Makes Fine Appearance.

Our attention was called on passing the store of Robert Sherwood this morning to the tastefully arranged display which graced the windows. The trimming of the windows, in the background, the added heightened effect, the sprays of bitter sweet leaves, and the artistically arrangement of the goods on display, all seemed to form their portion of the general symmetry of the whole, which produced a most harmonious and pleasing effect. Not only was the effect pleasing when one had examined the same but was such as would attract and hold ones attention, and present not alone the beauties, but the value of the goods therein. Take a look at this artistic piece of window dressing.

The Burlington railway has presented this office with a very nice map of the United States, and one which we greatly appreciate.

Fred Beckley of Tekamah came in this morning and is visiting at the home of Andrew Dill for a few days, after which he will go to Colorado for a visit before returning home.
