Miss Jane Johnson was born September 15th, 1827, and on the 8th of November, 1845, Edward G. Dovey and Miss Jane Johnson were united in marriage, and in a short time started for this country. They arrived in America near the last days of 1845, stopping at New York for a short time, and when spring opened Mr. Dovey accepted a position at his trade in a pottery at Jersey City, just across from New York. Here they lived for nearly two years, staying until the fall of 1847. From here they went to Wellsville, Ohio, where they stayed during the next year and until the spring of 1849, then going to Cincinnati, where Mr. Dovey worked at his trade for another year. In 1850 they moved to Nashville, Tenn., where, with Henry Amison, he engaged in business, carrying at first a stock of groceries and afterwards dry goods, and later on doing a good deal of business in the wholesale line in both groceries and dry goods. Here they continued until the breaking out of the civil war.

Dated this 15th day of August, A. D. 1907. HARVEY D. TRAVIS, County Judge.

During that period values were unstable and the chances for losing all the property they had seemed good, so they closed out the business, getting rid of it in 1862. While in the business they had employed Robert Doom as a book-keeper, and at the beginning of the war he had come west and was in the territories when the first of the fighting began. He wrote his former employers what the west was, offering better chances for investment than what could be found in Tennessee. Mr. Dovey and his partner with their families, Mr. Dovey's at that time consisting of his wife and two sons, George E. and Oliver C., started for Denver, thinking that a good place to settle to invest in property or go into business. When they had gotten as far as Plattsmouth, they were compelled to stop, as the Indians were so troublesome that it was not safe to try to cross the plains unless escorted by a company of soldiers. They had spent almost a year in getting here, arriving on April 5th, 1863. When they found it was so dangerous traveling across the prairies to the west, they concluded to stay here and Mr. Dovey formed a partnership with his former partner and purchased the business of Davis & Argyle, who conducted a general store in a small room on lower Main street.

About two years after the firm of Amison & Dovey began business, sometime in 1865, they took up the business of packing pork, which they continued for a number of years. In this they did a good business, which was profitable during most of the time they were engaged in it.
The firm of E. G. Dovey & Son, the successors to Amison & Dovey, have a freight receipt framed and in their office, which shows that they forwarded from here to Denver, Colo., in 1865, about two hundred dollars worth of goods, much of which was hardware, and weighed, according to the weights at Denver, 9727 pounds, and which the freighters changed 12 1/2 cents per pound, for transporting it from here to Denver. Upon this the firm advanced the sum of four hundred dollars and when the freight arrived at Denver the freighters collected $500.00 more, making $900.00.

Later they received another $100.00, then at another time $50.00 and then the balance at still another time, which was $165.87 1/2 making in all at 12 1/2 cents per pound for 9,727 pounds $1215.87 1/2.

It required six months to make the round trip and was one continual warfare with the Indians after getting about one hundred miles away from the Missouri river. In 1868 Mr. Amison withdrew from the business and George E. Dovey was admitted to the firm and it then became E. G. Dovey & Son. During the time when the firm of Amison & Dovey was doing business, they acquired considerable land, and among it was what is known as the Dovey section which lies near Cedar Creek and which the firm still owns; another piece of property was that which is now used as the county farm, the latter, in the settling up of the firm of Amison & Dovey, went to the former and the Dovey section to the firm of E. G. Dovey & Son. When they came here they built the place known as the old Dovey homestead on Seventh and Oak streets now occupied by W. J. Streight. In this they lived all the time during the life of E. G. Dovey.

In the year 1872 Henry Boeck had just completed the building where the Dovey store now is. He and they traded, Mr. Boeck going to the brick which stood where H. M. Soemichsen's coal office is, and the Doveys occupied their present location.

July 25, 1881, Edward G. Dovey died and the firm became E. G. Dovey & Sons, which consisted of the three boys, George E., Oliver C. and Horatio N. and their mother, who held the interest of her husband. In 1886 they built another room on a lot east of where they had the store and remodeled the upper story, making the entrance to the second floor all at one stairway, the front of the second story being rented for offices and the rear part being used for a carpet room for the dry goods department.
About fifteen years ago the firm bought the First National bank, since which time H. N. Dovey has had charge of the business there. Several years ago George E. Dovey built the magnificent residence where he now makes his home, known as "The Heights." Oliver C. built him a residence on Sixth and Locust which is very commodious and substantial brick structure, making a beautiful and comfortable home. At the time of purchasing the First National bank, H. N. Dovey purchased the McLaughlin residence on the corner of Fifth and Oak streets which is a handsome and substantial brick, making a most pleasant home, having a commanding view of the surroundings.

A Very Bad Place.

A very bad place has been allowed to remain in the road near the Wiles farm for some time. During the heavy rain the approach to both ends of the culvert, over which the road passes, was washed out and left large holes, so that it is extremely dangerous even to farmers in daylight and very hazardous to strangers or those traveling at night. Commissioner Fredrich informed a Journal man that it would be fixed tomorrow or he would know the reason why.

Picnicking Today.

The Presbyterian Sunday School are holding a picnic at Paradise Park today. Conveyance was furnished at Streight's corner and a large number of people are in attendance. They were provided with hammocks, swings and all the conveniences which add to the enjoyable features of a Sunday School picnic. Everything good to eat is also in abundance and with lemonade made from the cold waters of the spring and supplemented by a plentiful supply of ice cream, they bid fair to have a good time.

OFFICIAL MARKET REPORTS

Prepared Especially for the Readers of the Journal.

The following is today's markets furnished by the Cass County Commission company, A. H. Smith, Coates block:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.
Wheat
Sept.	80 1/2	80 3/4	80 1/4	80 3/4
Dec.	78 1/2	78 3/4	78 1/4	78 3/4

Corn
Sept.	57 1/2	57 3/4	57 1/4	57 3/4
Dec.	54 1/2	54 3/4	54 1/4	54 3/4
May	56 1/2	56 3/4	56 1/4	56 3/4
Oats
Sept.	40 1/2	40 3/4	40 1/4	40 3/4
Dec.	47 1/2	47 3/4	47 1/4	47 3/4
May	49 1/2	49 3/4	49 1/4	49 3/4

Liverpool cables on wheat 1 1/4 higher, corn 1/2 higher. Chicago receipts: wheat 203, corn 170, oats 211. Estimated for Friday: wheat 184, corn 142, oats 255. Bradstreet's world's visible, wheat increased 2,467,000 bushels; corn decreased 813,000 bushels; oats decreased 453,000 bushels. No reports of rain; forecast: scattered showers over the corn belt with rising temperature tonight and Friday. Northwest receipts: wheat 124; last year 118.

Wheat opened a cent lower this morning and showed considerable weakness, selling off two cents from last night's close during the first half hour. The frost scare in the Canadian northwest and in Minnesota and the Dakotas was overworked yesterday and the bulls who were so anxious to buy wheat last night were equally anxious to get on the other side today. There was little doing after the first break, prices ranging around the previous low point for the next three hours of the session. Toward the close another sinking spell set in, carrying the prices to 2 1/4 and 2 1/2 under yesterday's close. The final figures showing a loss of about 2c for the day. Believe this wheat a good sale for 5c to 10c per bu. The September liquidation has not started in yet and when it does there will be a good decline all around.

Corn had lost all its bullish feeling on the opening today, prices ranging 1/2 to 1/4 lower and later selling off over a cent under yesterday. The bulls have gotten over their activity which they showed yesterday. The weather is getting favorable again and showers are predicted over the corn belt. Expect more liberal receipts from now on and a letup in the cash demand. Corn is too high any way and with favorable weather and other favorable influences should have a good decline from these prices. Sell corn and stay with it.

Oats opened about unchanged, Sept. selling 1/4 higher making the top price for this option but the market soon weakened off, losing a full cent the first hour. There was little change the balance of the session, prices closing 1/2 to 1/4 lower for the day. Present quotations of oats for future delivery are wholly out of proportion and can only be accounted for and sustained on the assumption that sellers cannot furnish the contract grade. The present market value of oats for future delivery are nearly 50 per cent. higher than the same options were selling at a year ago while the government report shows only 90,000,000 bushels short or a shortage of 10 per cent. from last year's crop. High priced oats result in a certain economy of consumption; the using of other feeds and the more liberal feeding of hay. These oats are not worth so much money by a long way and strongly advise sales of May around these prices.

Weeping Water

From The Herald.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lyman have sent out cards announcing the forthcoming marriage of their daughter Bessie to Mr. J. C. Linberg. The wedding will take place on Wednesday, August, 28.

Wm. Ash has been quite ill the past week, but is now gaining in strength. Chas. Chandler has been laying off the latter part of the week from a bilious attack.

The prohibitionists of Cass county are called to meet in conference in Weeping Water at headquarters, on Saturday, Aug. 24.

The stork visited the Riverside hotel on Thursday, August 15th and found the landlord, Oscar Johnson, very busy, so calling on Mrs. Johnson he left a baby boy. Also on Saturday, August 18, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Snell entertained the bird, and it presented them with a fine baby girl.

While coming down the big hill south of town Tuesday morning, the Omaha-Falls City train in charge of Conductor "Peggy" Moore, ran into a bunch of cattle, killing and injuring several. As the train was running fast, and heavily loaded with passengers, it is indeed lucky that it was not wrecked, which at that particular place would doubtless have resulted in much loss of human life.

The condition of Dr. J. W. Thomas up to Tuesday noon is somewhat improved, and hopes are entertained for his recovery. For several days he was in a very critical condition and chances for recovery doubtful. A trained nurse is giving him every attention, but the hot weather of recent date was very much against him. We hope to see the Doctor around again, and his many friends anxiously await news for the better.
