for a man to run for office the third time in Cass county and all right in Richardson county, will somebody please give us the reason. Does the democratic principle of "two terms enough" apply only to republicans while democrats are immune? If the democrats of Richardson believe that if a man has made a good officer he should be kept there, why should not the democrats of Cass county believe the same way. It isn't such an awful long distance from Cass to Richardson, and what is good for one ought surely to be good for the other. The fact of the whole matter is that the more the democrats argue the third term proposition the more they appear foolish to the public. The sooner the democratic party gets down to good sound sensible argument, if they have any, the sooner will they begin to stand some show with the people.

WELL! WELL! WELL!

Seven months ago yesterday a new president took his seat. It is more than three years to the election of another, and nearly three years before nominations are to be made. Yet political gossip is absorbed in the question of a successor to Mr. Taft. If the present journey of the president is a fence fixing tour, as gossip has it, then of course there is nothing to do but discuss the matter. But that this is his main propose, considering how little he has tried to adapt his speeches to the sentiment of the people along the way, seems doubtful. It hardly seems fair to form an opinion of a president before he has had time to warm his chair. Because he has spoken well of Aldrich, supported Ballinger, and withheld over aid or comfort from the insurgents, Collier's remarks that the next president is likely to be Theodore Roosevelt or a democrat. Patience! Not even Collier's doubts the president's good intentions. He takes a road to his goal quite different from his predecessor's route to the same goal. One may fear that his way may be effectively blocked by the Aldriches, Ballingers, and stand patters in whole company he elects to travel, but give him a chance. Perchance he may get as far pulling them along with him, keeping them in sight, as if they were waiting for him with poised sandbag in the ticket ahead. It is the least part of fairness, since a decision is not now necessary, to wait awhile and see.—State Journal.

We wish to congratulate the Lincoln Journal that it has at last seen the light. Now if it will only convert its democratic adjunct, the Evening News, and convince it that it is barking up the wrong tree, we shall have to conclude that really there is something up there that will make a republican feel that life in the capital of the state is worth living.

There can be nothing gained by jumping on to President Taft just at the beginning of his term of office, just because he does not go as fast as some of us think he ought to go. His method of gaining his point is so greatly different than that of his predecessor that it is not strange that he should be criticised by those who want to accomplish much in little time. President Taft is not a trimmer. He has a way of saying just what he thinks and saying it just the way he wants it said, regardless of whether it suits the critics or not. Instead of condemning the president for being that kind of a man the public should be thankful that they have a president who says just what he thinks and does not go off half cocked.

Working For Convention.

President C. E. Noyes of the Cass county Sunday School association, accompanied by Mrs. Noyes and Dr. and Mrs. Polk of Louisville drove over Sunday in the automobile of the former for the purpose of conferring with some of the local committee relative to the coming annual convention of the association to be held in Elmwood the latter part of this month.

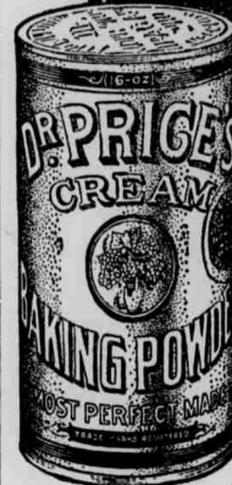

PLATTSMOUTH DAILY NEWS.

On Saturday, October 9th, we will begin the publication of the Plattsmouth Daily News. On account of the constant demand made upon us, or rather the request from so many that they want a republican daily in this city, we have decided to branch out and if during the next few months the people appreciate the paper, and show their appreciation by giving it the patronage necessary to make its a success financially, we will endeavor to give them value received.

Mr. R. O. Watters, who has been associated with the NEWS-HERALD for the past year will have charge of the circulating department and we feel assured that with his wide acquaintance the circulation of both papers will rapidly increase.

By special arrangement we have secured several features which will be greeted with pleasure by our readers. We have spared no expense to secure these features and we feel that our readers will be pleased with them.

To those who are interested in sports of all kinds we have secured a sporting page profusely illustrated. Our agricultural page will combine, farm, garden, orchard and dairy. A scientific page will interest those who like scientific reading. Our numerous department alone will be worth the price of the paper and will be illustrated with work from the best artists. The page devoted to the interests of labor will also interest everybody, for at this time the laboring man is in the minds of all. Then there will be two and three column stories, a pattern department, and a Woman's feature department and a Youth's department. On Saturday of each week we will publish the Sunday school lesson. Another great feature will be a popular serial story running continuously each day. Our news department will be up to date and

Made From Grapes

DR. PRICE'S CREAM Baking Powder

Pure, Healthful
Grape Cream of Tartar Powder

No Alum

No Lime Phosphates

will be reliable. The editorial department will be fearless and undeniably republican in politics and will hue to the line let the chips fall where they may.

During the past week we added to the mechanical department of the office a Mentges folding machine of the very latest make, and in a short time we expect to put in a type setting machine of the most modern kind.

With these features to present to our readers and the added one of coming from an institution equipped with the very latest devices for giving the people the best that is going, we feel that no one can afford to be without the Plattsmouth Daily News.

Among the many who went to see the electric parade Wednesday were Hon. R. R. Windham and his daughter, Miss Ellen; T. W. Glenn, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Carter, Mrs. Sarah Lair, Mrs. Laura Gradoville, Mr. and Mrs. Sadie Griffin, W. W. Coates, Ed. Fitzgerald, C. I. McMaken and his son, Guy, and the latter's wife and her two sisters, the Misses Anna and Mary Peterson, Mrs. Burton, Miss Cora Walker, C. L. Herger, Phil Thierolf, Thomas Bates, Miss Lucile Bates, Frank Dunbar.

The revival meetings which have been so well attended at the tent in the rear of the court house during the week, we understand will close on Sunday evening.

E. G. DOVEY & SON

Notice of Dissolution

Notice is hereby given that the co-partnership of E. G. Dovey & Son, heretofore composed of the signers hereof, is by mutual consent this day dissolved. Oliver C. Dovey retiring therefrom. The business of said partnership will be conducted hereafter under the name of E. G. Dovey & Son, by George E. Dovey and Horatio N. Dovey, who assume all debts and liabilities of the former firm and will pay the same.

HORATIO N. DOVEY
GEORGE E. DOVEY
OLIVER C. DOVEY

Plattsmouth, Neb., Sept. 22, 1909.

E. G. DOVEY & SON