The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Evil Comes From Good.

There never was a time in the history of the world when there was as much provision made for the care of orphans and abandoned children as there is now.

This fact shows that the world is growing more kind but at the same time these asylums are encouraging a kind of crime that has always been prevalent to some extent but never so much as now. The records of New York show that there are more children deserted by their parents now than there ever have been before. The parents even justify themselves in abandoning their children on the theory that the children will be better taken care of by the state or by the charity associations than they would be by them, the parents. You can see how some trifling hound of a man or some woman who does not want to be bothered with the care of children would argue that they were doing a good thing for the children by abandoning them. They say that the children will be better fed and better clothed and better educated than they would be if left with their parents. And the fact is that the children are better taken care of than they would be by their parents, but that does not lessen the infernal meanness of a man or woman who would deliberately abandon his or her own child.

WHY IS THIS THE CASE?

The Rapid Decrease in the Number of Male Teachers in Nebraska.

In the 800-page biennial report of the state educational department for 1902-1904, which has just made its belated appearance from the press. Former State Superintendent Fowler calls attention to the continuous decrease in the number of male teachers employed in the schools, notwithstanding the constant increase in the wages paid. In 1890 there were 2,861 men employed in the schools, but in 1904 there were only 1,389 out of a total of 9,714 teachers employed. During the past four years, the decrease in the number of male teachers has been 33 per cent and the wages have risen 20 per cent. The changes are attributed to the prosperity in other lines of business which have lessened the comparative attractiveness of the teaching profession from a financial point of view.

"In the seventeenth biennial report of this department," says the author of the volume just issued, "I called attention to the rapid decrease in the number of men employed from year to year in teaching school. In 1890 there were 2,860 men thus employed, 2,062 in 1900; 1,840 in 1901; 1,862 in 1902; 1,490 in 1903, and 1,389 in 1904. During the same time the increase in the number of women teachers has more than offset this loss of men, for the total number of teachers was 9,463 in 1900; 9,620 in 1902; 9,714 in 1904. As stated two years ago, if the loss of male teachers is to be charged to low salaries, as is customary, we must make our comparisons between the salaries paid men for teaching and the salaries paid in other professions and trades and various lines of business, and not between the salaries paid men for teaching and the salaries paid women for teaching, for men are paid more than women, and men are paid better wages now than a few years ago."

The former superintendent deplored this tendency towards a decrease in the number of male teachers as a defect in the American school system, adopting the following sentiment recently expressed by Leslie M. Shaw, secretary of the treasury:

"The boy never sees much of his father; all he sees are other boys and some very excellent women teachers. But you cannot rear a man without bringing the boy in contact with a man, just as sure as the world."

Old Relics Found.
Contractor Wickham has a large force of men at work laying the two miles of conduit for the new Independent Telephone company. Workmen engaged in digging the trench in South Main street have made some archaeological finds. A section of the ancient horse car railway which years ago was used to carry passengers to the Main street depot and the Union Pacific transfer, has been dug up several feet below the granite blocks. The oak ties were found to be still solid enough to interpose serious obstacles to the trench diggers—Council Bluffs Non-pariel.

Public is Aroused.
The public is aroused to a knowledge of the curative merits of that great medicinal tonic, Electric Bitters, for sick stomach, liver and kidneys. Mary H. Walters, of 546 St. Clair Ave., Columbus, O., writes: "For several months I was given up to die. I had fever and ague, my nerves were wrecked; I could not sleep, and my stomach was so weak, from useless doctors' drugs, that I could not eat. Soon after beginning to take Electric Bitters, I obtained relief, and in a short time I was entirely cured." Guaranteed at F. G. Fricke's drug store; price 50c.

They are Swindlers.
An old farmer from over the river in Mills county, Iowa, was in the city yesterday and reported that a couple of fellows claiming to be from this city, having been trying for several days to swindle the farmers in his vicinity, by selling them a "sure cure for rheumatism in any form" and also for numerous other ailments. They produced numerous testimonials, with signatures of Plattsmouth people. The old gentleman had a sample of the "medicine" with him, and it was mostly made of water, with a coloring. It surely is a craft which costs the swindlers but little money. They don't belong in this city.

Peculiar Disappearance.
J. D. Runyan, of Butteville, O., laid the peculiar disappearance of his painful symptoms, of indigestion and biliousness to Dr. King's New Life Pills. He says: "They are a perfect remedy, for dizziness, sour stomach, headache, constipation, etc." Guaranteed at F. G. Fricke's drug store; price 25c.
