You Cannot Depend Absolutely

UPON YOUR MONEY

¶ The chances are that four or five months after you pay a bill, you forget about it.

¶ Suppose that same bill should be presented to you—possibly you could remember about paying it; but nine out of every dozen bills you pay, you forget about in six months. Some you could not recall after six weeks.

¶ Pay all bills by check—file your checks. Six years afterward you can turn to the checks, if necessary, and produce indisputable evidence for every bill paid.

¶ We will be pleased to explain other advantages of the checking account to you.

MURRAY STATE BANK

MURRAY, NEBRASKA

Hey, there; you funny mister man—nose lookin' like gasoline can. Can't get a "snoot full," says my pa. "Less it's letter-d 'corbin' to law."

Ray Burton has returned.

Chas. S. Stone spent Sunday with his parents at Nehawka.

Mark Burton and Miss Cable were Nebraska City visitors Friday.

Frank Valley is out hustling with his threshing machine this week.

Dr. A. E. Walker of Union, spent Sunday evening with his parents.

Mrs. Kain, living two miles south of town is sick with remittent fever.

The youngest daughter of Wm. Hill has been on the sick list this week.

Mrs. Otto Puls from Mt. Pleasant precinct was visiting in Murray Wednesday.

Chas. E. Hall of Omaha, is in Murray this week in the interest of the U. S. Land Co.

Errett Thomason left Wednesday for Bethney to spend a few days visiting with friends.

Mrs. C. S. Johnson and Miss Zetta Brown of Plattsmouth, were Murray visitors Tuesday.

Lovel Massie from Mt. Pleasant precinct was visiting with relatives in Murray Wednesday.

Mrs. J. A. Walker and daughter, Mrs. Gilmore with little daughter Helen, were in Plattsmouth last Friday.

John McNurlin and wife came from Plattsmouth Saturday and spent Sunday with Miles Standish and family.

Tom and Will Smith, two of Rock Bluffs' popular young men were transacting business in Murray Wednesday.

Uncle Jimmy Root, of Lincoln, is spending the week with friends and relatives. Always glad to see Uncle Jimmy back among us.

H. R. Wallace, of South Omaha, shipped in a couple of cars of stock cattle last week which he sold to Geo. W. and Z. W. Shrader.

Mrs. James Jameson and daughter, Miss Lottie, of Perry, Oklahoma, are here spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Beck, west of town.

The Murray State Bank has been treated to a new coat of paint by the Burton Bros. which improves the appearance of the building very much.

The Plattsmouth telephone company have completed their repair work here in Murray, having put in new poles on Main street and such new wire as was necessary.

Grandma McNurlin, who is living with her daughter, Mrs. Miles Standish, was taken suddenly sick Sunday evening. At last report she has improved and is out of danger.

Fred Ost, father of Henry Ost, came in from California for a short visit with relatives. He reports the crops in that state very poor, that is in the section in which he was living.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown, accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. James Loughridge, and her daughter, May, left Tuesday for Aberdeen, Kansas, where they will visit relatives for a short time.

Lee Nichlos, ex-mayor of Kenosha, was a Murray visitor Wednesday. He reports that thriving village growing very rapidly, and that he has concluded to quit politics and devote all his time to farm work.

The threshing business has started. Ben Dill is threshing for Meek Davis this week. The reports from those who have threshed is that the wheat is yielding above the average, while oats are very poor, some hardly paying for harvesting and threshing.

Editors, reporters and writers in general have from time to time tried to give their idea of the meanest man, but some of these characters were the children of a diseased imagination. The meanest skulk this side of perdition, this is a living fact, is the thief who stole from thirty-five to forty of Mrs. Klaurens' largest fries Sunday evening. These were incubator chickens, raised early and with great care and patient labor. Now something in the form of man stole them—stole the labors of a woman. Such a thief is classed with a sheep-killing dog, although to the discredit of the dog. And now, Mr. Chicken Thief, when you stand before the bar of justice with filth and chicken feathers on your rotten raiment, your sentence, before a jury of cut throats, honorable men compared to you, would be a life term in the pen.

MOYER RELEASED FROM JAIL

Bail Bond Arranged, and can Leave for Home Wednesday

Boise, Idaho, July 30.—After a delay of three hours, Chas. H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, was released from the Ada county jail at a late hour tonight on a bond of $25,000, signed by Timothy Reagan and Thomas J. Jones of Boise. Moyer will leave for Salt Lake City tomorrow night in company with William D. Haywood, who on Sunday was acquitted of the murder of former Governor Stuenberg. After a stop of a few hours in Salt Lake they will proceed to Denver, the headquarters of the federation.

Dr. I. G. McGee of Wallace, Idaho, charged with perjury in the Haywood case had a hearing in the probate court today and was bond over for trial and released on his own recognizance. Dr. McGee swore that Harry Orchard, was in Wallace in August, 1904. Orchard was a witness against him today and declared he was not in Idaho at the time mentioned.

Try to Force Entrance to Station
Night Policeman Ben Rainey, was called to the Missouri Pacific depot Monday night, by the night operator, who stated that two men had been trying to force their way into the station.

When Mr. Rainey got there he could not find anyone except the night operator, but he was badly frightened and would not listen to the departure of the police without he left him something for his protection. This occurred on the same night that the attempted hold up on Washington avenue and in all probability was the work of the same person.

The operator will in the future be prepared for any night intruders who may show their hands hereafter. The matter of people running around demanding money and trying to enforce an entrance into buildings at such an unseemly hour as 1 o'clock should be put a stop to.

Old Settler's Picnic
Union, Neb., July 30.—Preparations are being completed for the holding of the nineteenth annual reunion of the old settlers of Cass county near this place on Friday and Saturday, August 23 and 24. A splendid program of speaking, music and sports is being arranged. The officers of the association are: President, James T. Reynolds; secretary, Chas. L. Graves; executive committee, L. Roy Upton and D. Ray Frans.

Prohibition Party Convention
Not as a delegate convention for that is a thing of the past but in a mass convention at the city of Lincoln today the prohibitionists cohorts are gathering. They have their ideas as to what is the proper things to do in regard to the liquor traffic in the state and nation. While they are not so large in numbers they make up for that in the loyalty to the cause they espouse. There will no doubt be a large number of the faithful congregated at the capitol city, to devise ways and means for the stopping and keeping stopped the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, within our borders. Since the new law went into effect they cannot meet in delegate convention, but are compelled to assemble in mass convention, which makes everybody a delegate who believes as do the prohibitionists. J. D. Graves of Peru passed through here, on his way to the convention, and taking a few hours between trains visited his mother at Rock Bluffs yesterday.

WANTED—Educated young men from 21 to 30 years of age, at Hospital for Insane, Norfolk, Nebraska. Salary $25 to $30 per month with board, lodging and laundry furnished. Light work.
MONT ROBB, Steward.

When there is the slightest indication of indigestion, heart burn, flatulence or any form of stomach trouble take a little Kodol occasionally and you will be afforded prompt relief. Kodol is a compound of vegetable acids and contains the juices found in a healthy stomach. Kodol digests what you eat, makes your food do you good. Sold by F. G. Fricke & Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Marshall of Lincoln, who have been visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Fickler, south of this city, returned to their home last evening.

PROMINENT FACTOR IN CITY'S GROWTH

In the city of Natick, Rhode Island, June 16, 1839, Henry J. Streight was born and here he lived until he was sixteen years old. In the state of Rhode Island his father, Jason Streight, was a harness-maker, and also ran a confectionary store and a livery stable, and at all these Henry helped his father. During his younger days he had an ambition to become a sailor and this has stayed with him ever since, but the combining of circumstances has caused his life to be spent in different lines.

In the year 1849, when the gold excitement was at its height, S. H. Tefft, a brother of his mother, became imbued with the desire to see the gold fields and to dig and acquire the precious metal, so he went to California, and in returning became enamored with western Iowa. After returning he talked up the countries and the possibilities which it offered to the extent that his father was induced to move to Iowa. Not being sure he would like it he asked Henry to stay and look after matters in Natick. He told his father that he had better not leave him in charge of affairs as there was a possibility that he might take a notion to go to sea. His father said he would solve that problem and so placed the business in shape and took young Henry with him, starting for the west. The means of traveling were not the best in those days. They took the train to Syracuse, New York, and thence to Buffalo, crossing Lake Erie, and down through Georgian Bay and Lake Michigan to Chicago, and arrived in Iowa at a point about five miles north of where Red Oak now stands, in September, 1855. Here at a place they called Hazel Dell, they built a dam in Nishnabotna river and prepared to build a saw mill as the country was rapidly developing and there was no lumber and no railroads to carry any from outside points.

During that fall and winter they had about gotten the mill ready for use when they received word that one of them would have to go back east and see to some business which was left unfinished at home. It was decided that Henry go, so in March he started and was followed by his father in July. Having settled up all the business they started for the west in September, bringing the family with them, also the family of Mr. Tefft who remained there when they went back. The route which they had traveled before was a very pleasant one and they wished to make it again but in getting on the wrong train they were not carried across Lake Michigan as they intended. This was somewhat of a disappointment to them but it was soon turned to joy, for the boat which they were to cross the lake on, the Niagara, was burned on that trip and thirty lives lost. When they arrived at Iowa City, the terminus of the railroad, they found Mr. Tefft waiting and ready to take the next train east as he had heard of the catastrophe of the Niagara and supposed them all lost.

They did a good business with the saw mill for a year or two, then selling it and buying a half interest in a store at Frankfort which was about six miles southeast of Hazel Dell or what is known now as Stennet, and about the same distance from Red Oak. Here they done a good business and kept a force of four clerks, one of whom was Henry Streight, whose duty it was to keep the books of the firm. After a year Henry went into business for himself, running it about a year when he sold out and went to Pike's Peak in 1860 where he mined for a short period, returning to Frankfort, Iowa, during 1861, and enlisted in the 5th battalion of cavalry attached to the 25th Missouri infantry, company C, during the summer and at the battle of Lexington the company was captured and paroled. Mr. Streight then came to Plattsmouth and worked for August Rheineck three months at the harness trade in a building near where the Standard Oil company house stands, on the corner of Pearl and Second, beginning in March, 1862. Resigning his position he again enlisted in the service and was mustered out in February, 1863. His father sold his store in Frankfort, Iowa, and they engaged in the harness business where Kraft's Clothing store now stands and during that summer ran a meat wagon from here to Oreapolis which was a good little town at that time.

On November 22, 1863, Henry J. Streight and Miss Elizabeth C. Wells were united in marriage. He still continued in the harness business with his father; during the summer of 1864 he enlisted again, this time in the 1st Nebraska, company B, for four months service under General R. R. Livingston whose operations were against the Indians and after the term was out, continued in the harness business until 1867.

Selling out to his father he engaged in the confectionary business adding toys, notions, and finally gents furnishing goods but after a short time discontinued the latter. When Capt. C. A. Marshall was postmaster he ran his store in the lobby of the postoffice. After disposing of the store he engaged in the hotel business, running the Saunders house until 1876, when he went to South Bend and engaged in the grain, stock and general merchandise business. There he stayed for ten years, at the end of that time he returned to Plattsmouth to take charge of the canning factory which was in operation then. Here he continued for a period of two years and at the end of this time he was appointed postmaster where he served for the space of five years and was succeeded by W. H. Fox, having served in this position from 1888 to 1893.

In 1892 he bought Henry Boeck's stock of furniture and in partnership with John P. Sattler, engaged in the furniture business, occupying the Boeck building where they were at the time of the flood of July 6, 1898, in which he was a heavy loser.

In December, 1902, he bought and moved into the building where he and his son, W. J. Streight, now have their store. The floods of 1893 did them considerable damage, the firm still being Streight & Sattler. September 1, 1898, Will J. Streight succeeded Mr. Sattler, the firm becoming Streight & Streight, which do the business now.

In 1865 Mr. Streight joined the Odd Fellows, Platte lodge No. 7, and still remains a member. He remembers of having seen a deer pass along Sixth street in front of where Zuckweiler & Lutz now have a store, and over by the old gas house and into the timber which skirted the creek then.

Mr. Streight and wife have just returned from a trip to a number of Iowa points among which was Red Oak, and the little towns at which he lived during the latter fifties and early sixties. The town of Frankfort, which had a park and business houses all around it and a population of something over two hundred people is entirely gone now. He brought back a piece of walnut board from the siding of the first house that was built in Montgomery county, Iowa, and the logs of which he hauled and were sawed at the mill he and his father built in 1855-6.

During all this time Mr. Streight has been a worker, and always treated his fellow men as he would like to have them treat him. During the whole of his life he has not made an enemy that has remained such for any length of time, and at this time can give the right hand of fellowship to all. He has endeavored to be obedient to his maker, faithful to his country and fraternal to his fellow men.

"Throw Physics to the Dogs, I'll None of it." Shakespeare, Macbeth.

The habit of taking too much of physics, that is, pills and strong remedies for constipation is almost universal, and there is no greater mistake made. Taken in times such a remedy is certainly a blessing, while it paralyzes the intestines, if used continually. Where you find some irregularity in the activity of your digestive organs, you must not seek relief only, but you should go to the root of the evil. You will have to use Triner's American Elixir of Bitter Wine. This remedy acts directly on the stomach and makes it capable to accept and prepare the food for a thorough digestion in the intestines. It acts on the delicate muscles of the bowels, giving them tone to finish the digestion and to make new blood, and after a short period you will be able to discard all pills. Use it in all diseases of the stomach and the intestines. At drug stores. Jos. Triner, 799 S. Ashland ave., Chicago, Illinois.

MANY SCORE LIVES ARE LOST AT SEA

STEAMER COLUMBIA RAN AND SUNK BY SCOOHER SAN PEDRO.

Terrible Collision in Shelter Cove, California—Doomed Vessel Sinks Almost Instantly—Names of Those Who Are Drowned or Missing.

Eureka, Cal., July 23.—Hourly the death list of the marine horror off the Mendocino county coast shrieks. The best advices are that 177 of the 249 souls on board the steamer Columbia escaped death when that vessel went down to the bottom near Shelter Cove between midnight and one o'clock of Sunday morning.

One hundred and seven of the Columbia's passengers and 37 of her crew have been brought to this port by the steamer George W. Elder, which towed the colliding schooner San Pedro from the scene of the disaster to Eureka. A late message from Shelter Cove says that three more lifeboats have been picked up, one of them containing 18 persons, another 13 and the third not reported.

The survivors who were brought to this port are being cared for at hotels and in private houses.

Drowned or Missing.
The following is the list of drowned or unaccounted for:

Franklin Auliff, Miss Anna Akesson, Mrs. R. Anderson, W. J. Bachman, E. Butler and wife, Miss Anna Bahlen, Miss Gertrude Butler, Mrs. J. Benson, Dr. and Mrs. B. C. Best, Mrs. Jane Best, Miss A. Bernal, Miss Clara Carpenter, Miss Ruby Cooper, J. W. Carpenter, Chew Mook, Chinaman, Miss Lena Cooper, Mrs. A. S. Cornell, Mrs. R. B. Cannon, Marion Clasy, Miss A. B. Cornell, L. Clasy and wife, Steven Clasy, J. C. Durham, L. L. Drake, Jr., Mrs. L. L. Drake, F. S. Drake, Mrs. K. Gagalda, W. Graham, Mrs. A. Gray, Mrs. Blanche Gordon, Frank Glune, Mrs. A. Happ, L. E. Hill, C. H. Harrington, Miss K. Hayden, Mrs. W. H. Ingalls, E. B. Keever, Miss Grace F. Kellar, Miss Effie Kellar, Mrs. G. A. Kellar, Miss Alma Kellar, E. G. Liggett, Miss Florence Lewis, Ray Lewis, O. S. Lewis and wife, Lewis Malkus and wife, C. E. Mehlw, Miss B. Musser, L. Mero, Miss Julia Matek, John Miller, C. W. Merrill, M. Mayo, John D. McFaydn, Miss Margaret McKearney, Miss Louise D. Nake, Miss Nellie A. Nake, Miss Mary Parsons, J. E. Paul and wife, J. Premus, Sarah A. Roberts, P. Robertson, J. J. Hateman, Mrs. Wm. Soule, G. A. Smith, Sarah Schull, Miss Cora Schull, J. B. Waller, Miss H. Wright, Roland Winters, C. W. Winslow and wife, Wm. Waller, Miss Edna Wallace, Miss B. Wallace, Miss W. W. White, E. A. Wallin, J. K. Young.

In connection with the foregoing list it should be borne in mind that it will be measurably reduced by the 32 names of the survivors spoken of as coming ashore in lifeboats at Shelter Cove Monday.

No Panic; Women Brave.
Eight minutes after the San Pedro struck the Columbia the latter vessel had filled with water and sunk. The night saloon watchman notified all the passengers to go to the upper deck. Without clothing they climbed out of their berths and rushed out. It was only two or three minutes before the decks were awash. Six boats and three liferafts were cut loose and as many passengers as possible were crowded into them. There were scarcely any evidences of a panic, the women acting with heroism.

The crew of the San Pedro immediately lowered a boat and picked up a large number of survivors.
Capt. Doran and First Officer Whitney were on the deck when the Columbia sank, the captain's last words being: "God bless you."

Blame Columbia's Officers.
O. Swanson, a sailor of the San Pedro, was at the wheel Saturday night when the fatal collision occurred. In his report to Sailors' Agent John Erickson, the blame is laid upon the shoulders of the Columbia's officers. Other members of the crew of the San Pedro substantiate the story of Swanson.

Sixteen More Survivors.
San Francisco, July 24.—Sixteen names were added Tuesday to the list of survivors of the Columbia-San Pedro collision. These 16 passengers were in a boat which landed at Shelter Cove. The boat also contained two dead bodies, that of Mrs. O. A. Lewis, of Pasadena, Cal., and an unknown man, presumably a sailor.

The list of survivors now includes 156 names out of a reported total of 257 persons on board. Three dead bodies have been recovered.
Ninety-seven persons are unaccounted for.

Those added to the list of survivors Tuesday were: B. B. Kriever, Prescott, Ia.; Jacob Kuro, Coldwater, Kan.; Armand Cardoette, New Bedford, Mass.; O. A. Lewis, Pasadena, Cal.; Edwin Wallin, San Francisco; Mrs. Winklelock Dunn, Poplar Bluff, Mo.; Mrs. W. H. Angers, Oakland, Cal.; Mrs. Blanche W. Musser, Salt Lake; Miss Ruby Cooper, Fayette, Mo.; Michael Redman, San Francisco; B. W. Graham, Portland, Ore., and four members of the Columbia's crew.
