BEFORE GOING TO TEXAS

A Large Number of Neighbors and Friends Assemble as a Farewell Party.

Rev. Jung, for 12 years pastor of the church three and one half miles south of Louisville, through the help of his congregation has erected one of the finest brick church edifices in Cass county, and also improved the parsonage from a desert to a beautiful living place. Mr. Jung expects to make his future home in Taylor, Texas, where he has accepted a position.

In recognition of his past services to the church, and as a demonstration of the high esteem in which he is held by his congregation, neighbors and friends, a crowd, estimated at 300 people congregated at his home a few days ago to show their regret at his departure.

A regular program had previously been prepared for the event, which consisted of music, both vocal and instrumental, after which Rev. Baumgartner delivered in a most feeling manner a farewell address, in which he wished Mr. Jung good luck in his new home and extended God's blessing and help on the long journey for the family and in their new home. The flowing tears were evidence of how dearly beloved their pastor was and is yet to them. A collection was taken up and $16 presented to Mr. and Mrs. Jung.

Refreshments were greatly in evidence, also. Two tables were spread, seating fifty persons at a time, and one who was present, says the tables fairly groaned their weight of good things, such as only the good old German housewives can prepare. Such an abundance is hard to describe, as after all had partaken to their heart's content, there seemed to be enough left for another 300.

The day was enjoyed in various pleasures as suited the older ones present, while the children were made happy in their own way of enjoyment. Everybody had a kind word for Rev. Jung and his family, and when the parting hour arrived it was an other scene of tears when they were taking an affectionate farewell.

Among the guests present not belonging to the congregation, but who regard Rev. Jung in the highest esteem, were the Diers family, Tange-mann and wife, Miss Kentner, Geo. Wood and wife, Tom Keckler and wife, Sally Keckler and wife, Conrad Baum-gartner and family and Walter Tange-man and sister.

Direct From Fatherland.

The fast mail brought to Plattsmouth today Misses Mary Tews, Johana Tews and Clara Ebl of Cammin, Germany, with the intention of making this their home. They are young ladies of about twenty summers and as many hard winters. The two Misses Tews are sisters of George Tews, who works in the Burlington shops. George was expecting his sisters to come in September, but in a spirit of fun kept him in the dark, and came alone and completely surprised their brother.

CUPID AGAIN IN EVIDENCE

Ralph K. Towle of South Omaha and Miss Alice Sullivan of Plattsmouth United in Marriage.

AT THE HOME OF THE BRIDE'S PARENTS

The Bride a Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Sullivan, Pioneer Citizens of City of Plattsmouth

As the clock was chiming the hour of eight last evening, in the presence of a happy throng of friends and relatives, and listening to the beautiful strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march rendered by Miss Verna Cole who presided at the piano, in the brilliantly lighted and superbly decorated parlors of the home of Judge and Mrs. A. N. Sullivan, their daughter, Alice Lucile and Ralph Karl Towle, as the contracting parties, followed by Robert Creassey as best man and Miss Gladys Sullivan as bridesmaid, marched in and taking their position under a beautiful wedding bell made of jassamine, were married, using the ring service and the beautiful and impressive ceremony by Rev. Salsbury. Many were the hearty congratulations and well wishes of the friends and relatives congregated to witness this auspicious event. A large number of beautiful presents were in evidence as tokens of the love and friendship, for the bride and groom which the donors wished to keep alive. The beautiful bell was sent from Galveston, Texas, as a gift from a brother of the groom.

The bridal party departed for their home in South Omaha on the last Burlington train last night, where Mr. Towle has an elegant home already fitted up for housekeeping. At the station many of their friends bid them bon voyage on the sea of life and also on their journey to their home, showering them with rice and good wishes as the train pulled out. Those to accompany the newly married pair were Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Towle, parents of the groom, Fred and Roy Towle, his brothers, Mrs. Weeble, Mrs. Roberts and Robert Creassey.

The Newly Wedded Return.

Jay Mattson and bride returned, home last evening, and are temporarily stopping at the Perkins House, until ready to go housekeeping. While away they were the guests of Jay's father, who lives in Missouri Valley. Mr. Mattson is at his accustomed duty this morning, and wearing a smile that won't rub off. Here's to you, Jay and your winsome bride; we hope that your journey through life, which is surely real, may be one of earnest endeavor and absolute pleasure.

Will Spend Summer on Coast.

Major Hall, who recently sold his place adjacent to T. E. Parmele on the Louisville road, will depart tomorrow for Washington, where he will probably remain during the summer. The Halls will first go to Salem, Oregon, where they have relatives and visit for a time, and see the country. Should they find the country and business propositions to their liking they may conclude to remain.

Mrs. Wilhelmina Nolting.

Mrs. Wilhelmina Nolting, nee Goedcke, who departed this life on Monday evening, June 10, 1907, was the wife of the late William Nolting. She was born in Wuelfentrug, Lippe Detmold, Germany, September 14, 1825.

At the age of 29 the deceased immigrated to Watertown, Wis., where she lived eleven years. In 1855 she was united in marriage with William Nolting, a widower with two children. In 1855 they came to Nebraska and settled west of Plattsmouth. Wm. Nolting died on the 15th day of April, 1882. They had also three children who died early.

Mrs. Nolting died at the age of 81 years, 8 months and 28 days, survived by two sons, three daughters, two step-children, 46 grandchildren and 24 great grandchildren.

Will Build a Nice Home.

D. W. Foster, of Union, was in the city today making arrangements with Contractor L. G. Larson, for the erection of a new seven room house, which will be modern and up-to-date in every respect. The new structure is to be erected upon the sight which the old house occupied, and where Mr. Foster has lived for a long time. While Mr. Foster is, and continues to be a resident of this county, most of his property interest are held in shape of the farm on which he lives, in Otoe county. The portion of the land on which the residence is maintained, twenty acres, is in Cass county, while the balance of the farm, something near four hundred acres, is in Otoe county. Uncle Daniel is an old resident of this county, and has been a hard worker, an enterprising citizen, and well deserves the prosperity that has come his way.

Mrs. O'Donahue Dies.

Mrs. O'Donahue, widow of Judge M. O'Donahue, who has been in the St. Bernard at Council Bluffs, Iowa, for about four years, died last evening. She came here with her husband about 1870. They built a home at the corner of Ninth and Grant streets where they lived during the greater part of their stay in Plattsmouth. The old home has just recently been torn down to make way for a new dwelling that Joseph Peters intends building soon.

The late Judge Donahue, husband of the deceased, practiced law here for a number of years, and was elected to the office of police judge and justice of the peace. The two old people were very quiet and sociable, and earned and retained the respect of all who knew them. Since the death of her husband Mrs. O'Donahue was a part of the time living in this city, making her home with Joe McCarty. When it was not convenient for her to stay with the people here on account of her advanced age and feeble condition, she was taken to the St. Bernard's, a home maintained by some Catholic society at Council Bluffs, where she has remained until her death last evening.

The remains will either be brought down here this evening or tomorrow, and the funeral will be held Saturday. Further notice of which will be given in these columns later.

JUDGE EWING'S LECTURE

The Speaker Was Greeted by a Very Large Audience Monday Evening at the Parmele Theatre.

Judge William G. Ewing, of Chicago addressed a large audience at the Parmele theatre Monday evening from the standpoint of Christian Scientist. The speaker is a member of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston, Mass., and is a very able and pleasing talker, and his audience was considerably impressed with the manner in which he presented his subject. Attorney Byron Clark introduced Judge Ewing as follows:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:
I assume your presence demonstrates that, like myself, you are here to investigate, ever ready with attentive ear and balanced mind to hear and analyze the offered demonstration of all theories and creeds which tend to uplift our cause. Tonight our lecture will be on Christian Science, whose advocates claim that it bears the panacea of the human ills: that this panacea is only the demonstration in a concrete form of power of God over the present generation. We do know that in our vicinity it has marshaled in its ranks some of our best minds and best citizenship. We know that in our physical ills are the result of some violation of God's physical laws. We know that in this practical age it is the visible fact which convinces. All of our present utilities are demonstrated theories, by the proper application of existing principles.

"So our Christian Science friends claim, not something new, but the rehabilitation and application of the first of the Disciples. To be in such actual contact with him now that his influence becomes visible. Like the excavators in the ruins of the buried cities present to this generation priceless relic of the centuries gone, the Christian Scientist has excavated from the bible forgotten treasures of the faith of our fathers. I bespeak for the lecturer an audience in whose mind the seeds of truth will germinate, and to the audience, I bespeak a finished exposition of the faith by an exponent who has been an eminent educator, an efficient prosecutor of the state and nation and an honorable member of judiciary of Illinois, who has few, if any peers, on the platform, before the bar, or on the bench.

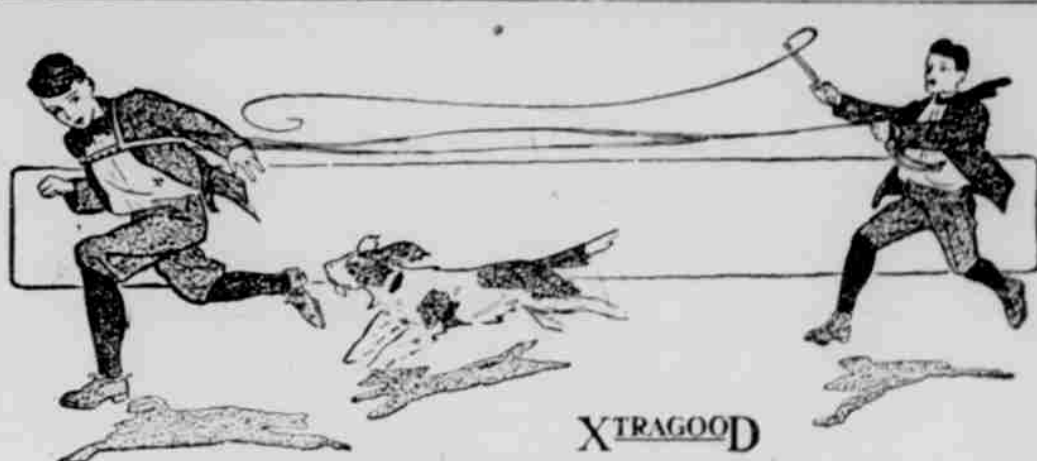

"I ask your fair, honest consideration of the issue which is the storm center of our world thought, by one whom I am honored to introduce to you, Judge Wm. G. Ewing of Chicago, who will now address you."

Judge Ewing said in substance: "It is no part of my purpose to take anything from you, but to add to the good you have; I have no quarrel with your church; I only commend the sweetness and love and song of my own, and thank God for the sweetness and love and song of yours. I believe there never has been an association of conscientious men and women for the purpose of building up God's kingdom that does not today rest as a benediction on the world. I believe that all religions are worth nothing unless they are lived. The religion of Christ, is not a religion of ceremony, of word, platitudes, professions, confessions, or creeds, but of works, of fruits and true Christian living.

What we do, not what we say, determine our relations to God, and a declaration of our belief in the infinite is best expressed in the attitude in which we retain to our creator, and our relationship to our fellow man. We believe that God is good, is the Great Physician, who heals all manner of disease; who gives sure ease to sorrow, wipes away all tears; and is the source of all life, strength, and joy, and is the redemption for every ill. Our contention is, that God is good, yea, infinitely good, now and forever, for he is without shadow of turning. One can count on the fingers of one hand all the great religious reformers, of which the greatest was Martin Luther, but he, great as he was, could not prevent an organization from being named after him; so, also, was John Calvin, and he could not prevent a large following from calling themselves Calvinists and the two Wesleys, have a large following of Wesleyan Methodists. But the founder of this great church, great as it is, has so far kept the organization entirely free from any name, such as Eddysism."

Arranging for Product Display.

D. Clem Deaver, claim agent for the Burlington was in the city today, where he was completing arrangements for the arranging of a car to be used for an exhibit car. A passenger coach is to have the seats all removed and to be used for the arrangement of the products of the harvest fields of the western part of the state, and other northwest points reached by the Burlington. The products will be so arranged as to show what the country is capable of producing. This car will with others make up a train which will be exhibited on lines of the Burlington in Iowa and Illinois, and probably over lines of other roads in the east.

WILLIAM CRITES RAMSEY

Graduates from the Nebraska State University with Two Degrees of Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Laws and Captain's Commission

ADMITTED TO PRACTICE IN ALL COURTS

First Native-born Plattsmouth Boy to Graduate from the College of Laws of Nebraska University

William Crites Ramsey, born at Plattsmouth, Nebraska, June 30, 1884, entered Plattsmouth city schools September, 1899, graduated from Plattsmouth High school June 6, 1901, at head of class of 36 graduates and capturing two prizes offered by Bellevue college at Bellevue, Nebraska, and Wesleyan University at Lincoln, Nebraska, that of a free four-year scholarship in each of these colleges.
Entered university at Lincoln, Nebraska, September, 1901, entered college of law of university, September, 1901, uniting work of last academic year with that of first law year.
Graduated in academic and law courses of university June 13, 1907, with high credit in classes and with degrees of Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Laws and in addition receives a Captain's Commission from state authority.

The Journal has known Will Ramsey ever since its present owners located in Plattsmouth and we have always admired the sterling qualities of the young man. Gifted as he is with strong mental qualities and with indomitable energy, industry and ambition, he is justly entitled to the success he has won.
Commencing work in the school room when a little past five years old, he has, by application, energy, hard work and perseverance, forged ahead and captured a most valuable prize which few attain at the early age of twenty-three. His industrious habits and the energy and fidelity with which he always does his work have been noted and the subject of comment by people in general since his early boyhood.

That he stood at the head of a class of thirty-six—the largest and one of the strongest classes ever graduated from the Plattsmouth High school before he was seventeen, most forcibly demonstrates what a boy can accomplish by hard study, correct habits and with high, worthy ambition. And that he has made so successful, and even enviable record in university work during the six years he has been a student in that institution, adds new, well-earned laurels. And to be the first native-born Plattsmouth boy to graduate from the college of law of the Nebraska university, is not only a personal distinction, but confers a kind of prestige in association of city of birth with his Alma Mater.

Under a rule of the university the young men students are required to organize and practice for the performance of military duty. Company "C" of the cadets was organized and Will was elected captain. Under him this company soon had the reputation of being the best drilled company among the cadets, a fact of which he is justly proud. A captain's commission issued by state authority was Will's reward and it is doubtful if he is prouder of any diploma or scholarship he has ever received than he is of this commission.

The Journal is proud of its young friend; proud of his strong, sterling qualities of heart and mind and proud of his successful achievements in school and university work as well as of his success as captain of company "C." And we predict that the bar of Nebraska in general and of Cass county in particular, have now received into their ranks a young Plattsmouth member who will rise and prove his strength as a successful lawyer as he has demonstrated his ability as a student in school and university work.

The Journal takes especial pleasure in joining Will C. Ramsey's great number of friends in extending most hearty congratulations to one of Plattsmouth's strongest, most popular and worthy young men; and to him we extend best wishes for his success in life and especially in the practice of that profession he has chosen for his life work.

We learn with pleasure that Will intends to open a law office in the city of his birth and thus, in his childhood's home and in the city where he first attracted attention and now merited commendation for his many sterling qualities, commence the practice of a profession which we confidently believe will bring to our young friend, not only emolument but honorable fame and distinction.

Had a Narrow Escape.

While returning home from the children's entertainment at Liberty, C. H. Warner and family had a very narrow escape from serious injury. There is a very deep ditch washed out at the side of the road. The night was very dark, and one could not see the way, and fearing that they were too near the washout, Mr. Warner stopped his team and got out of the carriage to ascertain where he was, and finding he was on the verge of the ditch got into the carriage and turned the horses to get away from it, and the horses backed into it throwing all the family out except the baby which was asleep in the bottom of the carriage. None of them were hurt but Mrs. Warner, who in alighting got her dress caught on the carriage tearing it badly. The carriage was broken—the reach and tongue being badly damaged. It was fortunate that none of them were hurt.

Letter From Max Ploehn.

The Journal received this morning a letter from Max Ploehn, now in the penitentiary, serving a life sentence, in which he says: "You will find enclosed money order for $2.00, for the past and coming year for the Journal, as I like to read the paper very much. I thank you very much for sending it regular without receiving pay for it, but I will try to pay more regular." He seems to be in the enjoyment of good health, and as well contented as possible under the circumstances.

Almost a Murder.

Last Friday evening about 7:30, Abraham Glasgo and R. S. McCleery became involved into an altercation, and the bone of contention, or the disputed article, was a bottle of whiskey. It was down near the foot bridge where they were imbibing and after the rough and tumble was over Mr. Glasgo's face and neck showed long deep cuts from a knife. One leg was also cut near the knee and the hand with which he tried to guard himself was slashed twice. Doctor Rickard dressed the wounds, and took more than twenty stitches in closing them. He said it was a hair's breadth from the jugular vein which if severed he could not have been saved.—Weeping Water Herald.

Mrs. D. E. Rice was a passenger to Omaha this morning, where she goes to visit with Mr. Rice, who is in the hospital. She says that Mr. Rice is not making much improvement in his eyes, having had to submit to two operations on them and will have to have another before he can be promised any permanent relief by the doctors in charge.
