A Worthy Example.

Will Ramsey and his cousin, Edwin D. Crites, son of Judge and Mrs. A. W. Crites, of Chadron, came down from the university last Sunday and will spend their vacation at the Ramsey home. Edwin and Will are essentially Plattsmouth boys—born in the city about 21 years ago and for the last four years students in the university.

They commenced work in that institution with the intention of completing two courses—the academic and law, which then required four years in the former and two years in the latter. The rule was subsequently changed so that three years were required to complete the law course.

During the last year the young men doubled their work, that is took academic and law work combined, so that in two years more they each expect to graduate with both degrees. As an evidence of the energy of these promising young men, on Monday they discarded college garb and, ornamented with blue overalls, went to work in the E. & M. shops under Superintendent Wash Smith.

The Journal heartily commends the example of these worthy young men, and bespeak for them a future that will be as bright as their indomitable energy deserves.

Thomas Murty of the First National Bank of Weeping Water was in the city Wednesday.

Peter Goos, an uncle of the murdered girl, Miss Alma Goos, came down from Omaha yesterday for a short visit.

The Burlington has a gang of men at work laying a line of 30-inch iron pipe under the right-of-way embankment a short distance north of the station. This pipe will afford adequate drainage of the area north of the tracks under any circumstances.

Father Bradley went to Lincoln yesterday and from there to Elmwood where the first mass of Rev. Robert Bickert will be celebrated today. The new priest is a Cass county boy, and was ordained last Friday by Bishop Bonacum at Lincoln.

Judge Goode of Wahoo, who held court here this week for Judge Jensen, is a most genial fellow and won many friends in Plattsmouth during his short sojourn. He gave the Journal office a brief visit, which we received as a favor and an honor. Judge Goode and Judge Jensen are brothers-in-law.

Remember Their Dead.

The L. O. O. F. and A. O. U. W. lodge remembered their dead last Sunday with decoration exercises. At nine o'clock in the morning the members of the two orders met at their lodge rooms, and from there marched to the cemetery headed by the Bohemian band, where the graves of the dead members were decorated with the choicest of flowers, the Rebekahs taking a prominent part in the services of the Odd Fellows. After the decoration of the graves, the procession returned to town, and interesting services were held at the halls before adjournment. The day was a most pleasant one for such an occasion, and the turnouts were quite large.

Post-Mortem Examination.

Drs. T. P. Livingston, E. W. Cook and J. S. Livingston made a post-mortem examination of the victim. They found that the fatal bullet had entered the right side under the arm, pierced the right lung and the heart and lodged close to the surface on the left side. Another bullet pierced the throat and the other two struck in the right shoulder and right forearm. The examination was made at the request of County Attorney Rawls. The finding of the physicians will be used in prosecuting the murderer.

Ordained a Sub-deacon.

Lincoln Journal of Thursday, June 8, says: "By Friday morning Robert Bickert of Greenwood, Neb., will be a pledged priest for the Lincoln diocese. This morning he was ordained sub-deacon by the Right Rev. Bishop Bonacum at St. Theresa's pro-cathedral, and tomorrow morning he will be ordained as a deacon. Friday morning he will go through the ceremony which will make him a priest."

A Little Late

The Journal being a weekly paper of course our account of the murder of Miss Alma Goos would seem a little to those who have read the account in the daily papers. But one consolation to them will be that the Journal's version of the sad affair is correct in every particular although some reporters had all day Sunday and the greater part of Monday to belch forth and incorrect account of the same.
