Good Position for J. D. McBride.

The many friends of ex-Sheriff J. D. McBride will be pleased to learn that that gentleman has accepted a very lucrative position with Kilpatrick Bros. & Collins, the big railroad contractor of Omaha. While they will regret over Mack's good fortune at all times, they will no doubt regret also that his duties will take him away from home quite a distance in the start. Kilpatrick Bros. & Collins are at present engaged in constructing a new branch road in Wyoming for the U. P. and Mr. McBride's headquarters for the present will be at Thayer, Wyoming, where he will have charge of a large number of men and teams engaged in railroad construction. Mr. McBride will depart tomorrow morning for Omaha, and thence to Thayer tomorrow night. The Journal wishes Mack prosperity and good health in his new field of labor.

While assisting in the carpenter work on Robt James new residence southwest of here last week C. W. McKean suffered severe injuries by a fall of several feet. He was brought home, and while his injuries are not of a dangerous nature he is badly bruised and will suffer from the effects of the fall for a long time.

John P. Todd decided some time ago to engage in business in Lincoln, and has formed a partnership with a Mr. DeLong. They will handle a large line of automobiles, and in addition will operate repair shops on a large scale. Mr. Todd has a "good eye for business" and we are confident he will make it win in the Capital City. He says when Union people visit Lincoln they will find a yard of latch-string hanging out of the office door.

UNFORTUNATE FINN LOSES LEFT ARM

Stranger Attempted to Board a Through Train and Landed Under Wheels.

LOST HIS MONEY IN 'FRISCO DISASTER

"America Good, No Work Now," Says Victim of Last Night's Accident.

The night force at the Burlington depot were started last night about 10 o'clock by a stranger walking up from the south part of the yards, carrying a mangled right hand and the stump of the left arm and bearing several scalp wounds, all of which were bleeding profusely.

After recovering from the shock the men at the depot immediately "pressed" into service the cab that was waiting for the 10:18 train, and had the injured man conveyed to the company's offices, where Drs. J. S. Livingston and J. B. Martin took charge of him, dressed his wounds and then had him conveyed to the Perkins hotel, where he spent a very restless night, suffering considerable agony. It was found necessary to amputate the left arm above the elbow, and the operation was performed this morning by Dr. J. B. Martin.

The man, John Rukonen, who is about thirty-two years old and a stranger in this city, came from Finland, a province of Russia, to this country about three years ago, and is a member of the Amalgamated Wood Workers' Union No. 7 of Chicago, for which place he was headed for from San Francisco, where he lost all his money and personal effects in the disastrous earthquake that recently visited that city. It is with difficulty that he can converse in English, but while talking to him he managed to say "America good country, but no work now" as he glanced upon the stump of the missing arm.

He was observed by the crew of the switch engine a short time before the accident occurred, and he had by the aid of signs and the few words of English he possessed, told them that he wished to get across the river. He then went on up the track toward the big cut, where it is presumed that he attempted to get aboard the through meat train to Chicago, that passed through this city last night about half past nine o'clock, and on account of the slippery condition of the road bed, he slipped and fell under the wheels, throwing the left arm and two fingers of the right hand under, and striking the wheels with his head, thus receiving his injuries.

Fine Peaches.

J. W. Thomas, living south of town, brought to this office this morning a twig, containing peaches which had not yet fully matured. Mr. Thomas says the tree from which these were gathered was planted four years ago and he says not only this tree but others set out at the same time are loaded down with this fruit, which is of excellent quality. Mr. Thomas says also, there will be plenty of peaches in sections, and that he will be able to sell late peaches for 50 or 60 cents per bushel.

Taylor-Warren Nuptials.

A pretty home wedding occurred last night at the home of Mrs. Mary Warren, west of town, when her daughter, Miss Edna May, was united in marriage with Elmer A. Taylor at eight o'clock, in the presence of a large gathering of friends and relatives of the contracting parties. The ceremony was preceded by a sweet solo, "I Love you truly," sang by Mrs. E. H. Wescott, then the strains of the wedding march played by Master Elmer Youtzy began, and the bride accompanied by her sister, Miss Margaret, and the groom by his brother, Ivan Taylor, advanced to the appointed place, where the two were united by Rev. D. A. Youtzy—the ring service being used. After the congratulations the gathering adjourned to the dining room, where the wedding dinner was served. Appropriate selections by Prof. Beck, were rendered later in the evening. The young man, who is capable and industrious, has been reared to manhood in this community, and has a host of friends who will join in wishing him the best returns in life and congratulate him in securing such an accomplished young lady for his wife.

Sarpy County's Kick.

The Papillion Times registers the following kick in behalf of the commissioners of Sarpy county: "The Cass county commissioners passed a long-winded resolution at one of their sessions last week, in which they decided to repair the Louisville bridge across the Platte river and not wait longer for Sarpy county to assist in the work. In fact, Sarpy county has refused to have any share in the work and Cass will have the pleasure of doing the work and of later on suing Sarpy county for its proportionate share of the expense thus incurred. The head lines of the Louisville Courier read in part as follows: 'Cass county commissioners have resolved to go it alone and will put bridge in repair for public travel at once—Measly little Sarpy must pay later.' If measly little Sarpy must pay later, it will be compelled to do something unjust. Sarpy county does not derive one cent of benefit from this bridge, which was built in the first instance at the behest of the merchants of Louisville in order to secure the trade of a few Sarpy county farmers and which, contrary to the promises of the instigators of the structure, was not kept up by Louisville as was promised, but which was pawned off onto Sarpy county after being built by the fellows who were benefited by it because the law left a loop-hole which was large enough for some very small fellows to crawl through. Sarpy county may be compelled to pay for its share of the bridge, but it will not do so without a strong protest."

Learns That His Old Friend Lives.

F. B. Kiersey of Elmwood was in town today on business, and while here he was happily surprised to learn that his old friend, J. C. Gilmour, whom he thought was dead, is still living and in South Omaha. Mr. Kiersey crossed the plains in 1897 with his old friend and has not seen him since 1885 when he stopped off here for a visit, while passing through and now he longs to clasp the hand of his old friend, who moved to South Omaha some time ago, and thus was lost track of during the past twenty years.

J. C. Watson's Disbarment.

This morning Judge Jensen asked Judge Good of Wahoo to sit with him on the bench to hear the arguments of the demurrer to part of the charges filed against Attorney John C. Watson, to disbar him from the practice of law before this court. Mr. Watson was represented by Matthew Gering of Plattsmouth and E. F. Warren of this city, while the complainant attorneys, D. W. Livingston, William Hayward and W. H. Pitzer were present looking after their side of the case. The statement of Mr. Warren was heard before noon and the court took a recess until this afternoon when the other side of the case will be heard and argued.

This afternoon Judges Jensen and Good announced that the demurrer was overruled, and the case was set for hearing on July 16th. It will be heard before Judges Good, Kelligar and Jensen.—Nebraska City News.

LAW ON KILLING BIRDS

Unlawful Also to Destroy Nests and Eggs, or Carry Them Away.

Last evening a Journal reporter noticed some boys in the west part of the city killing birds with nigger-shooters, and a few evenings previous we saw some other parties about the size of young men who were engaged in doing the same unlawful act with a target gun. The larger boys are old enough to know better. In the case of the smaller boys it might be well for parents who have children who are inclined to go forth seeking what birds they may destroy, to note and keep in mind the following sections of the law governing the wanton destruction of birds, which reads: It shall be unlawful for any person in the state of Nebraska to kill, injure or harm any robin, lark, thrush, bluebird, kingbird, wren, jay, swallow, oriole, woodpecker, yellowhammer, cuckoo, yellowbird, bobolink, or other bird or birds of like nature that promote agriculture or horticulture by feeding on noxious worms and insects, or that are attractive in appearance or cheerful in song. Provided, that hawks and owls may be killed on one's own premises. It shall be unlawful for any person to destroy nests or carry away the eggs or young of any of the birds described in this section. Provided, that schools, colleges and universities may, when authorized so to do by the game commissioner, take or kill for educational or scientific purposes, not to exceed twenty-five (25) in number of any one species or kind of birds protected by this section. Any person violating any of the provisions of this section shall be fined five dollars ($5) for each bird killed, injured or harmed, and a like sum for each nest taken or destroyed.

MURDER IN FIRST DEGREE

Mrs. LeDoux Found Guilty of Killing McVicar Who Was a Nephew of A. N. Sullivan of This City.

Judge A. N. Sullivan returned last Saturday night from Stockton, Calif., where he has been for several weeks, attending the trial of Mrs. Emma LeDoux, for killing on the 13th of March, her husband, A. N. McVicar, who was a nephew of Judge Sullivan. In speaking of the case the judge says: "The prosecuting attorney was an exceedingly able man, and had thoroughly investigated the circumstances surrounding the murder, in this way becoming familiar with all details, and thus acquiring a complete chain of evidence, every link of which, was without a flaw. Many witnesses were presented by the prosecuting attorney, and after the arguments of both of the counsel had been submitted I left for home, firmly convinced that the woman was guilty." The following special from Stockton, under date of yesterday says: "Mrs. Emma LeDoux, who has been on trial for killing her husband, A. N. McVicar, on March 13 last by giving him poison and then placing his body in a trunk to take the remains out of the city, was last night found guilty of murder in the first degree, the penalty for which is death."
