Should Trade at Home.

An exchange remarks that the farmer has an interest in developing nearby market. A village is better than a cross roads, a town is better than a village, and a city is better than a town. He therefore, should as far as possible trade at home. A deserted village is a bad thing for neighboring farmers, yet what but a deserted village can be expected if neighboring farmers refuse it, their trade. The larger a town grows the better place does it become for the farmer to buy in or sell in.
