ODD FELLOWS MEET

SOVEREIGN LODGE ELECTS R. E. WRIGHT GRAND SIRE.

Committee Reports Are Presented. San Francisco is Thronged With Visitors—Rebekahs Busy in the Way of Entertainment.

San Francisco, Sept. 21.—The meeting of the sovereign lodge has attracted to this city many thousands of Odd Fellows, and the number is rapidly being augmented by arrivals from western and coast points. The street decorations are lavish and beautiful, both day and night, and the weather is ideal. Most of the visitors are devoting their time to social reunions and sightseeing, there being daily excursions to many points of interest. The Rebekahs are doing much in the way of entertainment. In the Mechanic pavilion many lodges have their headquarters and the big building is constantly thronged.

The sovereign grand lodge resumed its work, the first business in order being the consideration of committee reports. The main feature of the day, however, was the election of officers, in which great interest was manifested. The following were elected: Grand sire, Robert E. Wright of Allentown, Pa., promoted from the office of deputy grand sire by unanimous vote; deputy grand sire, E. S. Conway of Chicago, chosen on the second ballot by a vote of 108 to 89 for John T. Nolan of Nashville, Tenn.; grand secretary, J. Frank Grant of Baltimore, re-elected without opposition; grand treasurer, M. Richard Muckle of Philadelphia, re-elected.

After the election of officers it was decided by an unanimous vote that Grand Sire-elect Wright, who is in feeble health, might be installed in office at his home in Allentown, Pa. California members of the order champion an amendment to the constitution which, at present, provides that no man, either directly or indirectly engaged in the liquor traffic, shall become a member of the order. They desire to have this provision modified so that those whose business is indirectly connected with the liquor traffic may join the order.

SCIENTISTS ARE IN SESSION.

Congress of Arts and Sciences Meets on World's Fair Grounds.

St. Louis, Sept. 20.—The congress of arts and sciences was opened by Howard J. Rogers, director of congresses, who introduced President Francis of the exposition as the temporary chairman. President Francis welcomed the delegates on behalf of the exposition management and said that all the conventions held at the exposition had confined their deliberations to special lines of thought or activity, but this congress is the most comprehensive in its plan and scope of any ever held, and is the first of its kind.

In the absence of James Bryce, Sir William Ramsey of London thanked the exposition for the hospitality with which the delegates had been received.

The honorary vice president from France, M. Gaston Darboux, extended to the congress the greeting of the Academy of Arts and Sciences of Paris, the oldest institution of its kind, but one, in the world. In the name of German professors, Professor Wilhelm Waldeyer of Germany praised the congress and promised that Germany would be second to none in espousing its cause and furthering its purpose.

Professor Theodore Escherich of Austria congratulated the Americans on the boldness of the idea which they had conceived and carried out by bringing together such a noted assembly.

The Russian speaker, Dr. Oskar Backlund, was greeted with cheers, and concluded his speech amid an enthusiastic demonstration. Dr. Backlund said: "I bring the greetings of the best thinkers of my land, and express my personal thanks for the reception I have received."

In praise of American universities, Signor Attilio Brunialti of Italy addressed the congress.

President W. P. Harper of the University of Chicago outlined the general plan and purpose of the congress. He said this congress was organized to give the best workers in science and labor an opportunity to present their lines of thought. He defined its purposes as a general survey of the fields of learning.
