STICK right to the law, Assessor Tee-garden. Equal and just assessment is what the people demand.

An exchange regrets that "Senator Burton did not save himself by turning state's evidence." Wonder Dietrich didn't threaten to do this to save himself from a similar fate as Burton's?

THE St. Louis Republic says: "There was a vigorous complaint from certain parties that Bryan talked too much and now these same parties are complaining because Parker is silent. Funny that some people can't be satisfied."

The assessor is abroad in the land and the taxpayer is about to receive some "inside information" as to the ingenuity of a republican legislature in framing a revenue law that compels him to bear an even larger share than usual of the public burden, while great corporations escape.

The head of the reform movement in Missouri, the great boodler hunter and graft exposé, Joseph W. Folk, seems pretty certain to be the next governor of that state. The machine leaders and corruptionists have been put to flight and thousands of republicans who are not in jail have come out for him.

JOE FOLK is evidently "burning the woods" in Missouri, from the way the rural democrats are rushing to the front to vote for him. When the returns are all in it will be found that he will have a majority over all other candidates combined. When the rural democracy of Missouri speak, it is usually in that tone of voice as to be most thoroughly understood.

THE members of the Omaha bar feel very indignant over the cowardly manner Mickey pursued in the appointment of Judge Baxter's successor. After giving the bar to understand that his wishes would be consulted, and while the members were holding a meeting to recommend some one for appointment, they were apprised of the fact that Attorney Bartlett had received the news of his appointment. Little Johnny's action was a terrible insult to the Omaha bar.

HERE are the utterances of a democrat after our own heart. In the last issue of the Columbus Telegram Edgar Howard has this to say: "Judge Parker will not be the first choice of Nebraska democrats, but if he should be chosen by the convention the Nebraska democracy would be first to fall in behind the banner. Judge Parker is not wholly in accord with the views of western democrats."

But if in the wisdom of the national convention Judge Parker shall be chosen for that honor, western democrats will accept the decision as final, and the true western democrats will be the last to organize any Palmer and Buckner business."

To a personal friend Judge John J. Sullivan wrote a letter, containing numerous good suggestions to the democrats of Nebraska and among the best is the following, which agrees with the Journal's idea exactly: "The thing to do always is what the majority want done. It may not be prudent or politic, but it is democratic. In the election of delegates to St. Louis differences of opinion in regard to the platform should be left out of view; representative democrats should be chosen without reference to their attitude on the question of reformation." In these utterances Judge Sullivan demonstrates the proper manner of securing harmony in the ranks of the democratic party of the state.

MISSOURI has had, and ought to have again, a republican administration.—Grant City (Mo.) Star.

There are too many voters in that state who still remember the dark days of Missouri, when the republicans had control, and the condition they left affairs in, to trust that party. They haven't yet forgotten Rodman & Co., and the band of thieves that saddled millions upon millions of debt upon the people of that commonwealth. The democrats have made Missouri what it is today—one of the most prosperous states in the union, and the citizens are not quite ready to experience another calamity of like character. "We are from Missouri," and whenever the people become so insane as to trust that party again it will be after all the old settlers have passed away. It is enough to irritate any democrat, who has ever lived in Missouri, to read such squibs from republican papers. The idea that "Missouri has had, and ought to have again, a republican administration," must appear ridiculous to those who know or read of the dastardly deeds committed by that party a few years after the war.

Robbed the Grave. A startling incident is narrated by John Oliver of Philadelphia, as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; to my great joy, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents, guaranteed, at F. G. Fricke & Co's drug store.

The matter of C. Merriam against Wm. Craig, styled forcible detention, which came up in Judge Archer's court Monday, resulting in a verdict for the defendant. The case was tried by a jury composed of the following gentlemen: J. V. Egenberger, Andy Taylor, Robert Manzy, Henry Herold, W. L. Pickett, and Fred Rampe. The plaintiff alleged through her attorney, Polk, that the defendant, who occupies her farm in Liberty precinct, is holding the same unlawfully, his term of lease having expired and that he refuses to give possession of property. Herein is another instance where the Italian hand of Attorney Polk was again visible.

The pony belonging to Grovenor and George Dovey, took a notion to take a spin yesterday. With the cart attached it came down Fifth street, crossing Main and turned up the alley back of Westcott's store where the vehicle struck a post and the pony fell down. After regaining its feet it ran into the sheds back of Hans Goos' saloon, where it was stopped. No particular damage done.

While engaged in painting the exterior of one of Elam Parmelee's houses last Monday, William Brantner made a misstep and fell from the ladder, spraining one of his ankles, and is now able to hobble around with the aid of a cane.

W. C. Tiphens, the new councilman from the Fifth ward, is a new subscriber to the Journal this week. The Old Reliable is being quite popular in the city, as well as in the country districts.

The newest creations in Easter hats are sold very reasonably at the St. Louis Millinery Co.

Makes a Clean Sweep. There's nothing like doing a thing thoroughly. Of all the Salves you ever heard of, Bucklen's Arnica Salve is the best.
