The Loose Change in Your Pocket will start a Bank Account

Deposit in the bank and pay your bills by check. Your check book shows just where your money went, and for what purpose. Your money slips away leaving no trace when you do not keep record of receipts and expenditures. A checking account records every item, saves time and trouble, and is a great convenience. Your checks are returned to you when you have the bank book balanced. You can have it balanced at any time—it should be balanced at least once a month.

The Bank does your Bookkeeping.

CAUGHT IN CUPID'S COILS

Mr. Herman F. Gansemer and Miss Eva L. Mesina United in Marriage.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mesina, eight miles west of Murray, was the scene of a joyous and most happy event on Wednesday, March 7, 1906, at 11 o'clock a. m., the occasion being the marriage of their daughter, Miss Eva L., and Mr. Herman Gansemer. The Journal failed to learn the name of the person who joined the happy couple in wedlock.

There was a gay throng present to witness the ceremony and partake of the usual hospitalities extended, and our informant, who was one among the number present, says it was one of the grandest events of its character that ever occurred in that section of Cass county. After the ceremony the guests were invited to partake of a most excellent wedding feast, and it is said the tables fairly groaned under the weight of the many good things there spread.

The bride belongs to one of the best families in the county, and is considered one of the handsomest and most highly respected, while the groom is a well to do young farmer, and is very popular among those who know him. In fact both bride and groom are highly respected by all who know them. The congratulations extended by their many friends on this, their wedding day, attested the high esteem in which they are held by their many friends.

After a brief honeymoon the young couple will begin home life on Mr. Gansemer's farm in the vicinity of where the bride's parents reside.

The Journal joins the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Gansemer in extending congratulations, with the hope that their pathway through life may be strewn with the choicest of flowers, and that happiness and prosperity will always attend them.

Another Happy Event.

Mr. Charles Dill and Miss Jennie Philpot were married in Omaha yesterday and last evening returned to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Philpot, southeast of Murray, where the occasion was celebrated in grand style, a large number of friends being invited in to give the young people a hearty welcome and extend congratulations to the happy couple; and from one who was there we understand those present had a most enjoyable time.

Mr. Dill is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Dill, one of our most highly respected citizens, and the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Philpot, residing near Weeping Water, and is a most highly respected young lady. The young people have hosts of friends in this vicinity who have none but the best wishes for their future happiness and success. The young people will make their home near Murray.

Who Could Do It?

In conversation with Mr. C. H. Long while in Murray yesterday he tells us that some very mean individual started a report in and around Murray to effect that Robert Shrader's car of household goods and implements was attached in Plattsmouth last week for a small bill that he was endeavoring to leave behind. Mr. Long wishes us to state that this is a falsehood of the deepest kind, and that he would be pleased to meet the "gentleman" that started the report. Mr. Shrader, like all of his family, have always borne a reputation that was above reproach for honesty, and it is certainly a mean trick for some one to start such a report when the party injured is not present to put up a defense. There is nothing in it and the relatives defy the author to prove the same.

Surgical Case Found.

While in the city on business a few evenings since, Dr. Gilmore of Murray left his team tied at one of the hitch racks while attending to these duties. He had placed his surgical case, which he always carries with him, in the back part of the buggy, and when he returned to the vehicle the case was gone. The doctor kept quiet about the matter in the hope that the thief might be apprehended. A day or two later, Gid Archer, who was employed in working on some street crossings, near the Black property, in the north part of the city, went over to the Black house for some purpose and there he discovered the missing case. Not caring to take charge of it, he reported his find to Mayor Gering, and going up to the house with Gid it was brought down to the drug store, where it remains for the owner. In the meantime, Dr. Gilmore had given up hopes of ever finding his instruments and ordered a new case, and now possesses a double dose. There is too much of such stealing done in this city, and unless more vigilance is pursued in apprehending the thieves, people will cease coming to Plattsmouth altogether. If this was the only incident of this character, it would not be so bad, but many farmers lose whips and lap-ropes, who never say anything about their losses.

A Fine Time.

One of the most successful surprise parties held in this section for many a day was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Farris, on Monday evening of this week, the occasion being the 35th birthday anniversary of Mr. Farris.

The affair was planned by Mrs. Farris and Mr. Copenhaver and was certainly complete in every particular, although the attendance was not as large as was anticipated, owing to the very stormy evening, but those who braved the storm were very glad of it as they were repaid with interest, in the way of enjoying a most pleasant time.

The evening was spent in playing numerous games and at the usual hour a most excellent supper was served. When the merry crowd departed for home the only regret was that Mr. Farris' birthday did not come often enough.

Fitting Up in Fine Shape.

Blair Porter, the Union liveryman, was out yesterday, and while here purchased two fine buggies from August Gorder for his livery barn. Blair is arranging for the summer trade and is fitting up several fine rigs for his patrons. Mr. Porter is genial and courteous and proposes to have things to his notion if money will make it that way.

THE OMAHA JAIL BREAKERS

The Old Soldier Marshal of Louisville Who Captured Them.

RECEIVES THE $100 REWARD OFFERED

The Omaha World-Herald of this morning contains the following relative to the capture at Louisville of the jail birds, who have again been safely landed in the Omaha jail. "W. A. Johnson, the marshal of Louisville, who captured the Douglas county prisoners, Berry and Buckley, last Monday, came to Omaha Wednesday and received from the sheriff the $100 reward for their capture. Their little escapade has already cost the sheriff close on to $200.

"Marshal Johnson is a man 73 years old and an old veteran of the confederate army. He had not yet received Sheriff McDonald's circular telling of the escape of the men, but he was attracted to Buckley by remembering having seen his 'mug' in an old copy of the Detective.

"Dick Myers was the youth who recaptured Berry after that crook had knocked the marshal down and attempted to escape the second time. But that Johnson lost the shells from his pistol he would probably have killed Berry, as he snapped the weapon at the fugitive as the latter stood almost directly over him.

"Mayor Mayfield, of Louisville, who had once turned Berry and Buckley loose and ordered them out of town, came to Omaha with Mr. Johnson.

"John Berry is confined in the same cell from which he escaped, but he is now kept locked in the steel cage and is not allowed the freedom of a corridor except under the eye of an armed guard.

"Buckley, highwayman, burglar and robber, was taken to prison at Lincoln Wednesday morning by Sheriff McDonald.

"Buckley starts serving his fifteen-year sentence a broken down, dissipated, stooped and helpless old man. Big tears rolled down his hard, seamed face when he was sentenced and he has sat in his cell since a spiritless, hopeless, pathetic figure of a man."

Humor and Philosophy

ON EASY PAYMENTS.

On monthly payment
He bought fine raiment,
Some books, a watch and chain,
A diamond cluster
From one old truster,
A scarfpin and a cane.

Then fine and dandy
As Christmas candy
He walked along the way,
But, oh, how humble
And low the tumble
On each collection day!

Around his lodging
Was artful dodging
The day a bill came due,
For in the basement
He sought effacement
And in the garret too.

But the collector,
A swell detector,
Would find him anyway,
And get no money,
But, sweet as honey,
Would say he'd call next day.

Still they kept coming,
For payments drumming,
Till he was old and gray,
His wages weekly
He coughed up meekly
Forever and a day.

Not Looking For Trouble.

"I think I know that man across the room."

"Who is he?"

"I forgot his name, but he looks like a fellow who used to be director in the Quittable Life."

"Why don't you ask him?"

"Think I want to get my face punched?"

Trade Expanders.

"I could be happy with you on a desert island."

"But what would we live on there?"

"Don't worry about that. If we were to start, the beef trust would beat us to it with a supply depot."

Through Thick and Thin.

You who whisper that you love me,
Pause a moment; tell me this:
Will you, think you, still dream of me,
Will you crave of me a kiss
When the years have added fatty
Tissue to my slender frame?
When I'm neither trim nor natty,
Will you love me just the same?

Will you still keep up your ardor
When I am of ample girth?
Won't your heart for me grow harder
When my footsteps shake the earth?
Do you think you'll love me duly
When I grow so large as that?
Tell me, darling; tell me truly,
Will you love me when I'm fat?

Natural Inference.

"He is a man you don't meet every day."

"Who is?"

"Deacon Miller, of course."

"Oh, I thought you were talking about somebody you had loaned $10."

Usual Damages.

"I hear that Boozeman fell off the water wagon."

"Break any bones?"

"No; just some resolutions."

Grandma—Isn't it time for the sand man?

Bobble—No, the sugar man.

A Model.

I have not used tobacco
Since January first.
All naughty words I have cut out,
And I have tamed my thirst,
And I have put behind me
Forever all these things,
So at your leisure come around
And watch me sprouting wings.
