IS OMAHA JEALOUS?

Account of Big Plattsmouth Banquet Not Published.

ALL OMAHA PAPERS
TURN DOWN STORY

Probably Afraid this City May be Future Metropolis.

The Omaha papers up to this time have failed to give any account of the big banquet given by the commercial club of this city last Monday evening, notwithstanding accounts some were sent to the papers there.

It is supposed that the Omaha papers are afraid, now that Plattsmouth has taken a boom, that the town will grow to such proportions that Omaha will no longer be the metropolis of the state.

There may be grounds for their fears, for if the speakers from Omaha are to be believed, the future of this city is very bright. Omaha is most too close to South Omaha to ever be a real metropolitan city, though the South Omaha aroma which floats over the city up the creek may have elements of value not yet discovered.

At present the airship problem has been agitating the Omaha people, for the reason that they have been trying to get above the smell, but so far it has not given satisfaction because they were unable to get back before eight o'clock, and between the South Omaha aroma and the loss of the usual custom of pushing their vest fronts up against the bar of a wet emporium, they prefer the aroma.

The capital city did not mention our banquet, though they were given a chance. It is intimated that they fear that the capital may be moved to Plattsmouth, provided the governor calls that extra session. But then, Plattsmouth doesn't want the state house.

Mr. Murray applied for license last Monday, but was denied the permit for the time being because he could not supply the necessary information in regard to his wife's mother.

"Never mind," replied the aged bridegroom, "she'll be here soon. Don't need the license anyway until she gets here."

But Monday passed and most of Tuesday before she did finally come. Meanwhile the bridegroom watched every train.

Mr. Murray, who was married in Omaha yesterday, came to Cass county in 1854, and is one of the oldest citizens in Nebraska. He resided a few miles from Plattsmouth for many years, then removed to this city where he resided about five years, and has resided in Pender the past four years. His wife died about two years ago. Mr. Murray was well known in this city and vicinity.

ALLIANCE CHALLENGE ACCEPTED BY HAVELOCK

Football Game for $200 will Be Played at Grand Island.

HAVELOCK, Dec. 3.—Havelock accepts the challenge of the Alliance team to play a post season game at Grand Island on New Year's day, for a purse of at least $200 and this will probably be raised to a larger sum before the game is played. The game between the teams played at Alliance on Thanksgiving day resulted in a victory for the Alliance aggregation, the score being 5 to 0, so the contest on New Year's day has all the prospects of a hard fight. The local team claims that it did not get fair play at Alliance which is the real reason for the scheduling of the post season contest.

LOOKS LIKE WAR FOR SURE

Nicaraguan Minister Given Passports and War Declared.

PRESIDENT ZELAYA MUST
FISH OR CUT BAIT

Monkeying with Uncle Sam will Not Be Tolerated.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—In returning to Minister Rogrigues his passports as minister from the Nicaraguan government, the United States severed relations with that government which is a virtual declaration of war.

It only awaits a declaration from both houses of congress to make the action a declaration of war. The letter of secretary Knox to the Nicaraguan minister was a very complete and plain statement of conditions which now exist and which have existed for some time. He accuses the president of that republic of being a menace to law and order in South America and that he more than anything else is responsible for the constant turmoil down there.

Enjoyed Visit in Denver.

Pete Lindsay and wife returned home Friday evening after a week's visit in Denver.

FORGOT

THE SONG

Organization at Omaha Wanted to Sing National Song.

DID NOT KNOW
TUNE OR WORDS

Funny Incident Pulled off in the Metropolitan City.

There are many funny things happen in Omaha, but the latest takes the whole limburger. There was a gathering up in that city a few nights ago and they thought it would be a good thing to open the meeting up with a rendition of the national hymn.

Somebody struck up "Where the Silver Colorado Wends its Way," but there did not seem to be anybody who could strike the high places.

Then another fellow tried "Meet Me by the Moonlight Alone," but no one seemed to want to meet him, and he gave up the job.

Then someone suggested that they try "Dixie," but nobody knew the right key.

Then a happy thought struck another fellow, and he volunteered to go out and find a book and find out what was wanted. While he was out in search of the right article, someone suggested that they sing something that everybody knew, and straightway they struck up the familiar Omaha anthem "We All Go Home at Eight O'clock" and everybody was able to sing heartily.

Mrs. Gracie Johnson Dead.
"Auntie" Gracie Johnson, as she was familiarly known, passed away Thursday in this city. She had resided in this city for many years with her brother, "Uncle Ned" Baker, who was a well known character and a faithful Baptist. After his death she removed to Omaha, but returned to this city recently. Her son, George, says that she was born in Louisiana a slave, and was married when quite young, and was at the time of her death about 65 years of age. The colored woman was laid to rest beside her husband in Oak Hill cemetery.

Miss Alice Hubbell has returned from Bartlett, Iowa, where she was visiting with her parents.
