M. Fanger's Dept. Store

LOUISVILLE BURGLARY

Store of F. H. Nichols is Broken Into and Cash Drawer Looted

THE WORK OF HOME
TALENT SAY OFFICERS

Gained Entrance by Forcing Open Window in Rear of Establishment and Made Their Getaway.

(From Friday's Daily)

Last night presumably about two o'clock the general merchandise store of F. H. Nichols was entered by unknown parties and a cash drawer broken into and what little change remained there was confiscated. The robbery was first discovered by Frank Ross, a clerk of Mr. Nichols, when he opened the place of business this morning about seven o'clock. Investigation showed that the burglar or burglars had pried up a rear window with a crowbar which they had secured from the tool shack at the Burlington yards, entered and helped themselves to the cash remaining in the till, an amount of not more than $3. After finding the cash so short they turned their attention to the jewelry department, owned by M. Tritsch, who has his department in the front of the building. An invoice this morning showed that at least a half dozen watches, which were in Mr. Tritsch's care for repairing were taken by the thieves, and some of the time pieces are said to be worth a great deal.

Local officers there are of the opinion that the work is that of Louisville parties, and a close watch will be kept on those whom the officers have under suspicion. Nothing of any kind was left by the intruder to give the slightest clue and it is quite doubtful if the guilty parties will be apprehended unless it be through the disposal of the time pieces.

The store is one of the leading firms of that little city and is well stocked with dry goods, groceries and men's furnishing goods of all kinds and as nothing of this nature was molested it would appear that the deed was committed by boys who put in their time reading "Ten Buckets of Human Blood" or the Nick Carter narratives.

STEAM BOAT PADDLES
UP THE BIG MUDDY

Government Snag Boat "James B. McPherson" Passed City This Morning.

The good ship "James B. McPherson" once more nosed its way up the Missouri this morning, churning up the muddy waters and snorting along like a typical river hog. The boat is an old timer on the river. It is a government snag boat that is kept busy from early spring till late fall pulling fallen trees, snags and roots out of the stream, not so much to make the river navigation successful, but to keep the waters from changing their course on account of the obstructions that sometimes form in the current. No work was done in this vicinity as the high water covers any snags that happen to be along the course at normal water line.

The boat reached the Burlington bridge a little before ten a. m. but fearing the threatening storm, it tied up just north of the bridge until the clouds cleared away. At 11:15 it set sail again and paddled up stream until just north of the city, when it ran aground on a bar. With much ceremony and splashing, it backed off the hidden obstruction and tried its luck a little to the right of the bar and swung out of sight around the bend

Returns from Reno.

George Hraskey, one of the Burlington men, returned this morning from Reno, Nevada, where he has been the past two weeks visiting his sister who resides there. He was greatly pleased with the place and everything at the little mining town made a hit with him. He reports the country in that vicinity to be in a prosperous condition and there is profitable employment for any man who cares to work there. The city is working strong to secure the big Jeffries-Johnson fight and if the courts grant an injunction against the bout at Frisco the Reno citizens feel sure it will be transferred to their town. Billy McCarney, representing Tex Richard and Jack Gleeson, promoters of the fight, arrived there last night to as-

BACK FROM EPWORTH
LEAGUE CONVENTION

Plattsmouth People Return From
Two Days Stay at Auburn, Nebraska.

The Plattsmouth delegation, which was at Auburn attending the District Epworth League convention held here Wednesday and Thursday, returned to the city this morning, bringing reports of fine meetings and enthusiastic congregations. The meeting Wednesday night was held at the Auburn Methodist church, the speaker of the evening being Rev. Mr. Northup of Lincoln, who chose for his subject, "Savanarola." The speaker had recently been in Italy when Savanarola played his important part in history. Mr. Northup's remarks were most interesting on account of his being over the ground of which he spoke. Last evening's meeting, which took place at the Avenue church of South Auburn, Chancellor Davidson of Wesleyan University delivering a fine talk on "The call of the twentieth century." He was a very able speaker holding the interest of everyone in the audience during his entire lecture.

Don York, as choir master of the meetings, made one of the big hits of the convention. His work was without a flaw and he made a reputation for himself that will not soon be forgotten. The work of Miss Hazel Tucey was greatly appreciated by the delegates in attendance. She spoke on "The Relation of the League to the Church," bringing special stress on the fact that the League of today is the Church of tomorrow. There were about seventy-five delegates enrolled at the convention who were royally received by the citizens of the town, they turning out in large numbers at the meetings. The annual election of officers was held, Mr. Millard Leffler, one of the faculty at Peru, being chosen as president, taking the place of E. H. Wescott who had held the position for three years.

Drove Down From Grand Island.

F. R. Cunningham of Grand Island who formerly conducted a livery stable at Nehawka, is in the city for a few days with his Regal car. He is now engaged in the automobile business at his new home, having good success this spring with the Regals and Fords for which he has the agencies. He made the drive from his home to Nehawka with his machine arriving there Wednesday. He finished closing up his business interests at that place yesterday and made the run to Plattsmouth this morning. Mr. Cunningham expects to be here until Monday or Tuesday when he will head his machine for Grand Island.

Shift Force at Factory.

A change in operations has recently been made at the local shirt factory of M. E. Smith, the ironing work which was formerly done here is now sent to the Omaha plant where all the ironing of the company is now done. The shutting down of the ironing machines at the homeplant, however will have no bad effect on the size of the force employed, as the six girls who formerly operated the machines are now working at the machines on the second floor, and the company is still wishing to enlarge its force. The new method of shipping the goods to Omaha before being pressed has been brought about principally to save expense in freight and boxes as after the goods were ironed they were boxed in cardboard cartons and crated, taking one third more room than if they were sent in bundles to the main plant for distribution. A large car load of boxes is being unloaded for the factory today. The force is now working in heavy flannel shirts for the fall trade.

Court House News.

An application was made in district court today by the commissioners, requesting the clerk of the court to show whether or not a decree had ever been entered in the court wherein the first addition to the village of South Bend had ever been annexed.

Petition was filed in the district court for a construction of a will in the estate of Mary Ella Davis. The parties in the case being Clara A. Davis, plaintiff and Pearl C. Wright, defendant.

A hearing was held this afternoon before the county commissioners wherein certain property owners of South Bend requested to have their land withdrawn from the village proper.

The monthly examination of Cass county teachers was held today at the office of the county superintendent. Those from out of town were Misses Mary Arvidson, Edith and Ellen Anderson of Louisville, Lola Lanphier of Elmwood, Minnie Nelson of Gretna and Ethel McCreight of South Bend.
