ber 29th. 1881.

A Buxon Boyin's Bad Break.

"It was in the evening twilight gay on yesterday evening; three of Plattsmouth's fair ladies had been out calling: they were returning home, accompanied by one of Plattsmouth's young lawyers: they were ascending the muddy slope of Gospel Hill; a bovine of the female persuasion was like wise ascending the aforesaid hill with slow and wearied step, ever and anon stopping to renew her courage in order to overcome the muddy obstacles before her. By and by she caught a glimpse of the aforesaid quartette; the ladies returned this affectionate bovine glance with the cry of. "the cow she's coming, she's coming!" The cow was coming sure enough; she had seen gay ribbons gracefully floating in the evening breeze, and this little circumbecame so serious that she has been lenge to mortal combat. The trio of stance, no doubt, was taken as a chalseeking restoration at the sanitarium ladies gracefully stampeded; the cow came rushing on with blood in her eye and her head poised, ready to conquer victory in the muddified gladiatorial arena. The young lawyer gallantly rushed between the infuriated bovine and the aforesaid ladies, and, with a The postoffice department has made monster club-about three inches long a new ruling on mail matter addressed and one inch thick-supplemented to patrons on rural routes which will with a few suggestions, concerning a be of great benefit in this country want of bovine etiquette in the aforewhen the reorganization of the system said cow, bravely held the cowistical goes into effect this fall.
