

PRESIDENT FULLER OF THE JEWELERS' ASSOCIATION

Threatened With Loss of Hearing, Smell and Sight From the Ravages of Catarrh.

Pe-ru-na Cured Him.

"I Feel Like a Young Man Again."

Mr. J. W. Fuller.

A GREAT many remedies to temporarily relieve catarrh have been devised from time to time, such as sprays, snuffs, creams and other local applications, but, as a rule, the medical profession has little or no enthusiasm in the treatment of catarrh.

It is generally pronounced by them to be incurable.

It therefore created a great sensation in medical circles when Dr. Hartman announced that he had devised a compound which would cure catarrh permanently.

The remedy was named Peruna and in a short time became known to thousands of catarrh sufferers north, south, east and west.

Letters testifying to the fact that Peruna is a radical cure for catarrh began to pour in from all directions.

Thousands of such letters are on file in the office of The Peruna Medicine Co., Rev. E. Steubenville, Pa., Wis., writes: "I feel obliged to extend you my personal thanks for my complete restoration. All through the winter I suffered from throat and lung trouble, but recovered my entire health by the use of your excellent remedy, Peruna."

The following letter from a prominent gentleman of Los Angeles, is a case in point: Mr. J. W. Fuller, President of the Jewelers' Association of Los Angeles, Cal., has been in business in that city for seven years and in the forty-five that he has been engaged in business. Concerning his experience with Peruna he says:

"I was troubled with catarrh of the head for many years. It affected my sense of smell, hearing and sight. I spent lots of money with doctors and the use of local applications to relieve me but to no purpose, until my attention was called to the wonderful effects of Peruna."

"I must say that I met with most surprising and satisfactory results. Peruna took hold of the complaint and drove it entirely out of my system."

"Although well along toward the allotted span of man's life I am pleased as a child over the results, and feel like a young man again."—J. W. Fuller.

Such letters as the above are not used for publication except by the written permission of the writer.

A pamphlet filled with such letters will be sent to any address free. This book should be read by all who doubt the curability of catarrh.

If you do not receive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

WEAK WOMEN.

CONSTIPATION STARTED YOUR SUFFERING, CURE IT AND YOUR AFFLICTION WILL VANISH.

Mull's Grape Tonic Cures Constipation.

When the bowels move irregularly the entire bodily system must suffer. Constipation more frequently occurs among women and it manifests itself in provoking profuse leucorrhoea and other serious female diseases. Regular bowels will result in a complete cure when you use Mull's Grape Tonic. Unlike pills and ordinary cathartics, this remedy is a mild, gentle laxative in addition to being a greater flesh-builder, blood-maker and strength-giver than cod liver oil or any other preparation recommended for that purpose. Mull's Grape Tonic will permanently cure the most obstinate case of constipation, and the numerous afflictions that invariably follow in its wake. No matter if it is piles, liver complaint, kidney disorder, vertigo, palpitation of the heart, diarrhoea or the self-poisoning which follows when the undigested food remains in the bowels where it putrefies and emits highly diseased germs into the blood, such as typhoid and malaria, Mull's Grape Tonic will positively cure. Large sample bottle will be sent free to any address on receipt of ten cents to cover postage, by the Lightening Medicine Co., Rock Island, Ill. Send name of your druggist. All druggists sell Mull's Grape Tonic at 50 cents a bottle.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

Hundreds of dealers say the extra quantity and superior quality of Defiance Starch is fast taking place of all other brands. Others say they cannot sell any other starch.

GOOD OBJECT LESSON

CONSUMERS BENEFIT BY REMOVAL OF COAL DUTIES.

Shipments From Foreign Countries Have Loosened the Grip of the Monopolists—Proof That the Tariff Fosters Trusts.

When the Republican majority in Congress resolutely rebated the duty on coal for one year it was with the hope and expectation that the action would not disturb the monopoly enjoyed by the American coal barons.

So distinguished an exponent of the protection gospel as Congressman Dabzell of Pennsylvania openly declared that he voted for the proposition because he was certain that it would accomplish nothing toward bringing foreign coal into the country. Even Congressmen who sincerely advocated the measure were somewhat doubtful as to its efficacy in curbing the extortion of the coal trust.

Nevertheless it has had that effect, on the Atlantic coast at any rate. Henry E. Weaver, who is pretty good authority in the coal business, declares that the arrivals of British coal have begun to affect the situation in the way of lowering prices. In Boston harbor alone there are vessels with 60,000 tons of coal on board and we may presume that even larger shipments are arriving at New York.

That is to say, the removal of the tariff on coal—which is what the rebate amounts to—has encouraged British mine owners to seek an American market and in doing so they have compelled the coal barons to loosen their grip upon the throat of the American consumer.

If that has been done with respect to the coal monopoly it can be done with other monopolies which now enjoy predatory powers solely by the grace of the protective tariff. The duty on coal was relatively insignificant, yet, we have seen, it helped the coal barons materially in their comprehensive schemes of plunder.

The tariff is the mother of the trusts. It is time that the infant industries were weaned.

Who Made the Request?
Senator Hanna's bill to pension the darkies was presented by request. Of whom? There is reason to believe that the "request" came from some fairer who expects to line his pockets by collecting money from the negroes to push the bill along. It is an old story, and it is said that one such concern in other days collected in $2 fees from the delinquent negroes as much as $200,000 to carry through a similar bill, which was "twice read and referred to the committee on pensions."

The Issue Will Not Down.
Apart from the feeble character of the anti-trust legislation of this session, it is beyond the power of Congress, without destroying trade, to pass any laws in restraint of industrial corporations that can supplant the necessity of a thorough revision of the Dingley tariff. There is in the only issue relating to the trusts, and if the trusts should all be dissolved under the operation of economic laws the issue of tariff reform would still remain.

Where a Minority Rules.
A majority cannot rule in the Senate so long as there is a persistent minority, no matter how small that minority may be. Still, the Senate is not so much concerned with the revision of the Dingley tariff. There is in the only issue relating to the trusts, and if the trusts should all be dissolved under the operation of economic laws the issue of tariff reform would still remain.

Not Afraid of Roosevelt.
New Jersey's governor defends the big brood of trusts within that state, attacking Roosevelt as a demagogue who needlessly alarms the people by questioning the power of the nation to deal adequately with its own. Of course New Jersey should fight for its wards, but the governor's premise is wholly wrong—Roosevelt has never alarmed anybody, even the trusts themselves, by his recommendations.

Awkward Question to Answer.
"Why," ask the Austrians of the St. Louis fair representatives, "why should we go to the trouble of sending our goods to your exposition when your tariff bars them out of your country? What benefit shall we derive from the proceedings?" The question is a rather awkward one to answer. The world's fair people should apply to Senator Aldrich or Mr. Hale for light on the subject.

Its Paternity in Dispute.
The President wants it understood that the Littlefield "anti-trust" bill was in no sense an embodiment of the administration idea, and Representative Littlefield mournfully protests that a basket baby was substituted for his legislative offspring. Now if good Deacon Rockefeller's "counsel" would only tell the bald headed truth about that bill's paternity!

Trusts Need Not Fear.
It is easy to believe that the President "will take care to select as commissioner of corporations a man who has the confidence of the corporate world as well as that of the public." In fact, the successful candidate for the position is likely to turn out to be some gentleman who would not for the world cause a trust a moment's uneasiness.

Will the Same Sauce Be Served?
Apostle Reed Smoot of Utah has been chosen United States senator by the Republican legislature. The matter is of interest in that the world will be anxious to know if the Republicans of congress will consider the sauce for the goose. Brigham H. Roberts good sauce for the gander, Reed Smoot.

Not Worrying About Old Trusts.
It has been demonstrated that combines—"trusts," as we now call them have existed since 2,000 years before Christ. But, naturally, we are not worrying about the "B. C." combines. It's those that are on our chest right now that we want to shake off.

OUT OF THE ORDINARY.

Little Stories Tending to Weaken Some Popular Theories.

I was once on a boat crossing her hair the other evening. By Jove, her hair is longer and darker than it was when we were married.

"The teacher asked us to-day if there was ever a greater man than Abraham Lincoln, and I told her 'My papa.'" This at dinner, from Mollie, our eldest, aged 6.

A neighbor brought my wife tickets for a well musicals recently. On the night it was to come off I went home not particularly uplifted in anticipation. At dinner my wife said: "We won't go out to-night, dearie. You look tired. What do you say to a rubber of cribbage?"

Jack Davis, an old buddy of mine, came out to dinner the other evening. Really, everything did run smoothly. I went to the door with him. He whispered: "Say, old man, for ravishing cooking, an ideal den and the candy outfit all through you've got the world beat. And say, pardon and all that, but this is from an old pal. The missus is one of the finest little women ever saw."

Last week my wife's father phoned me to hustle over to his office. "My boy," said he when I arrived, "you've got two hours and a half to scrape together every piece of collateral in your name—150 minutes—there's something doing." It only took me a half hour. This morning, referring to me, one of the papers printed the following: "The street is recognizing a new Napoleon of finance in the person of young Mr. —, who has just turned a mighty clever and exceedingly profitable deal."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

HAD REASON TO LAUGH.
How Deacon Unwittingly Amused the Congregation.
Deacon Reice of Hartford, Conn., was well known as being provided with an enormous handle to his countenance in the shape of a huge nose; in fact, it was remarkable for its length. On one occasion, when taking up a collection in the church to which he belonged, every person to whom he presented the box seemed to be possessed of a sudden and uncontrollable desire to laugh. The deacon did not know what to make of it. He had often passed it around before, but no such effects had been witnessed. The secret, however, leaked out. He had been afflicted a day or two with a sore on his nasal appendage, and had placed a small sticking plaster over it.

During the morning of the day in question the plaster had dropped off, and the deacon, seeing it, as he supposed, lying on the floor, picked it up and stuck it on again. But, alas! he picked up instead one of the pieces of paper which the manufacturers of spool cotton paste on the end of every spool, and which read, "Warranted 200 yards."

Here is a characteristic story of Captain, afterwards General George Pickett, famous at Gettysburg. It was at the time of the disputes between England and America as to the boundary line between British Columbia and Washington territory. Capt. Pickett had just mixed himself a toddy, when his attention was arrested suddenly by a courier, whose message caused him to mount immediately by a ride off, leaving the drink behind him. He was gone some hours. When he returned the empty glass was on his camp table, whereupon ensued the following colloquy:
"Orderly."
"Yes, sir."
"Where's that toddy?"
"They've it away, sir; thought you had done with it, sir."
"Where did you throw it; down your — throat?"
"Yes, sir; down my — throat, sir," accompanied by a regulation salute.—Pittsburg Gazette.

An Easy One to Answer.
Representatives Brownlow and Gibson are the only Republicans in Congress from Tennessee. To relieve their loneliness they indulge in a good deal of good-natured banter. Brownlow took great care in selecting persons in his district to stand civil service examinations for positions, and as luck would have it not a single one failed to attain the required grade. Gibson was not so lucky, and not a single man from his district passed the examinations. "How is this, Brownlow?" asked Gibson. "All your men have passed the examinations, while I can't get a single one through in my district?"
"Oh, that's easy," replied Brownlow. "If there was a single man in your district capable of passing a civil service examination you wouldn't be in Congress."

Then What Was It?
Corporal George L. Rivers attended a few days ago a dinner where some one told the aged story about the man who went to the other world, and after being refused admission, either to the upper or lower kingdom, bewailed the fate of having to return once more to his native town. In this case the town was Rochester, and the story was told by a Rochester man.

"He got the story wrong," said Mr. Rivers. "What really happened was this: The Rochester man died and was taken to the other world. After he had been there a few days he met an old friend. 'Well, Bill, heaven beats Rochester,' he remarked. 'But this ain't heaven,' replied Bill."

Another Tale of Mary's Lamb.
The literary inquest over Mary and her little lamb requests the vivid poem, or rather variant of it, said to have been given to Manager Fred Comee of Boston, by Andrew Carnegie. Whether the verse was thrown off in the interval of waiting acres of books devoted to the acquisition of wealth we cannot say: The lines are stirring and to a native of the smoky city are fraught with tender, nay sooty, memories. Here they are:
Mary had a little lamb,
Its fleece was white as snow;
It followed her to Pittsburg—
And now look at the d—d thing!
