PLATTSMOUTH BOY STILL CLIMBING

Will Ramsey Elected Commander of the Pershing Rifles at Lincoln.

A special to the World-Herald from Lincoln Monday contains the following:

"The Pershing Rifles, the crack military organization of the state university, will be commanded by Captain W. C. Ramsey, who was elected today. The first lieutenant will be C. D. Wilson, while C. K. Syford and C. K. Smith will be send lientenant and first sergeant respectively."

The Journal is always glad to record the advancement of Plattsmouth boys and girls, and it gives us great pleasure to note that our young friend is gradually going to the front. Will Ramsey is one of our city's brightest young men, and we fondly look for him to go onward and upward until he has ascended the topmost rung of the ladder of fame. "Success" evidently is his motto.

FORMER RESIDENT STRICKEN

J. W. Barnes, a Former Citizen of Plattsmouth, Stricken With Apoplexy.

A special to the Omaha Bee from Tecumseh, Neb., under date of Oct. 10, says: "J. W. Barnes suffered a stroke of apoplexy this forenoon and up to a late hour tonight had not regained consciousness. It is feared that death is near. He was at the court house when stricken and appeared to be in his usual good health. Mr. Barnes is a native of Kentucky, but has been a resident of Nebraska for fifty years. During the sessions of the legislature from 1873 to 1876 he was a representative from Cass county. For many years the family home was at York. Mr. Barnes has seven children, one of whom is Dr. C. D. Barnes, of Tecumseh. Mr. Barnes is aged 71 years. During the administration of President Grant he was collector of internal revenue with headquarters at Beaver, Utah. He is a member of the Masonic fraternity."

Mr. Barnes resided in Cass county for a number of years and was a resident of this city for several years. He is the father-in-law of David Campbell who was treasurer of Cass county two terms, and afterwards clerk of the supreme court.

Mr. Barnes was well known to all the old residents of Plattsmouth.

Funeral of H. H. Shedd.

A special from Ashland, under date of October 3, says: "The funeral of H. H. Shedd, who died Friday evening, occurred at the family residence, yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, and was attended by a large number of friends and relatives, many coming from out of the city. The arrangements for the funeral were in charge of Mr. George Scott, with whom Mr. Shedd was associated in business for nearly thirty years and the services which were simple and dignified were conducted by Rev. William Carson, pastor of the Congregational church. The pallbearers were Messrs. F. E. White, H. A. Wiggenhorn, J. C. Railsbach, Giff Railsbach, Alex Laverty and O. D. Harford, all business associates of Mr. Shedd for many years. Many beautiful floral remembrances were received. Mrs. H. H. Shedd and Miss Edith Shedd will go to Portland, Ore., for a few weeks' visit tomorrow, where George C. Shedd returns to close up the affairs of the Nebraska commission at the exposition.

Modern Woodmen of America.

This is one of the most rapidly growing lodges now in existence, and it has good reason to be, because it is one of the best. No young man, or any other that is eligible for admission, should hesitate a moment about joining a society that possesses so many excellent features. Not only do we refer to its fraternal feature, but its social features are just what everyone needs as down the rugged road of Time one passes. The rapid growth of the order in Cass county is sufficient to convince anyone of its excellency. Messrs. E. E. Kester and Sam Woodley, two most worthy members of the Woodmen, are in the city in the interest of the order, and either would be glad to give anyone who thinks of joining a fraternal organization, any information regarding the order they may desire.

Doctors Said He Would Not Live.

Peter Fry, Woodruff, Pa., writes: "After doctoring for two years with the best physicians in Waynesburg, and still getting worse, the doctors advised me if I had any business to attend to it at once, as I could not possibly live another month as there was no cure for me. Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended to me by a friend, and I immediately sent my son to the store for it, and after taking three bottles I began to get better and continued to improve until I was entirely well.

LOOKING BACKWARD TWENTY-THREE YEARS

A FAMOUS CASE OF MALPRACTICE

"Doctor" William W. Higgs the Defendant, Joseph N. Thompson the Plaintiff, and the Late George W. Adams, Formerly Mayor of Weeping Water, Higgs' Bondsman, the Victim.

[From the Plattsmouth Herald of date of May 19, 1892.]

Some of the testimony of "Doctor" Higgs, as taken down by Judge Travis, who was one of Thompson's attorneys, is as follows:

"In 1882 Dr. William W. Higgs was practicing medicine in Weeping Water. Some time during that year Joseph N. Thompson, an employe of the stone quarry, was struck in the eye by a small piece of stone. Thompson went to the above named doctor for treatment. The doctor bade the patient accompany him to a drug store, where he mixed blue vitriol with some other medicine and put it into Thompson's eye to get the piece of stone out. The medicine caused Mr. Thompson to lose the use of his eye, and he brought suit against Higgs for $200 damages, retaining H. D. Travis as his attorney. Higgs obtained a change of venue to Louisville before Esquire Cleghorn and a jury. Higgs retained Gibson and Mickle, and in the meantime B. S. Ramsey had been secured to help Mr. Travis.

"When Dr. Higgs had been put upon the stand and the defendant's attorney had examined him, Judge Ramsey cross-examined him. The following is a part as taken at the time by H. D. Travis, who found it among his old papers the other day:

Question. What have you been doing since 1876?

Answer. Have been practicing the healing method.

Q. How old are you?
A. Sixty-four.
Q. Did you study physiology?
A. I did.
Q. How long?
A. Three months.
Q. What is physiology?
A. Physiology is a book got up on anatomy.
Q. Have you ever studied the natural sciences?
A. No.
Q. When you examined the eye did you see a spot on the cornea?
A. No. When I looked at his eye I did not see anything the matter with the corner of his eye.
Q. What was the matter with the eye when you first saw it?
A. Well, it was a sore eye.
Q. What is the matter with it now?
A. There is a cataract on the eye.
Q. What is a cataract?
A. It is something that grows on the outside of the eye.
Q. Is it painful?
A. Yes, it hurts pretty bad some times."
Q. Is not cataract an opaque condition of the crystalline lens?
A. I don't know what you mean?
Q. Was there any abrasion of the sclerotica on the cornea of the eye?
A. I don't know anything about your big names.
Q. Where did you graduate?
A. From the American College of Baltimore.
Q. What course did you take in that institution?
A. I took three courses.
Q. How long were you there?
A. Six weeks.
Q. How many and what chairs in the college?
A. Cheers? I don't know what you mean. (Meaning explained.)
A. There was the chair of grammar and the chair of orthography. There was no 'cheer' of astronomy as I know of.
Q. Who occupied the chair of grammar?
A. Dr. Hickman, M. D.
Q. Were there any other chairs in the college?
A. Yes.
Q. What were they?
A. I don't remember.
Q. Was there a chair of obstetrics?
A. I don't know whether there was a chair of obstacles or not?
Q. Did you take a course in that institution?
A. Yes.
Q. In what year did you graduate?
A. In 1832.
Q. How long did you practice allopathy?
A. Sixteen years.
Q. Have you been practicing the healing method ever since?
A. I have.
Q. How long have you practiced the healing method?
A. Eighteen years.

"After Ramsey had concluded his examination of the doctor the case was given to the jury, and the jury disagreed.

"The case was again tried at Louisville before Esquire Cleghorn, and A. N. Sullivan had been retained as the defendant's attorney. The second trial resulted in the plaintiff being awarded a verdict for $200.

"The defendant appealed the case, but failed to have his appeal bond filed within ten days. It was mailed on the tenth day at Weeping Water, but for some reason the trains were late and the bond failed to reach its destination until the eleventh day after judgment was rendered. The bond was filed and approved by Cleghorn, both as to form and sufficiency, but not as to time. The defendant filed a transcript of the judgement in district court with a view to perfecting an appeal.

"The plaintiff filed a motion to dismiss the action in district court for the reason that the bond had not been filed within the statutory time and the appellate court thereby not obtaiuing jurisdiction. The motion to dismiss the action was sustained by Judge Pound.

Thompson's attorneys then commenced a direct action upon the appeal bond for the amount of the verdict and costs. It was tried in district court and Thompson awarded a verdict for the whole amount.

"The case was then taken to the supeme court by the defendant, where the decision of the lower court was affirmed at the January term, 1886.

"George W. Adams, now mayor of Weeping Water, signed Higgs' appeal bond and found that he had to pay the amount awarded Thompson and the costs, amounting to nearly $500."

IN MEMORY OF LITTLE BESSIE CORY.

Died—At her home in this city October 6, 1905, little Bessie, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cory, aged 7 years, 2 months and 3 days.

A loved one has left this land,
And gone to join her home in heaven;
The fatal chord in twain is snapped,
And from our hearts 'tis riven.

She's gone like the weary bird,
At eve to its sheltered nest;
She's left her home below,
For a better place of rest.

We no more can welcome her back,
For she's gone to her final rest;
She revels in realms of bliss,
Asleep on Jesus' breast.

She has crossed the dark river of death,
But she crossed it not alone;
For Jesus was by her side,
Conducting her to her home.

Weep not for her, fond parents, dear,
You who loved her as no other;
Remember you have others left,
Her sisters and her brothers.

God has not left you comfortless,
He's opened Heaven's door;
Soon you may enter safely in,
And dwell forever more.

And then you'll see dear Bessie's face,
And clasp her little hand;
And sing with her the songs she loved,
In a holy blessed land.

Boys Who Leave Home.

Almost every boy comes to a time in life when he feels that he must run away from home. He tires of the restraint, not being old enough or having sense sufficient to understand that the restraint is for his good. He therefore grows glum and moody and broods over his fancied wrongs and finally decides to run away. For a boy with a fairly good home, and a decent show in the world, surrounded by ordinary comforts, we do not know of anything which will so rapidly restore him to his senses as a little experience in running away, and our advice has always been that when he gets ready to run, the best thing the parents can do is to let him. After he has had some experience with the chill which the world throws into a fellow when he first meets it, and has bumped up against the ever present truth that no one cares a cent whether he is cold, hungry or forlorn, he begins to tumble to the fact that home is a pretty good sort of a place, and it is not long before he comes sneaking back, tired of using as diet "the husks which the swine did eat," and mighty anxious for a chance at the veal cutlets, which adorn the table of his father's house.
