TO DEFINE "IN JEOPARDY"

Supreme Court Asked to State Exactly Where It Begins in Cases.

How far may a criminal trial progress before the accused person is placed "in jeopardy," which under the constitution of the United States can be done only once for the same offense? Does the prosecution have the right to supplement its case after evidence has been heard and a motion by the defense for a directed verdict overruled, by rectifying an error in the complaint and starting the proceedings anew in proper legal form?

These questions are presented to the supreme court of Nebraska in a case brought up on error from Otoe county, says the Lincoln News, the defendant being Herman Steinkuhler, who was fined $100 and costs last September for having in his possession without a license alcoholic liquors kept on hand to be sold. Steinkuhler lives at Burr, a small village of that county, where the offense occurred. His trial was started and proceeded to the point where a plea of not guilty had been entered, a jury empanelled, testimony for the state introduced and a motion for dismissal denied. The prosecution then secured permission to amend its bill of particulars, after which it objected to one of the jurors sitting in the trial and by that means obtained a continuance, the entire jury being discharged. Subsequently, the case was tried again and Steinkuhler was convicted.

In their undertaking before the supreme court, lawyers for the defendant contend that the constitutional rights of their client were violated by placing him on trial twice for the same offense. They argue that the first hearing was so far as the state purposes complete so far as the state was concerned, and that Steinkuhler was entitled to the benefit of and mistake that the state may have made in its conduct of the case. The action of the trial judge in allowing a revision of the complaint and granting a continuance is alleged to have been wrongful under the constitution and statutes.

In the view of the attorney general's office, which has just offered its answering brief to the supreme court, this position is not well grounded. The brief points out that the sufficiency of the complaint was objected to by the defense, and that the county attorney, by asking leave to amend, confessed it to be inadequate. This being the case, it is maintained that the defendant was at no time placed in actual jeopardy. The argument is advanced that to show former jeopardy it must appear that the accused was put upon trial before a court having jurisdiction on an information sufficient in form and substance to secure conviction.

Some further objection has been made by Steinkuhler's counsel to paragraphs in the trial court's instructions to the jury, one of which left it an open question to be determined whether hop ale, nerve tonic and similar compounds were intoxicating beverages. The attorney general's brief defends this paragraph by showing that does not amount to a positive instruction from any standpoint.

Walt Mason in Town.
The irrepressible Walt Mason, known to perhaps every newspaper man in Nebraska, is in the city today, in the interests of his publication at Beatrice. Mr. Mason is an old-timer in the newspaper business, and one of the finest descriptive writers in the west, and if he succeeds in his mission here, Plattsmouth people will soon have the pleasure of reading an article from his pen portraying the many good things about Plattsmouth and her people. Mr. Mason is now engaged in publication in magazine form, at Beatrice, but for several years was one of the principal writers on the State Journal at Lincoln. Of course he was a caller at these headquarters.

Gets Fined to the Limit.
One of the web feet from across the river accumulated a good-sized "snootful" last night and proceeded to celebrate. As a result one C. W. Perkins was arraigned before Judge Archer this morning on a charge of being drunk, and conducting himself in a vicious and offensive manner. He pleaded guilty and was taxed to the limit, $100 and costs, and in default of which he was remanded to the county jail to work out his fine, amounting in all to $104, upon the streets.

THE WORKMEN FARE WELL

The Lodge Get All They Wanted From the Supreme Court.

A Grand Island, Neb., correspondent says: "Silas R. Barton, grand recorder of the Ancient Order United Workmen, has returned from Montreal, Canada, where the session of the supreme lodge, Ancient Order United Workmen, has been held. Mr. Barton states that Nebraska's delegation secured about all that it asked for and, in common with other jurisdictions similarly situated, wanted."

"The supreme lodge was one of the most favorable ever held for years," says Mr. Barton. The Nebraska jurisdiction has absolutely refused to pay under the law the guarantee fund asked for by the supreme lodge for the reason that the amount requested was, in the judgment of this jurisdiction, the same as bankruptcy; and consequently the Nebraska jurisdiction refused to pay the assessment. Through the strength of the delegation from Nebraska and other jurisdictions, the supreme lodge was amended in such a manner that from and after July 1 the guarantee fund will be done away with and each jurisdiction make its own rates raise and invest its own reserve fund and in fact has everything that the Nebraska jurisdiction has striven for, the right of self-government.

"M. E. Schultz of Beatrice was chosen as inside watch by that body and S. R. Barton was named as a member of the finance committee. During the session Nebraska members held very important places on the committees. Jacob Jaskalek, of South Omaha, was placed on the committee of "good of the order," M. E. Schultz on the committee of "merger" and S. R. Barton on the committee on "condition of the order" which committee had to do with the vital question relative to the guarantee fund and to the preservation of the high rate jurisdictions. O. J. Van Dyke was on the advisory committee of the degree of honor. Will M. Narvis was re-elected supreme master workmen. The Supreme Lodge Bulletin, published at Sioux Falls, and a source of much expense to the organization, was discontinued and all communications from supreme lodge will be sent to the local organs of the various jurisdictions. Several committees of less importance were cut off. An attempt was made to reduce the representation, but it failed."

Struck By Lightning.
The Louisville Courier gives the following particulars of a barn that was struck by lightning during the storm last Thursday: "During the electrical storm Thursday afternoon C. G. Mayfield's barn was struck by lightning while he and his two sons and hired man were in the barn. They had just finished unloading hay and the storm came up before they could get their teams out of the drive way and into the basement. The bolt struck directly above them on the roof, divided and went down each side tearing up the shingles and splitting the rafters from top to bottom. Fire was started in two different places, and it was only by their being right in the barn and acting quickly that it was saved."—Louisville Courier.

The editor of an exchange with a head full of "queer thoughts," prints the following: "If we were to announce that you could get this paper thirty days for three beers, every descendant of Adam would know that meant 15 cents, but if we were to say that it could be sent three months for the price of a hymn book, half of them would not know whether we had raised the subscription rate or were giving the paper away."

WASHOUT NEAR LOUISVILLE

Burlington Pay Car Went into a Ditch and Causes Delay of Several Hours.

VERY HEAVY RAIN IN THAT SECTION

Paymaster Beans and Roadmaster Ibsen Were Slightly Injured.

A phone message was received at the Journal office just before we had gone to press Thursday afternoon stating that a serious wreck had occurred near Louisville, in which the pay car, which had left this city about 2 o'clock, had been wrecked near Louisville. A reporter immediately proceeded to the Burlington depot in an effort to gain some information regarding the accident, but no one seemed to know anything about it. A reporter might just as well hunt for a needle in a hay stack as to try to get any particulars of railroad accidents from one of the employees. They are adverse to giving particulars about such things, through compulsion, or otherwise.

The accident occurred, however, about one mile west of Louisville, and at about the hour of 3:15 p. m. The particulars of which, as near as we can glean them, are about as follows: A bridge over a small stream was washed out by the heavy rain of a short time previous, and the engineer did not see it until it was too late to stop his train. The underpinning of the bridge was entirely swept away, leaving the rails suspended in midair. Unable to avert an accident, the engineer threw on a full head of steam and the engine and pay car cleared the bridge without leaving the track, although the track sagged at least four feet. After landing safely on the opposite side the tender left the rails and went into the ditch.

Paymaster Beans received a severe scalp wound and was cut about the face in several places. Roadmaster Ibsen was perhaps the most seriously injured, receiving a badly sprained back. A wrecking crew was soon on the grounds and had everything in shape for the passing of trains. It is very fortunate that the accident resulted no worse.

Saved His Comrade's Life.

"While returning from the Grand Army Encampment at Washington City, a comrade from Elgin, Ill., was taken with cholera morbus and was in a critical condition," says Mr. J. E. Hoagland, of Eldon, Iowa. "I gave him Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and believe saved his life. I have been engaged for ten years in immigration work and conducted many parties to the southwest. I always carry this remedy and have used it successfully on many occasions." Sold by F. G. Fricke & Co. and A. T. Fried.

Disappointment to Many.

The Lincoln Star of Friday, in speaking of the wreck near Louisville Thursday says:

"There were many disappointed workmen in Lincoln, last night, when they learned that the Burlington pay car had gone into the ditch near Louisville. One family was obliged to postpone a long-planned vacation trip because the head of the house, who is a railroad man, could not get his pay to defray the expenses of the journey."

"Paymaster Beans was injured when the car rolled from the track. Roadmaster Ibsen was also put to the bad, though neither man is said to be seriously affected. The roadmaster is just recovering from an accident he sustained in the Omaha yards some weeks ago when he stepped sidewise on a rail and wrenched his ankle. Mr. Beans received a cut on the head, which physicians found easy to dress. The feature of the wreck was the gallant search for medical aid conducted by the section men, and the brilliant dash to the rescue on a hand car. The physician reached the scene of the catastrophe before it was too late to tie bandages on the sufferers and then the wrecking outfit arrived. "The car was somewhat damaged by the accident, though by no means beyond repair. Both paymaster and roadmaster will find themselves able to resume their regular duties almost immediately."

Nebraska Land Frauds.

A new feature was recently developed in the Nebraska land fraud cases. In addition to the charges hitherto developed in a number of cases the allegation of forgery is now made. The first of the prosecutions under the new charge is that of J. H. Edmisten of Lincoln, the well known politician and oil inspector under Governor Holcomb. A true bill growing out of the charge of fraudulent signatures signed to homestead affidavits was returned against him.

Give Up Their Jobs.

The Nebraska City Press gives the following, which shows the results of reading "Nick Carter" novels. It will be well for some of the young men of this vicinity, who do nothing but sit around under the shade of the trees reading this "high class literature" to profit thereby:

"Not long since two young Nebraska City men made application to a Detective Agency for a commission authorizing them to 'detect' criminals. The fact was circulated quite freely and Wednesday evening a joke was 'framed up' on the alleged 'detectives.' A traveling man assumed the roll of a Pinkerton detective and the two followers of Sherlock Holmes were led by the 'Pinkerton' to an unfrequented spot and a shot fired into the air. Eyewitnesses assert that the way one of the 'King Brades' hit the pike would have done credit to an ostrich race at a county fair. It is said that the gentlemen with the 'Nick Carter' aspirations have withdrawn from active service and severed their connection with the detective bureau."

HOW ABOUT DOLLAR WHEAT?

As Trusts are the Order of the Republican Party, Let Wheat Raisers Also Get the Benefit.

There no doubt is a movement on foot among the wheat producing counties in many of the states to form a trust to protect themselves, and they will strive to make dollar wheat by operating through the assistance of the American Society of Equity of Indianapolis, Ind. The society has a list of 120 counties in the winter wheat states and many Nebraska counties are included in the list, and Cass county is one of them. These 120 counties produce nearly one-half of the winter wheat and if the farmers in there will refuse to market or will market slowly after harvest, the price will surely be forced to $1 at Chicago. The society have set the 1906 crop at $1, if it is a large one, and if material damage occurs to spring wheat the price will be set higher and notice given to the farmers. The American Society of Equity at Indianapolis is now becoming national in its scope and is constantly at work on a plan to unite the tillers of the soil in one huge and powerful organization to not only control the market supply and demand but also to dictate the prices that shall be paid on the markets for farm products—wheat, corn, barley, rye, cotton, etc.—as well as cattle and hogs. This organization is nothing more or less than the outcome of trusts, which have extorted from the producers and the consumers to the limit and now the farmers are going to try their hand in the way of a counter trust organization for their own exclusive benefit as well as protection. Can you blame them?

Did You Ever Think?

Did you ever stop to think that our city is a city that enjoys many natural and acquired resources—a city that needs but the skillful manipulation of man to make them yield bountifully of their rich treasures—a substantial city whose foundations are laid upon a soil that cannot be surpassed for productiveness—a city supplied with the very best and purest of water—a city whose educational advantages have reached a standard through the skillful direction of competent officials second to that of no other place of its size anywhere—a city where harmony among the communicants of the different churches is in perfect accord with the object sought by our forefathers of the "Mayflower" and all doctrines are ably expounded with untrammelled freedom from the pulpits of our different churches—a city whose social advantages are equal to those afforded by places many times its size and age—a city where the rich enjoy every luxury desired, and the poor are not allowed to suffer—a city where peace and good will toward all men is exemplified?

Young Case of Dropsy.

On Tuesday Dr. Jester was called to the home of O. O. Parker, living south of town, to see his little eight-year-old son who has been suffering with dropsy since last February. When the doctor arrived there the child's abdomen was so distended that it measured 42 inches and it was thought best to "tap" him. Dr. Jester performed the operation assisted by Dr. H. E. Moore, druggist of Palmyra. About two gallons of water were secured at the time of the operation and his parents say fully as much more has been drained out since. The child is improving but his condition is dangerous, and the results are uncertain. He has just returned from Denver where he was taken about four weeks ago for treatment.—Eagle Beacon.

In taking their departure Monday, Mr. and Mrs. Longhorst and Mr. and Mrs. Stark were accompanied on their return home to Elmwood by Mr. and Mrs. Rosencrans as far as Orepolis. Of course Mrs. Rosencrans being with them there was no danger of the party being put on the wrong train.
