Slim Is Here

Charles Sponsler of Shenandoah, known to most people as "Slim", is in the city for a day or two trying to interest the merchants in some kind of an attraction to draw the people in and stir up a little excitement in the town. He is known as the "Long distance talker" and has been in the city several times with different advertising attractions, the last time, when the phontoon bridge was opened across the river. He thinks a fall stock show would be a fine thing for the place but he is in favor of putting on races and other stunts to make the event a most exciting one that will draw people for miles. He spoke well of the prospects for such a show here, feeling sure it will make a good annual event that will be a big ad for Plattsmouth.

Has Vaudeville Act

One of the best vaudeville shows that has been seen in town for some time was put on yesterday afternoon and evening at the Majestic by the G. Avery Comedy Co. Madam Marei Avery in her comedy is one of the best little ladies in her line that ever appeared in Plattsmouth. Her baritone singing was the feature of the act, while G. Avery with his strong tenor in his original production "The Tryout" which is a bunch of good laughs, certainly wins the audience. Mr. Warner holds up his name of "King of the knives and glass" and is a drawing card in his glass eating and dancing. They will appear before the footlights again tonight and tomorrow night.

Let This One Cleanser Take the Place of Several.

It is needless to use several different cleansing compounds when the same and even better results can be more quickly obtained from one perfect cleanser. Old Dutch Cleanser is a sure, safe and easy aid to the home maker. It makes pots, pans, kettles, and cutlery look like new without a lot of scraping and scouring; it cleans wood, tile and cement floors, painted walls, woodwork, tiling, windows, and bathroom furniture without hard rubbing; it polishes everything that needs it quickly and easily. You'll know how well it does all of this with but one trial.

The Meeting at Lincoln.

T. H. Pollock and wife and daughter were passengers on the Omaha Burlington this morning. Mrs. Pollock and daughter remaining in Omaha while Mr. Pollock will attend a telephone meeting in Lincoln. The officers of the different independent telephone companies in the state are to meet representatives of the Postal Telegraph company and an agreement will probably be reached whereby the companies will co-operate in sending messages throughout the state in much the same manner as the Western Union and the Bell people are now doing. At present the Postal does not extend any further south in this locality than South Omaha but if the deal goes through the telegrams of the company will be sent by phone by the phone company into nearly any part of the state.

The United Doctors are in the city and are doing a flourishing business at the Riley hotel where they have engaged rooms for the day. They are very pleasant people and their patients seem well pleased with the results they secure.

Hugh Siever, wife and four children arrived Sunday evening from their home at El Reno, Okla., for a visit with Hugh's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Siever. They will also attend the wedding of their sister, Miss Mollie which is to be solemnized tomorrow.

Balzac and Black Coffee.

Balzac was addicted to the use of strong black coffee and depended upon it as a nervous stimulant during the hours which he devoted to composition. Its effect he has himself described in these words:

"The coffee falls into your stomach. Immediately everything starts into action. Your ideas begin to move like Grand Army battalions on the battlefield, and the battle opens. Memories arrive at a run, standards flying; the light cavalry of comparisons breaks into a magnificent gallop; the artillery of logic dashes up and unlimbers; thoughts come rushing up as sharpshooters; characters spring up on all sides; the paper becomes covered with ink, for the struggle has begun and ends in torrents of black water like the battle in black powder."

Burns as a Tax Collector.

In the olden days candles were taxed articles, and it was the duty of Robert Barnes as an excise officer to see that the tax was not evaded. He generally looked the other way, however, as when passing through the kitchen one night at William Lorimer's of Kennishall, where the gudewife was busy making candles, he merely remarked, "Faith, madam, ye're thrang the night," and passed into the parlor.—St. James' Gazette.

The Mountains Bother Them.

The British have had heaps of trouble in Siam to make the natives understand that the world is round instead of flat. Indeed, the native teachers keep on teaching the children that it is flat, and when argued with they reply, "If it isn't flat why do the mountains stand up as they do instead of rolling downhill?"

The Lesson She Learned.

A fair western co-ed and one of the male seniors fell violently in love and neglected their studies shamefully. Both were expelled. The fair co-ed thereupon wrote this interesting reply to the faculty:

Gentlemen—You have expelled me for neglecting my studies, yet I have learned at your institution more than you will ever know. I have learned the meaning of love. What is the use of studying botany if I am not allowed to gather roses? Why should I devote myself to astronomy if I may not look at the stars? What does it profit me to spend years on mathematics and neglect my own figure? You have expelled my fiancé also. Do you think he is unhappy? We were married last evening.

Sand Swept Asia.

In the arid lands of central Asia the air is reported as often laden with fine detritus, which drifts like snow around conspicuous objects and tends to bury them in a dust drift. Even when there is no apparent wind the air is described as thick with fine dust, and a yellow sediment covers everything. In Khotan this dust sometimes so obscures the sun that at midday one cannot see to read fine print without a lamp.
