Mr. Boutell on Surplus.

The history and peculiarities of the national debt are reviewed in an interesting article by Congressman Boutell in the current Forum. One of the curious episodes which he recalls is that of the first and only attempt to deal with an actual surplus.

By the year 1835 the original debt of the nation had been wiped out and a surplus had begun accumulating. At the beginning of 1837 the balance in the treasury, after deducting a reserve fund of $5,000,000, was $37,468,000.

Since 1841 the nation never has been without a debt. The present net debt, including greenbacks, reaches a total of $1,100,000,000, or $14 per capita. Mr. Boutell estimates that at the present rate of redemption the interest-bearing debt in 1908 will not exceed $600,000,000, and probably will consist of $125,000,000 of the 4 per cent bonds of 1902 and $500,000,000 of the 2 per cent bonds of 1890.

Original Home of Golf.

The Scotsman contends that golf is a Scotch sport, to which poetical reference was made in Adamson's "Maggie Threudick," published at Perth as long ago as 1638. The terms used in the sport are for the most part Scotch. But the Dutch assert that it was first played in Holland on the ice, and before 1638 the Dutch poet Bredero described how "the golfer, with ice spurs on, stands ready to amble with ashens club weighted with lead, or his Scottish creak of leaded box." But while this may be the earliest poetical reference to the game, it does not show that Holland is the original home of golf. The reference to the "Scottish creak" seems at first sight to point rather to Scotland.—Baltimore Sun.
