Monday night Nebraska City News tells of a woman who lives about three hundred yards west of the bridge on the K. C. track, three and one-half miles east of Nebraska City Junction. Sunday morning discovering the bridge to be on fire. Knowing that the K. C. "flyer" was nearly due, she took a red shawl and went down the track quite a distance and signaled to the engineer. The train was stopped a short distance from the bridge. The engineer knew that something was wrong so he reversed his engine and applied the air brake, but did not do so any too soon. The bridge was on fire near the centre and was burning briskly-in fact in a few minutes more it would have been entirely destroyed.

The M. W. A. is the society, it is the one that is coming to the front. It is the leading fraternal beneficiary society today. It has a membership of 777,000 in good standing, and still growing at the rate of 15,000 per month. This is good evidence of its great strength. We only had to collect nine assessments in the year 1905 to pay all death claims, and the prospects are good for only eight for 1906. We missed two assessments in the first five months already this year. That is a splendid record indeed. We are writing the young men. Why not write them? for we have the best proposition to offer a man from 18 to 25rate 50 cents per $1,000, at an average of nine assessments per year. And you can figure for yourself and see that it costs but very little to carry $1,000 insurance in the M. W. A.: a man can't afford to be without the protection for the small amount it costs.
