DETROIT SPENDING BIG SUM.

Before Doors Open at American Bowling Congress Feb. 26 Nearly $15,000
 Will Have Been Expended—Bowlers
 Themselves Put Up Money.

Few people have the slightest idea of how much money is required to prepare for and conduct one of the annual tournaments of the American bowling congress, such as will be held in Detroit during February and March. Probably a few hundred only of the many thousands of bowlers scattered in the different states could give any idea of the finances required to make this big winter sporting event a success.

To begin with, it will require between $7,000 and $8,000 to put in alleys at the Wayne Gardens and prepare that place for the pin spillers. The alleys' builders will have seventy-five expert mechanics for the better part of the month doing this work. During the last three months a constant stream of advertising matter has been sent to every bowler within a thousand miles of Detroit. All in all, the Detroit Bowling Tournament company will have spent somewhere between $12,000 and $15,000 before the doors are opened Feb. 26. Then there will be thirty pin boys, thirty scorers and a large crew of other workers employed for the seventeen days which the tournament will run, all of whom must be paid good wages.

But this is only a start on what it costs the bowlers of the country to conduct the tournament.

From present indications the entry list will reach 450 five-man teams, coming from as far east as Montreal and Brooklyn, on the south Mobile, and Denver and St. Paul on the west and northwest. These men will spend from $30,000 to $40,000 in railroad fare and probably twice that amount while in the city of Detroit, for bowlers are liberal when out on their annual jaunt. From forty to fifty newspaper correspondents attend the annual tournaments and remain the entire three weeks.

To the person who is not a bowler it seems almost incredible to state that these enthusiasts do all this to go after cash prizes, and that their own money. The pot in Detroit will be something like $30,000, and every cent of this is put up by the bowlers themselves in entry fees.

Detroit and Michigan have many thousand bowlers who have been unable in the past to attend this big international event, so that state will undoubtedly turn out large.

The low railroad rate made, one and one-half fare for the round trip, will greatly assist in increasing the attendance in Detroit. Other cities that will run special trains are Milwaukee, Louisville, St. Louis, Indianapolis and Toronto.

Washington and St. Paul both promise to turn out the largest crowds they have ever sent to an American bowling congress tournament.

From these facts and figures some idea can be formed of what it means to Detroit to have the tenth international tournament, which opens Feb. 26 and closes March 15.

Detroit bowlers worked hard to land this tournament, campaigning at St. Louis and Cincinnati before being successful at Pittsburg last February; also many Detroit bowlers have done much good and effective work during the last few months to make the event a success, raising money and creating local enthusiasm as well as handling the general preparations.

STAR RUNNERS TO MEET.

Cracks of World Will Try For Honors in New York Feb. 14.

The greatest professional foot races ever put on in this country will take place at Madison Square Garden, New York, Feb. 14. Eight of the speediest middle distance men in the world will come together in a fifteen mile race, in which a special prize will be offered for the breaking of the indoor record for that distance.

From a field of at least a hundred applicants the following men have been selected to start: Alfred Shrubbs, the English speed marvel; Hans Holmer, the Canadian Marathon runner, who has come to the front very rapidly during the past year by defeating such men as St. Ives, Marsh, Hayes and Longboat; Accose, the western Canada Indian wonder; Charley Mueller, the New York crack; Jim Crowley, who recently turned professional and will have his first try at the professional game; Ljungstrom, the Swedish champion; Tom Eck's Indian, Redhawk, and Fred Meadows, the Canadian who recently defeated Shrubbs.

Wisconsin Plans Big Athletic Carnival.
 As part of a comprehensive scheme to restore the University of Wisconsin to a place in the front ranks of intercollegiate athletics it has been announced that an interscholastic basketball carnival, in which sectional champions from Iowa, Indiana, Illinois and other states will participate, will be held in the gymnasium March 10, 11 and 12.
