

THE ELEPHANT TURNED.

A Bit of Treachery and a Badly Battered Trainer.

Carl Hagenbeck, the eminent owner, exhibitor and trainer of wild animals, had many adventures in his half century of experience. Some of them are described in a book entitled "Beasts and Men." On more than one occasion an elephant came uncomfortably near putting an end to Mr. Hagenbeck's career. One of the worst accidents happened at the end of the sixties. About that time he purchased a menagerie at Trieste, which included among the other beasts a female elephant which stood about eight feet high. It seemed to be a thoroughly good tempered animal, its only fault being that it occasionally had the sulks—a not uncommon characteristic, comments Mr. Hagenbeck, "in all feminine creatures."

He soon made friends with the elephant, which he named Lissy, and he never passed its stall without giving it a handful of food. He was therefore, he believed, justified in thinking he had quite won its heart, and as it never showed any signs of violence it did not occur to Mr. Hagenbeck that he might be dealing with a grossly deceitful creature.

The elephant was learning a trick in which it had to swing its keeper into the air with its trunk and then slowly set him upon the ground again. The word of command which was given to the beast when it had to perform this simple exhibition was:

"Lissy, support!"
"One day," to continue in Mr. Hagenbeck's own words, "I found Lissy alone in her stable, the keeper being absent. It must have been a devil that made me feel a desire to be raised on high by her, after the manner of her affectionate treatment of her keeper. I stroked and fed her and then, taking hold of her trunk, called out the word of command:

"Lissy, support!"
"Then followed one of the most vilely treacherous acts of which I have ever heard. Lissy began to obey the order, but I soon felt that she was bent on mischief, for the embrace of her trunk was unpleasantly vigorous, and I soared high into the air.

"But I was not quietly deposited once more upon my feet.
"Instead of this Lissy dashed me violently against the wooden barrier in front of her stall, and I went flying over into the menagerie.

"I lay almost senseless upon the ground until the old keeper, Philippe, appeared to help me home.

"Fortunately no bones were broken, but I was terribly battered and bruised and for weeks could only hobble about with great pain."

BIG ENTRY FOR PENN MEET.

All Told 210 Colleges and Schools Will Compete in Relay Races.

The University of Pennsylvania relay races on Franklin field, Philadelphia, April 30, will be one of the biggest athletic meets of the year. The entries up to date include nine parochial schools, forty-one grammar schools, forty-seven high schools, fifty-eight preparatory schools and fifty-five colleges. This makes a total of 210 colleges and schools with teams in the races.

As there are ten colleges and schools that will have more than one team, there now are 220 teams entered. Pennsylvania will have teams in the one, two and four mile championships and in the freshman championship; Dartmouth has a team in the one mile and another in the four mile, and so on.

Nearly every big college in the east and west will be represented.

How Fortune Changes.

How strangely baseball fortunes do mutate! Some years ago Pat Tobeau gave his brother George a temporary job in the Cleveland outfield just to help him out with a little money. Now George is one of the biggest magnates, with probably twenty times as much money as Pat has tucked away.

COMING SPORT EVENTS

The great western handicap shoot will be held in Des Moines, Ia., May 24 to 26.

Haverford college, just outside of Philadelphia, will send a cricket eleven to England this summer, starting on June 11.

The Stanford track team again expects to participate in the western conference meet at Chicago in June. It will meet Utah and Colorado teams on its way.

The first long distance outdoor intercollegiate swimming meet has been planned by representatives of the leading colleges, to be held at Travers Island, New York, July 4 or 5.

Tommy Burns, who lost the heavy-weight championship to Jack Johnson, is coming back to America. He has accepted an offer to battle forty-five rounds with Sam Langford in Colma, Cal., Sept. 5.

MAYOR IS VERY MAD

the books," continued the mayor, "then it is my duty to see that it is strictly enforced."

"Will it be enforced so far as the churches are concerned?" he was asked. "Clergymen work for pay on Sunday don't they?" he answered, "so do many choir singers, as well as most of the organists. In other words, under the strict interpretation of the ordinance they break the law every Sunday of their lives."

"Then there are the street car employees, drug clerks, cigar salesmen, and several other small businesses. If it is against the law for theatres and moving picture shows to be open on the Sabbath, then my idea of the law is that it is wrong for everyone else, regardless of his kind of work, to be employed on that day. I am here here to enforce all laws and I am going to do it."

Mr. Billard was elected mayor of Topeka April 5. The churchmen of the Kansas capitol made a fight on him on the ground that he did not believe in God.—Kansas City Star.

WILLIAM GREW COMPANY

PRESENTS A COMEDY

Light Farce Last Night Spices Up

List of Company's Weekly Productions.

(From Saturday's Daily)

At the Parme last evening the Grew Company put on a laughable comedy farce that created a good many side-splitters. The play itself was hardly more than a conglomeration of laugh, but the parts were very well played and the result was a pleasing one to the well filled house. The play was entitled "The strange adventures of Miss Brown." The scene was laid in England at a strict girls seminary, where a lover of one of the girls, disguised as a student in the school, had many trying experiences before he safely managed to pull off their elopement from the building. The leading characters in the play were English officers and the ladies were students in Miss Romney's Academy in Gloucester.

William Grew in his double part of Captain Courtenay and Miss Brown kept the audience in a continual round of laughter with his masculine ways under the feminine garb. His work in both parts was very good.

Meharry as Major O'Gallagher kept up his standing with the audience as one of the favorites of the first water. His acting was fine and his easy manner before the foot lights always make a hit with the people.

Miss Pettes in the role of Angelina Brightwell took especially well. She seems to fit into her varied parts from week to week as though she were raised for that particular character. Miss Bowman as Mrs. O'Gallagher and Miss Romney appeared in the most pleasing part she has been in for months. "Boby Enders as the music master took well with audience and played out his part of the German musician very capably. Sergeant Tanner of Scotland Yard presented by Mr. Bennett was a comical specimen of humanity of the Sherlock Holmes type. The part of Mr. Hibbertson, a stern guardian of the ward of chancery in the school, was nicely played by Mr. Bennett.

Toward the close of the play, the dinner set that was to be given away was raffled off by Mr. Grew, the drawing being done by Chief Amick's daughter. The lucky holder of the drawn No. 150 has not shown up today to claim his prize.

On account of a previous engagement the company has made with the Neligh Theater to play in that city during the Nebraska Banker's Convention they will not appear in their usual day next week, but will be in Plattsmouth Wednesday night. They will put on a good southern play, "The sweetest girl in Dixie."

Broke His Arm.

C. C. Despain had the misfortune to receive a bad fall yesterday about noon which resulted in a broken arm slightly above the wrist. Mr. Despain was walking along Sixth street and in attempting to dodge a team, while crossing to the opposite side, he slipped and fell, striking his left hand heavily on the ground. On examination it was found that one of the bones near the wrist was quite badly shattered. The injured member was bound up at a physician's office and the gentleman proceeded to his home where he is getting along nicely today.

J. W. Hickson, Oak street, Plattsmouth Nebr., says: "I will never cease to praise Doan's Kidney pills, as they proved of such great benefit to me several years ago. For some time I was caused much suffering by attacks of lumbago that came on without the least warning. The simplest movement was painful and I was annoyed by irregular passages of the kidney secretions. I read so much about Doan's Kidney Pills that I finally procured a box from Gering & Co's drug store. I was gratified with the results of their use that I publicly recommended them in 1906 and at this time, I willingly renew that statement. I hope that other kidney sufferers will profit by my experience.

SYMME'S HOLE.

A Monument That Was Reared to a Remarkable Theory.

A queer looking monument stands in the city park at Hamilton, O. A globe, hollowed at each pole and marked with the lines of geographical measurements, is mounted upon a marble plinth. It was erected by Americus Symmes in memory of his father, John Cleves Symmes, a short time before the civil war. The elder Symmes was the author of the remarkable "Theory of Concentric Spheres, Demonstrating That the Earth is Hollow, Habitable Within and Widely Open at the Poles." He was a nephew of the first landlord of the country that runs along the Ohio river.

Symmes first announced his "discovery" at St. Louis in 1818. In a well written brochure he asked for "100 brave companions, well equipped, to start from Siberia in the fall with reindeer and sleighs on the ice of the frozen sea. I engage we find a warm and new land stocked with thrifty vegetables and animals if not men on reaching one degree north of the latitude of 82 degrees. We will return the following spring." In 1822, after delivering a series of lectures, Symmes requested congress for a subvention in order to equip an expedition. The senate unanimously rejected his appeal, as did the general assembly of Ohio two years later. One of his converts, Jeremiah N. Reynolds, with the co-operation of Rush and Southard, both members of President John Quincy Adams' cabinet, and Dr. Watson, a rich resident of New York city, fitted out the ship Annawan in 1828 and set sail in October for the warm and fertile cavity they believed to exist at the south pole. When they arrived at a latitude of 82 degrees south the incorrectness of Symmes' theory was impressed upon them. But before they returned the author had died in the spring of 1829, fully believing that his calculations were correct.

John Cleves Symmes was never nearer to the north pole than southern Canada, where he fought as a soldier in the war of 1812. His geography of the polar regions existed only in his imagination. His arguments were so plausible and his pleas so ingenious that thousands of men firmly believed in "Symmes' hole."—Leslie's.

Englishmen Invent New Sport Game. Over in England a new game has been invented called "vigoro," which the promoters declare, will supplant cricket and baseball. It is called the "world's exercise." From the description of it it seems to be a cross between lawn tennis and cricket and is said to possess the element of "dazzling quickness" and "exhilarating excitement."
