Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of weight, general debility, sour stomach, indigestion, flatulence, etc., are all due to the action of the stomach. Kodol cures indigestion. It represents the natural action of the stomach as they exist in a healthy state, combined with the greatest strength and reconstructive properties. Kodol is a general tonic, and cures all stomach troubles by its purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach.

NEBRASKA HIGH SCHOOL DAY

The Annual Celebration Announced for Friday, May 11, at Lincoln.

The date of the exercises held every spring at the university by the high schools of this state, has been decided upon by the committee in charge of program. The day is known as Nebraska high school day, and will occur this year on May 11. A large attendance at the exercises is already assured, several schools in the state having already written to the authorities asking for particulars in regard to the meet and statement that they expect to be represented at it. The purpose of the day is to offer to officials and students of Nebraska high schools an opportunity to visit the university and inspect its equipment. In connection with the day the Nebraska Interscholastic association will hold its annual field meet in the afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Nebraska Interscholastic debate will also be held at this time, and the Schoolmaster's club will meet in the evening. Reduced rates have been granted on all railroads for all points within 100 miles of Lincoln.

The athletic contest is open to all high school students who come within the restrictions laid down by the Nebraska Interscholastic Athletic association. Information regarding these restrictions can be obtained from Principal F. M. Hunter of Fairmont. The events will be the same as in previous years, namely: The 100, 220 and 440 yard dashes; one-half mile and one mile runs; 120 and 220 yard hurdle races (hurdles three feet six inches and two feet six inches) respectively; running broad jump; pole vault; 12-pound shot put; 12-pound hammer throw, and one-half mile relay race, each team composed of four men, each man to run 220 yards.

At the business meeting of the executive committee, held last June, it was voted to give silver and bronze medals for the first and second places respectively in each event. Information regarding the events, rules, etc., can be obtained from Dr. R. G. Clapp, University of Lincoln.

The Time to Act.

Thus early the authorities in many cities have commenced the agitation for the abolishment of the noisy and dangerous fireworks on the Fourth of July. With the growth of inventive genius comes the growth of the fire-cracker and the dynamite cartridge. Not satisfied with the noise that the old-fashioned crackers made, modern people must have the cannon cracker that blows people's limbs off, smashes windows and wrecks brick buildings. The craze has reached such a stage that the people have been compelled in the interest of self preservation, to rule them out. The authorities in Plattsmouth should do the same thing. The time to move is now. Do not wait until the dealers are stocked up with these instruments of torture, and then issue an order that will cause them a loss. Act at once.

A Story with a Moral.

A man who had been making good wages in a machine shop resigned his position and set up a little shop of his own. On being asked if he was making as much money as did when working on a salary he replied that he was not, "but" he said "you may notice that there ain't no blamed whistle round here tellin' me when I must go to work and when I must quit."

Moral—There is a good deal of satisfaction in running your own business.

As Good as the Average Husband.

Not long since a young fellow of this city undertook to jolly an old maid when the following conversation took place, "Hello, aunty, why don't you get married?" "I'm just as good as married now." "How is that?" "Well, you see, I've a parrot and he does the swearing; I've a hog and he does the grunting; I've got a tom cat and he stays out all night. If that isn't as good as the average husband I'll quit."

Ball Playing Prohibited.

Ball playing on decoration day is unlawful in Nebraska according to the Hughes law enacted by the last legislature. The law provides that any persons who shall engage in horse racing, ball playing, or in any game of sport which may tend to disturb the public peace on May 30, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine not more than $100 or be imprisoned not more than 30 days, or both.

Like Old Times.

It seems like old times to see Tom Parmele at work in the bank and reminds one of the days when Buck Adams, Art Pribble and other base ball fans used to make their headquarters there. Tom has always been loyal to Louisville and would doubtless been living here today but for a gang of pikers who threw cold water on everything he undertook to do. Louisville lost much when she lost Tom Parmele.—Louisville Courier.

His Crops Threatened.

The Lincoln Journal, speaking of the duty of Hon. George L. Sheldon in the south says: "George L. Sheldon of Cass county who some time ago announced that he would be a candidate for governor before the republican state convention is still in Mississippi. His friends who have been expecting him to return home have received word that he has been delayed indefinitely. Mr. Sheldon has a plantation near the Mississippi river and the water has threatened to overflow the dykes and ruin his crop. This threatened danger has kept Mr. Sheldon in the south longer than he expected."

Escapes Safely From Ruins.

In a letter received Friday the glad tidings of the fortunate escape of Frank Thrall and family from the ruins of the stricken city of San Francisco, were conveyed to his uncle, Ed Thrall, of this city. For a number of years Frank Thrall has been the head salesman of Thomas, Day & Co., wholesale firm, which was located on Mission street, and is now a mass of ruins. Mr. Thrall's three-story residence was condemned by the authorities the day after the terrible earthquake, and he and his family were forced to go to the hills where they remained several days waiting for the fire to cease its work of destruction. On last Sunday they returned to the city and Mr. Thrall enlisted as a guard of the Mission Home and Relief Corps.

The inhabitants are not allowed to build any fires in the residences, and all cooking is being done on the street. Mr. Thrall says that the wholesale firm will rebuild as soon as sufficient debris can be removed for a site, although they still continue to have earthquake shocks there every day.

Another Young Couple Elope.

Among the list of marriage licenses issued at Council Bluffs Saturday afternoon, the following names appear: Victor E. Sherwood age 21, Alliance, Neb., and Anna Stull age 21, Plattsmouth, Neb. No doubt this explains the haste with which Vic was moving about the streets here Saturday morning, prior to his departure for Alliance, where he has secured a position of fireman on the Burlington railroad. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sherwood of this city, and has a host of friends who will congratulate him and wish the young couple the best there is of life. The bride, who has resided in this vicinity some time, and has been employed at the Perkins hotel, is a bright and intelligent young lady.

The young couple will be at home in Alliance in about two weeks. The Journal wishes them a happy and prosperous wedded life.

Miss Johnson Entertains.

The members of the "Five Hundred" club were most delightfully entertained Thursday night at the home of Miss Ruth Johnson. The evening was most pleasantly enjoyed in a spirited contest for first honors at progressive five hundred—Miss Ione Dovey securing the coveted prize. A delicious two course luncheon was served by the hostess and after having spent an enjoyable evening the participants meandered homeward. Those present were Misses Ellen Windham, Gladys Marshall, Emma Falter, Ida Peariman, Gladys Sullivan, Zetta Brown, Ione Dovey, Gretchen Donnelly, Helen Dovey, Frances Weidman and Margaret Maury.

The Ferry Road.

Thursday a Journal reporter conversed with several farmers from over the river who were here with produce, and among which were two loads of corn. They told us that they preferred to come to Plattsmouth to sell their farm products and buy their goods here, but that ere they came again the road leading from the ferry to the city must be placed in a better condition than it is at the present time. Our merchants seem to want the trade from over the river pretty bad, and they no doubt want it bad enough to expend a few dollars in repairing the same. Let us see how much we can raise by subscription in the city and then let a committee go before the county commissioners and ask them to appropriate an equal amount to that subscribed by the business men. With a good road from the ferry to town will more than pay for all the expense incurred in making the same in good condition by the trade of the farmers that come from the east side of the river. Now is the time to take some action in regard to the matter.

Peru Graduates in Demand.

A special from Peru has the following to say in regard to the demand for teachers from the Normal school: "President Crabtree announced that twenty-five out of the class of eighty-seven seniors have been elected to positions at this time. He said that never before had so large a percentage of the class been elected so early in the year, and that the demand for Peru teachers had never been so great."

THE FAMOUS DIVORCE CASE

A Decision That is Creating Considerable Commotion Among Divorced People.

The only copy of the famous decision of the United States supreme court bearing upon the question of the recognition of divorces in states other than the domicile of matrimony, and declaring the same illegal has been received in Omaha by United States District Attorney Charles A. Goss. Attorneys are keenly interested in it. Mr. Goss has been at some pains to formulate an abstract of the decision, which is:

"Case of Haddock against Haddock. The decision involved the clause of the federal constitution which says that 'full faith and credit shall be given in each state to the public acts, records and judicial proceedings of every other state.' The question arose in a divorce suit brought in 1899 by the wife, a resident of the state of New York and in the courts of New York, where personal service was had on the husband, who was a resident of Connecticut. The husband pleaded that he had in 1881 obtained in a court in Connecticut a divorce which was conclusive and was a bar against the suit of his wife. The object and result of the suit of the wife were to secure a separation and alimony. On the trial the New York court refused to receive in evidence the husband's divorce proceedings had in Connecticut and granted the wife's petition.

"It appears that the parties were married in New York in 1865, that the wife was then and remained a resident of New York; that after the marriage the parties never lived together, and that shortly thereafter the husband, without justifiable cause, abandoned the wife.

"The supreme court affirmed the decision of the New York courts in these words in part:

"Without questioning the power of the state of Connecticut to enforce within its own borders the decree of divorce which is here in issue and without intimating a doubt as to the power of the state of New York to give a decree of that character rendered in Connecticut, within the borders of the state of New York and as to its own citizens, such efficacy as it may be entitled to in view of the public policy of that state, we hold that the decree of the court of Connecticut rendered under the circumstances stated was not entitled to obligatory enforcement in the state of New York by virtue of the full faith and credit clause."

"The following propositions are fairly deducible from the arguments, the principles discussed and the cases referred to by the court:

"1. That no state is bound by the full faith and credit of the constitution of the United States to recognize a divorce granted in another state where constructive service (by publication), was obtained on the defendant who is a non-resident.

"2. That the divorce, however, secured by such constructive service is enforceable and valid in the state where secured.

"3. That, where the parties are domiciled in different states and the defendant is personally served within the jurisdiction of the suit or enters his appearance, the decree may be enforced in any state.

"4. That where both husband and wife are domiciled in the same state there exists jurisdiction in such state, for good cause, to enter a decree of divorce which will be entitled to enforcement in another state.

"5. That where the domicile of the husband is in a particular state and that state is also the domicile of matrimony, the courts of such state having jurisdiction over the husband may, in virtue of the duty of the wife to be at the matrimonial domicile, disregard an unjustifiable absence therefrom and treat the wife as having her domicile in the state of the matrimonial domicile for the purpose of the discussion of the marriage, and as a result have power to render a judgment dissolving the marriage which will be binding upon both parties and be entitled to recognition in all other states by virtue of the full faith and credit clause.

"6. That, also, where the domicile of matrimony was in a particular state and the husband abandons his wife and goes into another state in order to avoid his marital obligations, such other state to which the husband has wrongfully fled does not, in the nature of things, become a new domicile of the wife; hence, the place where the wife was domiciled when so abandoned constitutes her legal domicile until a new actual domicile by her elsewhere acquired.

"7. That an analysis of the cases in all the states of the union conclusively demonstrates that, where decrees of divorce are obtained with jurisdiction of plaintiff alone, they are not entitled or allowed to be enforced in another state by virtue of the full faith and credit clause of the federal constitution, but that such exparte decrees of divorce are given such limited recognition as they receive by state comity instead."

Get SCOTT'S Emulsion

When you go to a drug store and ask for Scott's Emulsion you know what you want; the man knows you ought to have it. Don't be surprised, though, if you are offered something else. Wines, cordials, extracts, etc., of cod liver oil are plentiful but don't imagine you are getting cod liver oil when you take them. Every year for thirty years we've been increasing the sales of Scott's Emulsion. Why? Because it has always been better than any substitute for it.

Decoration Day May 30.

Decoration day is but a few weeks off, and as yet no arrangements have been made for exercises on that memorable date. Let the members of the G. A. R. at the next regular meeting arrange their committees and among the committees let there be one for the purpose of soliciting aid in making this year's decoration one that will be of interest to the living and one that will go down in history as one of the greatest tributes ever paid to those noble heroes who sleep in Oak Hill cemetery. In other towns and cities the farmers for miles tributary are induced by interesting proceedings to lay aside their work for this day and bring their families with them to assist in the decoration day services. Let us try this plan this year. Solicit the merchants to give what they feel like donating, hold the exercises at the park and having two or three fine orations, plenty of vocal music; have a good band that will furnish music all day long; invite the farmers to bring their dinners to the park and let the afternoon be spent socially after the exercises have been completed. This is the manner in which the memory of the fallen heroes are revered in other towns, and why not in Plattsmouth?

Stomach Troubles.

Mrs. Sue Martin, an old and highly respected resident of Faison, Miss., was sick with stomach trouble for more than six months. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets cured her. She says: "I can now eat anything I want and am the proudest woman in the world to find such a good medicine." For sale by F. G. Fricke & Co., and A. T. Fried.
