■ Young Folks

What are you going to give the young folks for Xmas? You probably haven't given the matter much thought yet. Xou will possibly put it off until the last minute and then make some foolish selection. Why not give a present that will retain its value, that will give unlimited pleasure and help to establish the habits of thrift-necessary to future financial success? Let us make a suggestion. Take the money you intend to spend for a present and deposit it in this bank to the credit of the young person and hang the bank book on the Xmas tree.

Your present will represent actual value; it will give perpetual pleasure; it will encourage business ideas and assist in future presperity.
