

FOR THIRTY YEARS

Congressman Meekison Suffered With Catarrh—Read His Endorsement of Pe-ru-na.

CONGRESSMAN MEEKISON, OF OHIO.

Mr. David Meekison is well known, not only in his own State but throughout the country. He began his political career by serving four consecutive terms as Mayor of the city of Xenia, Ohio, during which time he became widely known as the champion of the poor. He was elected to the Fifty-fifth Congress by a very large majority, and is the acknowledged leader of his party in his State.

His law career was the otherwise complete success of this rising statesman. With the insidious approach of catarrh, was his only means of escape. For thirty years he waged unsuccessful warfare against this personal enemy, until Pe-ru-na came to the rescue, and he dictated the following letter to the publisher:

"I have used several bottles of Pe-ru-na and I feel greatly benefited by its use. I feel encouraged to believe that if I use it longer I will be fully able to eradicate the disease of catarrh."—David Meekison, ex-member of Congress.

catarrh cold is upon me, and I feel as if I were to be heard on every side. I have used several bottles of Pe-ru-na and I feel greatly benefited by its use. I feel encouraged to believe that if I use it longer I will be fully able to eradicate the disease of catarrh."—David Meekison, ex-member of Congress.

A moral, sensible and well-bred man will not affront me—and no other can.

FOR ADELPHI'S EYE

A Delicate Salad. Cut into half inch lengths celery which has been washed and scraped in ice water with the juice of a lemon in it and place in lettuce cups for individual serving.

Blouse Coat.

Blouse coats retain all their favor and give promise of still more extended vogue. This one includes the shoulder capes that are so much liked and which always give a drooping and graceful effect.

Ribbon Wreaths.

Puckered ribbons into wreaths made in a pretty trimming for a hat as it is simple. These wreaths are especially effective on the headgear of young girls.

To Clean Feathers.

White and pale shades of ostrich feathers can be cleaned by making a mixture of boiling water, castile soap shaved into small pieces and a little soda. Let it dissolve and cool. Then dip the feather in and draw it thoroughly in clean water was a little bluing in it. Shake dry and curl.

Fashions in Flowers.

There are fashions in flowers as well as in gowns and other things. Just at present the beautiful orchid is the adornment of every woman's corsage who can afford one, and just over the heart is the place it must be worn.

Lights.

There is nothing makes a room as cozy and homelike as a lamp, and it is decorative, too. With the revival of all the other quaint old-time fashions, we have gone back to the soft gleams of candles and lamps. Electricity or gas, if favored at all, must undergo a softening process by means of screens and shades.

A New Lining.

A new and perfect interlining for jackets can now be found. It is warm and light and soft and much better than flannel or chamois skin. This lining is snow white and very wide, and it does not noticeably increase the outlines of the figure.

The Latest Word on Night Robes.

In night robes the popular taste turns to the heavily ruffled effect. Lace is sometimes used on the ruffles, but embroidery seems to be the most important decorative feature. The valance is also in evidence.

Misses' Box Plaited Blouse.

Young girls are always most charming when wearing the simplest dresses. The very pretty waist illustrated is exceedingly smart yet entirely free of elaboration and is suited to the entire range of seasonable fabrics. The original, however, is made of pale blue mercerized linen with trimming of embroidery and is unlined.

Little Wear in Mole skin.

Although mole skin garments are still much to the fore, the warning note has been sounded. They are not a good investment, and milk, sable or ermine is a far more profitable purchase. In the latter for the ermine look better with long coats, are here again. As a mink to match is a necessity, the big flat "sack" daintily lined and finished on either side with immense chiffon frills, is the latest.

Dainty Toilet Device.

A dainty device for keeping the twentieth century girl's white stocks and starched collars immaculate when not encircling her fair throat is made of a round basket. Line with silk of delicate hue, with an interlining of wadding, sprinkled with sachet powder. A circular piece of pasteboard covered and wadded serves for a lid and also as a convenient resting place for the fancy pins worn at the front and back of stock collars.

Handsome Bedwork Handbag.

Among the multitude of handbags, the one which is the handsomest is composed of bedwork, and while it is, of course, very chic to use an old one that has been for years in the family, the up-to-date woman prefers the modern ones which come from Paris and which cannot be excelled in beauty of handwork and design. Beaded belts are also much to be desired, with their fine golden or inlaid buckles.

WASHINGTON.

By JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL.
From "Under the Elm," read at Cambridge, July 2, 1875, on the hundredth anniversary of Washington taking command of the American army.

Haughty they said he was, at first, severe; But owned, as all men owned, the steady hand Upon the brittle, patient to command. Prized, as all prize, the justice pure from fear, And learned to honor first, then love him, then revere.

THE IMMORTALITY OF WASHINGTON'S NAME

On every hand in this land and in the uttermost parts of the earth, is shown the respect in which the great name of Washington is held. There is no name in all the world so honored by its geographical use. At the extreme north of Greenland is Washington Land, and a little east of it is Cape Washington. Then there is Washington in Oxford county, Ontario, in the mid-Pacific, south of Hawaii, is Washington Island, and further south, on one of the Fiji Islands, is Mount Washington. In Paris is the Rue Washington, opening into the Avenue des Champs Elysees.

EARL OF BUCHAN'S TRIBUTE.

The New York Times published an article in reference to the disposal of the box made from the oak that sheltered Sir William Wallace after the battle at Falkirk, and giving the letter of presentation in which the Earl of Buchan presented the box to Washington. It seems that the Earl of Buchan, friend and patron of Robert Burns, was so delighted with the heroic part that Gen. Washington took in the American War of Independence that he showed his appreciation in the manner described.

The letter and box were entrusted to the care of a Mr. Robertson, a Scottish artist. Robertson arrived in New York in October, and in December went to Philadelphia to fulfill his mission. This was in 1791.

On Friday, Dec. 13, of that year he presented the box to the president. "He was much embarrassed," he said, "on being introduced to the American hero, but was soon relieved by Washington, who entered into familiar conversation with him, and introduced him to Mrs. Washington." The Earl of Buchan expressed the wish that he might have a portrait of Washington and that Robertson might be the artist. Washington sat to Robertson for the portrait in miniature, and when that was finished the artist painted a larger picture from it in oil for Lord Buchan.

He Asked for "Razors."

"Please send me six razors at once and charge to militia account of the state," telegraphed Adjutant General Drain, of Washington, to the war department. "How did you get the idea that the war department furnished razors to the militia?" telegraphed the chief of ordnance to Adjutant General Drain. "There was a lot more telegrams, and it was discovered that Adjutant General Drain wanted eight 'razors' for guns, not implements for shaving."

I have since prescribed them in my regular practice for every form of Kidney Trouble and have never as yet known them to fail."
