WIND-JAMMER BURKETT and "Easy Money" Pollard addressed a fair-sized audience at the Parme theatre last night, which was attracted to the place of speaking by several selections from the City Band. Of course Burkett was "the star of the evening" to draw the people, but this is one time where the "drawing card" failed in its purpose. There were a few democrats present, and enthusiasm was conspicuous by its absence, which Burkett was brought here to revive. If anything, Congressman Pollard made a better speech than Senator Burkett, but neither one could create any of the old-time enthusiasm that once characterized the coming of Burkett to this city. As usual, the latter confined his remarks principally to abusing democrats.

POLLARD, PUT IT BACK!

VOTE for L. F. Langnorst for representative, and you can bet on voting for a gentleman that is going to be elected next Tuesday. He is a good man for the position and will represent Cass county in the legislature in a most creditable manner.

PUT IT BACK, POLLARD!

GEORGE W. SNYDER is winning golden opinions wherever he goes, and the general opinion seems to be that he will be elected county commissioner next Tuesday. Mr. Snyder is comparatively a stranger in some sections of the county, and his visits to these sections have been attended with excellent success. Everybody finds him just as he appears every day in the year—a gentleman in every particular. A vote for George Snyder means a vote for one of the very best men in Cass county for the position.

POLLARD, PUT IT BACK!

WHEN the voters go to the polls next Tuesday they should make up their minds before leaving homes to cast their ballots for that sterling gentleman and citizen, James Stander, for state senator. He is a man of honor, and would suffer his right arm severed from his shoulder rather than do a dishonest act in serving the people of the county in which he was reared to manhood, in the state senate. If you want such a gentleman to represent you, you cannot help but vote for James Stander, who is also abundantly well qualified to perform the duties of the position as they should be performed.

Quite a Different Thing.

The News informs its readers that Farley has in his possession certified copies of petitions filed in the district court of Lancaster county in the case of Smith vs. Doyle, that Farley will be glad to show. Farley knows as well as we do that a petition in court amounts to nothing so far as the rights of the parties to the suit are concerned. The verdict and judgment is what counts. Anyone may file a petition, but to prove what is alleged therein is quite a different thing. The News publishes nothing about the termination of the case. If Farley was disposed to act half-way honestly he would be glad, also, to exhibit certified copies of the verdict and the judgment rendered in the case in favor of Mr. Doyle. But Farley does not want to be fair, if unscrupulous methods better insure his success in his contention to be postmaster. He is not working for Pollard as wishful as he is for Farley. He not only endeavors to smirch the character of our next congressman, Mr. Doyle, but libels Judge Holmes, who presided at the trial of the case.

When you see, or even hear, of any one ardently supporting Pollard by trying to defame the name and reputation of men like Judge Holmes and Mr. Doyle, mark it down that they have some of the tainted $1,900, or have the promise of some office or position. Do not be deceived by these parasites, but go to the polls next Tuesday and vote for a gentleman for congressman, whose neighbors testify to his honesty, integrity and ability. His name is T. J. Doyle, and he will acquit himself as member of congress from the First district with credit to himself and honor to the constituency he represents.

THE voters of Cass county will have an opportunity next Tuesday to vote for a genuine farmer, who has never before offered himself for any position in the gift of voters of Cass county. His name is Frank M. Massie, and he hails from Mt. Pleasant precinct. He was reared upon the farm, and his interests have always been identified with the farmers. His qualifications for the position of representative are equal to those possessed by any farmer in the county, and his fellow-yeomenry can rest assured that if he is elected, there will be one representative in the next legislature who will be found at all times defending their rights on the floor of that body.

LOOK AT THIS FACE.

It is clear-cut—just like the man who owns the face. It is free from blemishes—just like the life record of the man who owns the face.

It shows courage in every line—just as the man who owns the face has shown courage in dealing with public questions.

It is the face of Ashton C. Shallenberger, the man who tells the people that if they shall elect him to the office of governor he will sign a bill for two-cent passenger fares—who will enforce the Nebraska maximum freight rate law—who will sign a bill to restore to the precincts the right to elect their own assessors.

POLLARD, PUT IT BACK!

With Soft Gloves.

Sheldon is fighting the railroads with soft gloves.

Shallenberger is hitting the railroads with bare knuckles.

Sheldon says it would be an injustice to compel the branch railroad lines in Nebraska to carry passengers for two cents per mile.

Shallenberger says that two cents per mile is enough to pay on any road in Nebraska.

Sheldon says he is in favor of "reasonable" freight rates.

Shallenberger says he is in favor of enforcing the present maximum freight rate law.

Sheldon says he is in favor of "equitable" assessment of railroad property, whatever that may be.

Shallenberger says that he is in favor of assessing railroad property just like cows, horses and pigs—that is to say at actual value.

It will be noticed that Sheldon never leaves a mark when he talks against railroad attorneys.

It will also be noticed that Shallenberger draws blood every time he strikes the railroad Goliath.

There can be no hope for relief from railroad rule if we shall elect a governor who always handles this railroad question with soft gloves. We need in that office a man who strikes straight out from the shoulder. That man is Shallenberger. He tells the people what he will do to put the railroad machine out of business, and he means every word of it.

Is This a Sample?

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 21, 1906. To the Editor of the State Journal: You say this morning, editorially, that Congressman Pollard has been "a firm adherent of the square deal policy." Do you mean to tell your readers that it is "a square deal" for a map to draw from the public treasury, under the guise of congressman's salary, $1,900 for services he did not render and covering 136 days before he had even been elected?

Are we to understand that this is the kind of "a square deal" the people of Nebraska may expect from the State Journal's reformed political school in the event of the election of George L. Sheldon and Norris Brown?

For more than a year you have been preaching purity in public office and insisting that Nebraskans must fix a critical eye upon their public servants. Yet in the same editorial column in which you call upon your readers to vote for Sheldon and Brown for the sake of "good government" you seek to justify the Pollard salary grab and undertake to pose the congressman who took money to which he was not entitled as "a firm adherent of the square deal policy!"

Do you not underestimate the intelligence of your readers? RICHARD L. METCALFE.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Otto, Monday, Oct. 29, a boy, of which they are very proud.

Ross Dennis, thinking he was going to have something to shoot one day last week, loaded his revolver and when he had closed it, it accidentally went off, shooting him in the left hand. Consequently he is not driving nails this week.

Frank Cappen had the misfortune to smash one of his fingers. He was breaking rock at the quarry when the wedge he was using slipped, letting the sledge strike the second finger on his left hand, breaking the bone and tearing the flesh in bad shape.

Dan Rockwell and Abe Branson got into a dispute over some business matters on the farm Monday, and the latter used a little physical force in lieu of argument. The result was a warrant for the arrest of Branson. He came in and pleaded guilty before Judge Barnes and paid a small fine. Later Mr. Rockwell concluded to push the case and another trial will follow.

The home of John Colbert narrowly escaped destruction by fire last Friday night. A lighted lamp setting near an open window had the chimney knocked off by the curtains blowing against it, setting them afire, and the heat soon became strong enough exploded the lamp. Mr. Colbert, smelling the smoke, went to investigate, and it was only by his timely arrival and prompt action that the house was saved.

Trains do not leave Sheriff Quinton, as was demonstrated at the depot Monday morning. Carroll was talking to a friend when the Omaha train pulled out, and swinging onto the rear of the last coach he found the vestibule door closed, but instead of dropping off he hung on, and the last seen of him was his coat tails flapping in the wind as they rounded the curve at the coal chutes. We dare say he got pretty tired before reaching Manly.
