FRIDAY, JANUARY 3, 1902.

WITH this issue the Journal arrives at maturity, and enters upon the twenty-second year of its existence. During all these years this paper has—with exception of brief intervals—regularly and faithfully chronicled the news and happenings in Plattsmouth and Cass county, and has in no small measure contributed to the welfare and advancement of the people of town and country and to the comfort and enlightenment of its readers, quite a number of whom have been continuously on its subscription list since the first issue—patient and steadfast friends. In many households in Cass county the Journal has been a regular and welcome visitor for years, where it is considered a reliable source of information and as a counselor and friend.

During the past twenty-one years several hands have guided its editorial helm, and to the credit of the paper it can be truthfully said that its editorial course has invariably been consistent, honest, fair and impartial. In season and out of season the paper has steadfastly preached the doctrines of democracy, and has never been found wanting in support of party men and measures. It has been a party organ in the strictest sense, which in a large measure accounts for lack of progress in a business way.

The country newspaper is indeed fortunate that reaches maturity without being overwhelmed by disaster and misfortune, and the Journal has been no exception to the general rule. Its career has been marked with many ups and downs, but somehow or other it has always triumphed over its vicissitudes and alighted on its feet again, smiling and ready for business at the old stand. Its existence has been threatened many times, but its resources have always been sufficient to meet the emergency, which gives assurance that its light will continue to shine.

Probably no one is better qualified to consider the entire history of the Journal in all its details than is the writer hereof, and when he looks backward for twenty-one years it is with no small degree of pleasure that he is enabled to say that the past year of the Journal's history has been less marked by newspaper "grief" than has any previous year, and that the general standing of the paper was never better. Its condition more healthy, than at present.

At the beginning of this new year the Journal extends greetings and best wishes to all its readers, and hopes that the year now before us will bring prosperity, advancement and happiness to all.

Levi Rusterholz shipped a car load of hogs to South Omaha on Friday.

Fred Crosser, of Murray, was a Maple Grove visitor on last Thursday.

The duck match at Fred Engelke's was well attended and a good time had by all.

Charles Boedeker had the misfortune to lose four head of cattle last week.

Mrs. Schaefer and daughter Christina left on Thursday for Hallein, Neb., where they will visit with relatives for a few weeks.

Will Philpot thrashed his corn fodder last week.

T. V. Davis and wife, of Murray, visited at Forest Cunningham's last week.

Miss Rica Kaffenberger visited at Adam Hill's on new year's day.

The masquerade ball at Klausens & Manners' hall at Murray on new year's eve was well attended and was an enjoyable occasion.

A number of people from this neighborhood attended the performance of "The Pride of Jennico" at the Parme theater on new year's eve.

James Cathiey and wife were Plattsmouth visitors on Tuesday.

Clark Wilcox arrived here last Saturday from Milford, where he spent a few weeks at the Soldier's Home. He is very well pleased with the treatment he received there, and appears much improved in health.

Walker Jones departed last Saturday for the Cherokee nation where he will spend the balance of the winter with relatives.

L. G. Todd came home Monday from Lincoln, where he is having his eyes treated. One eye has been operated upon and a large cataract removed, and there are prospects that both eyes may yet do good service for some years.

The price of good land in this vicinity is an indication that Cass county is really the "garden spot" of Nebraska.

Amos McNamee and Will Hathaway arrived from Pierce county last Saturday night, to see how their Union people are prospering.

Miss Rosa O'Donnell, who has been attending school in Plattsmouth, came home for the holiday vacation.

Nehawka

From the Register.

The pupils of the high school were greatly surprised last Friday afternoon when their teacher, Miss Minnie Buswell, announced her intention of giving up the school to prepare herself for missionary work. It was surely a sad message to them as, nothing had been said of it before. Miss Buswell was as good a principal as the school ever had, and was giving the best of satisfaction, and was well liked by the school. The pupils were all at the depot to bid her farewell, and presented her with several nice presents as an appreciation of her friendship.

Her vacancy at the school will be filled by Miss Medlar, of York, Neb., who comes to us highly recommended.

Charles Snyder returned last week from New Mexico, where he has been at work the last ten months. He intends to return after the first of the year. He brought home quite a collection of trantulas and centipedes.

Several of our people attended the shooting match at Frank Cox's last Monday. T. G. Hymer was the crack shot, and being a little too good, was barred from the contest.

Our police judge has been quite busy lately. Last week he had two garnishee cases and one criminal case. Dick Butzold assaulted his brother Henry with fists and a knife, and was loading a revolver to shoot him when Henry came to town and got out a warrant for his arrest. He had fled when Constable Holmes arrived. About three days after he came back and Holmes got his man. He objected to being brought in, but a few decided and picturesque words from Holmes deterred him. Andy Sturm acted as interpreter. The court let him off with a lecture, and a promise on his part to keep off Henry's farm, and the payment of all costs.

George Holmes received word on Monday from Capt. Stoner that he has been appointed corporal in the company, so hereafter George will be a non-commissioned officer instead of a private.

Our readers will be surprised to learn that J. M. Teegarden has sold his interest in the drug store to his partner, S. W. Orton. The firm has been in business for twelve years, and Mr. Teegarden says the close confinement for so long a time has undermined his health, and he concluded that he would like a change where he could be in the open air more. He mentioned the matter to Mr. Orton the last day of the year. They talked it over for a couple of hours and the deal was closed without an inventory.

Capt. George Sheldon is spoken of favorably in this locality for the office of state senator next fall. Next fall comes this year, you know, and it is not too early to groom a good man.

Cliff Hay met with a painful accident last Thursday afternoon while coasting. He was carrying his sled up hill on his head, and had a whip in his mouth. The sled fell, striking the whip, the butt end of which was driven into his throat, lacerating the tissues. The whip was so deeply imbedded that it was removed with difficulty. The little fellow suffered a great deal of pain all night, but the next day the swelling had gone down, and he felt very much better, and his throat gave him no further trouble.

Mr. Alex Mitchell and Mrs. Purdy received word last week of the death of a brothea in Australia. He was 82 years old. His death occurred last October, but they just heard of it last week.

On the last day of the old year Bartley, the embezzler of a quarter of a million dollars of the state funds, was pardoned by Gov. Savage, and is now at liberty to live at ease on the people's money which he stole. So far as the governor regarding a renomination is concerned, we are of the opinion that his excellency has put his foot in it. Should he receive a nomination we pledge him now that he will not receive the support of this paper.

Joe Mullen with his daughter Edith and the baby went to Kansas Tuesday to spend Christmas at the home of his brother.

J. N. Weber returned Saturday night from his visit at Missouri Valley, Iowa. He has rented a building at that place and will leave for Missouri Valley about the middle of January, and open up a wagon shop.

Claus Brekenfeld was repairing some of the machinery at the mill last Friday, when he made a mis-step causing him to fall quite a distance. He fell on his side, bruising him severely, and also cut three of his fingers. His side continued to pain him and Monday he went to see a doctor, who made an examination and discovered that he had broken one of his ribs. Claus is now behaving himself very nicely and trying to keep quiet till he mends together again.

George and Dave Kunz returned from their Illinois visit last Thursday night, accompanied by August Bast. The boys like the country back there all right, but land is way out of sight.

Will Delles was in a hurry to catch the train for Plattsmouth last week and forgot to put his night shirt in his grip, when packing it, but thought of that necessary article of wearing apparel when he got up town. Not having time to go down home again he rushed into Langhorst's and bought a nice one, reaching the depot just in time. When Will went to retire at the hotel that night he unwrapped his purchase and to his horror found that Langhorst had changed gowns, wrapping up a lady's gown of exquisite workmanship instead of the one he purchased.

Fritz Heine left on last Thursday evening for El Reno, Oklahoma, after a sojourn of a month with parents and friends. Mr. Heine left here for Oklahoma nearly five years ago, and says that country is all O. K.

James Turner lately returned from Minnesota, and says that he and his brother Melvin purchased three quarter sections in Aiken county, Minnesota, and will go there in the spring to engage in stock-raising, the land for which they paid $10 per acre, being for the most part prairie and timber, is nicely adapted for raising stock.

They are close to several large lakes that are teeming with fish and is a great place to hunt ducks in season. Minnesota, with its abundance of water and grass is bound to become a great state for raising stock.

August Holke, accompanied by an Omaha attorney and Constable Utt of Murdock, created no little excitement in Louisville on Monday last when they went to the house of Mrs. Mary Griffin and demanded possession of a piano and some household goods which Mrs. Ida Hoike, his divorced wife, avers belongs to her. After reading some kind of a legal document to Mrs. Griffin they proceeded to remove the goods to the H. & M. depot and had them packed in a car when the sheriff appeared on the scene and had them returned to the house. Mrs. Hoike says she was granted a divorce from Hoike December 2d, and that the decree specifies that she was to have the goods in question.

A Leader's Triumph.
Liszt was the first pianist who played whole programmes by heart. Weber seems to have been the first actor who was able to get along without a score. An accident proved this. At Dresden, one evening, Mozart's "Magic Flute" was to be given, conducted by Weber. The moment to commence was drawing near, when it was observed that the score of the opera had not been placed on the director's desk. Great consternation was among the musicians. The court was expected to arrive at any moment, and the orchestra well knew that Frederick August would be enraged did their instruments not burst into harmony as soon as he appeared. The anxiety extended to the audience; Caroline, the wife of Weber, looked at the empty desk before her husband with agitation. Weber saw the danger, but he smiled, and, without losing a single moment, sent one to search for the score; but the court entered at about the same instant. Weber glanced at his trembling wife to reassure her, grasped his baton, gave the signal to begin, and conducted the entire first act of the opera from memory, without a note of the music with his usual vigor and ability, even amusing the orchestra by pretending to turn the pages at the proper moment. The affair soon became noised about, and reached the ears of the royal family, who personally overwhelmed Weber with compliments.

Louisville

From the Courier.

Last Saturday a fellow by the name of James Roberts sold a horse at Dunbar and left it tied to a hitching rack. Later Roberts stole the horse and was attempting to get to Omaha with it. He stopped in town Monday evening and put the horse in the livery barn to be fed while he went to a saloon for a drink. Marshal Spence had been notified to be on the lookout for him, and chanced to inquire of Liverman Tom Johnson if anyone answering the description had been seen here. He was told that a rig answering the description was in the barn, and on investigation the outfit was easily identified. Marshal Spence then went in search of the man and soon located him and placed him under arrest. Marshal Jackson, of Dunbar, was notified and came up Tuesday morning and took Roberts back with him. Roberts is about thirty-two years of age, very tall and wore a light moustache. He had been at Dunbar about two years and was a day laborer.

The marriage of Miss Celia Fetzter and Fred Goebel occurred on Christmas day at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fetzter in Omaha. These young people are well
