They Do Love.
 To the fact that fools ask questions is doubtless due some valuable reflections and some progress; but the routine of fools' questions is made up largely of trivinity and produces no benefit whatever, says the St. Louis Republic. A fool this week, having nothing else on his mind, raised the point as to whether women's club members actually loved their husbands. The very obviousness of the answer should reasonably preclude discussion of it, but the mere fact that the point has been raised, however trifling, sometimes warrants discussion which would otherwise be superfluous. An interrogation involving the love of women of any sort for their husbands ought not to be left in the air.

That club women are constantly mooting considerations of their husbands' happiness and welfare and uplifting ought to be sufficient answer alone. That these women in the unselfish and self-sacrificing pursuit of such considerations will often go two thousand miles from home, forsaking even children, is overwhelming. The subject, at club meetings, conventions, federation assemblies and other places where these members rather pertain to the husband's well-being from every standpoint. How to keep him home at nights, how to interest him in things he ought to be interested in, how to comfort him and make him good pies, how to make the servants stay and respect him, how to train up young women to be good wives and housekeepers—these occupy the women's forum almost exclusively. You never hear of such things as tattling, eucire and pink afternoons absorbing women's clubs; they are topics too purely feminine. The theory of the women's clubs seems to be that woman's best opportunity lies in getting the most out of the husband. The husband is full of latent possibilities which ought to be developed, and to develop them is her loving task.

The fool who asks whether such women truly love their husbands ought to be exhibited as the prize ass of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition. Women may not love their husbands romantically, but to love them scientifically is far nobler and better.

Does an Education Pay?
 Orison Sweet Marden, in June Success.

Does it pay an acorn to become an oak?
 Does it pay to escape being a rich ignoramus?
 Does it pay to fit oneself for a superior position?
 Does it pay to get a glimpse of the joy of living?
 Does it pay the chrysalis to unfold into the butterfly?
 Does it pay to learn to make life a glory instead of a grind?
 Does it pay to open a little wider the door of a narrow life?
 Does it pay to add power to the lens of the microscope or telescope?
 Does it pay to taste the exhilaration of feeling one's powers unfold?
 Does it pay a rosebud to open its petals and fling out its beauty to the world?
 Does it pay to push one's horizon farther out, in order to get a wider outlook, a clearer vision?
 Does it pay to learn how to center thought with power, how to marshal one's mental force effectively?
 Does it pay to acquire power to get out of life high and noble pleasures which wealth cannot purchase?
 Does it pay to acquire character, wealth, a soul-property, which no disaster or misfortune can wreck or ruin?
 Does it pay to have expert advice and training, to have high ideals held up to one in the most critical years of life?
 Does it pay to make life-long friendships with bright, ambitious young people, many of whom will occupy high places later on?
 Does it pay to become familiar with all the lessons that history and science can teach us on how to make life healthy and successful?
 Does it pay to become an enlightened citizen, able to see through the sophistries of political claptrap and vote intelligently on public matters?
 Does it pay to change a bag of rough pig iron into hairsprings for watches, thus increasing its worth to more than fifty times the value of its weight in gold?
 Does it pay to experience the joy of self-discovery, to open up whole continents of possibilities in one's nature, which might otherwise remain undiscovered?
 Does it pay the sculptor to call out from the rough block the statue that sleeps in the marble, and which shall tell the story of heroism and greatness to unborn generations?
 Does it pay to have one's mentality stirred by the passion of expansion, to feel the tonic of growth, the indescribable satisfaction which comes from the consciousness of perpetual enlargement?
 Does it pay to have four years filled with the most delightful associations with cultured people, at an age when ambitious and high ideals have not been dulled or shattered by disappointment, or the unbounded faith in human nature shocked by violated pledges?

Count Them Double.
 Van Orbeek, the Dutch painter, noted for his extravagant life fell sick, and physicians assembled at his bedside were founding some hopes upon his age. But the artist said, "Gentlemen, have no regard for my 46 years; you must count them double, for I have lived day and night." A man of best age, but exhausted, because he did not know the value of life. Many of us do the same; relying on their physical strength, they give no rest to their body and mind, they do not renew the vigor and energy spent, and they usually die prematurely. Triner's American Elixir of Bitter Wine would restore their strength, would renew their blood, would make them healthy and vigorous. It cures every stomach, every indigestion, every blood disease. Being made of pure grape wine, it has a delicious taste and a decided stimulating effect on all parts of the body. The advantages over other blood purifiers are that it contains no potash or mercury, that it does not spoil the stomach, that every member of a family can use it, and that its effect is in all cases admirable. At drug stores Jos. Triner, 709 So. Ashland, Ave., Chicago, Ill., Pilsen Station.

Still Have Hopes.
 Pacific Junction railroad men have not given up hope that their town will yet be restored to its former importance as a division station. A grievance committee of the railroad men on the Iowa division has been sent to Chicago to protest against the long runs and long hours that are involved in the runs between Burlington and Omaha or Lincoln. The Junction people believe that if a change is made it will make Clinton and Pacific Junction division points, and should this be the case the Junction will be an important point. The citizens take some encouragement in the fact that a less proportion of changes have been made here than at any other point along the road. —Glenwood (Ia.) Opinion.

Feel Impending Doom.
 The feeling of impending doom in the minds of many victims of Bright's disease and diabetes has been changed to thankfulness by the benefit derived from taking Foley's Kidney Cure. It will cure incipient Bright's disease and diabetes, and even in the worst cases gives comfort and relief. Slight disorders are cured in a few days. "I had diabetes in its worst form," writes Marion Lee of Dunreath, Ind. "I tried eight physicians without relief. Only three bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure made me a well man." For sale by F. G. Fricke & Co.

Worst of All Experiences.
 Can anything be worse than to feel that every minute may be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. S. H. Newson, Decatur, Ala. "For three years," she writes, "I endured insufferable pain from indigestion, stomach and bowel trouble. Death seemed inevitable when doctors and all remedies failed. At length I was induced to try Electric Bitters and the result was miraculous. I improved at once and now I'm completely recovered." For liver, kidney, stomach and bowel troubles Electric Bitters is the only medicine. Only 50c. It's guaranteed by F. G. Fricke & Co., druggists.

CRUISER ATTANGIER
 BROOKLYN HAS ARRIVED AND OTHER VESSELS FOLLOWING.
 Bandits' Prisoner is in a More Serious Position Than Before Warships Arrived at Moroccan Port—Would Welcome Aid of France.

Tangier, Morocco, May 31.—The United States cruiser Brooklyn, flying the flag of Rear Admiral Chadwick, has arrived here. Other vessels of the United States squadron are following.

The authorities here consider that the position of the American, Ion Perdicaris, and his stepson, Cromwell

ION PERDICARIS.
 Varley, a British subject, who were kidnaped by bandits, headed by Hattul, is now more serious than before.

Rear Admiral Chadwick, accompanied by his aide, the United States consul general and two marines, visited M. Torres, the representative of the sultan, at Tangier. The interview lasted ten minutes, after which M. Torres returned the visit at the United States consulate, the Brooklyn firing a salute in his honor. M. Torres has informed the American and British representatives that he cannot grant Raisul's terms. A special courier, it is reported, has been sent to the sultan, giving the American view.

Washington, May 31.—There is no doubt in minds of officials here that the government of France would gladly aid the United States in securing the release of Perdicaris by all means in its power. Because of her authority in Morocco, France perhaps could do more in a peaceable manner than any other nation to effect the release of the man. If the United States decides to make any request for assistance from France in this matter naturally it would be in an unofficial manner and if other attempts to secure the release of Perdicaris fail, such intimation of a desire for French assistance may be made through the state department.

OLEO LAW IS SUSTAINED.
 Supreme Court Upholds Constitutionality of the Act.

Washington, June 1.—The supreme court of the United States, in an opinion by Justice White, upheld the constitutionality of the oleomargarine law. Leo W. MeRay sued the United States in the Southern district of Ohio to recover $50 paid by him as a penalty for the sale of a fifty-pound package of colored oleomargarine containing a stamp tax of three-quarters of a cent a pound instead of 10 cents a pound. MeRay's counsel argued first, that although the oleo was colored to look like butter, the color was obtained by the use of butter, which was itself artificially colored, but its use as an ingredient of the oleo was authorized by law, and second, that the tax of 10 cents a pound was prohibitive and confiscatory and an attempted federal usurpation of the police powers of the states. The court said that the tax contemplated the finished product and not the details of manufacture. If the oleo was colored it should have the higher tax and if uncolored the lower tax, regardless of how obtained. As to the amount of the tax the court said it was settled that the court could not consider the amount of any tax fixed by congress, this being a purely political function. The court, therefore, affirmed the judgment of the lower court, upholding the validity of the law and the tax.

ROOSEVELT AT GETTYSBURG
 President Delivers Oration Upon the Famous Battlefield.

Gettysburg, Pa., May 31.—On historic Cemetery Hill, overlooking ground hallowed by the blood of half a hundred thousand brave men and in the presence of a concourse of thousands who had assembled to pay tribute to the memory of the nation's dead, President Roosevelt delivered a notable address.

As President Roosevelt rose to speak a downpour of rain began and continued throughout the time he addressed the great assemblage. He was accorded an enthusiastic reception, notwithstanding the rain, and the crowd of 10,000 people in the cemetery remained to hear the address despite the thorough drenching it received.
