Recently we received a copy of a daily paper, which is printed in Rio De Janeiro, and they speak very highly of our American bluejackets. It stated that about 2,000 of the boys were given shore liberty each day, and in one lengthy article it wound up by saying that the American bluejackets that landed were the most intelligent, courteous, and jolly set of fellows they ever saw.

We are proud of our blue jackets, and also of this comment from a prominent South American paper, and hope the boys will maintain this record wherever they go. We ask our friends to take notice. Boost our navy which is composed of the best men in existence. Don't knock.

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY STILL THERE

The Principles Will Live as Long as There is a Remnant of This Once Grand and Glorious Republic

It is said an effort is now being made by the so-called Independence League to form a third political party, the idea and purpose being to crush out the Democratic party and raise another in its stead. This wild dream will never find its realization.

The old thing called the Democratic party has been considerably bruised and battered up in its day and generation. It has been prescribed, bedeviled, carpetbagged, pro-consuled, hunted up one side of the country and down the other; but when they came with a coffin to carry away the corpse the corpse was not forthcoming.

The Whig party—its pure, its true and its strongest opponent—came next to die with its mighty leader, Clay. Know-nothingism came next, fighting under the black banner of religious intolerance, but Virginia, putting into the hands of Henry A. Wise her spotless Democratic banner, slew the monster at the very gates of liberty.

Then the war came, and the very blackness swept over the fortunes of the Democracy. Out of the white heat and torment of that war the Republican party seized upon the North in the name of patriotism, and held it for the spoils of a savage partisan vengeance. The South had never a limb that did not wear a shackle.

BRYAN'S WISHES WILL PREDOMINATE

A United Party Will Support the Great Commoner.

A special from Washington says: "It is recognized by almost all Democrats, even by some of those who would prefer another man as standard bearer, that Bryan's past services and his existing following establish him as the leader of the party, and that a new man could not be brought forward with any remote possibility of success unless he is given the united backing of the party, and unless a perfect understanding is arrived at as to the meaning of the new candidacy.

The conferences are to deal with blunt facts. Reports from the best available sources are being gathered from the States which may be regarded as fighting ground. Definition of the essentials to gain votes in States now Republican is promised.

All this is in the minds of the foremost Democrats here, with the knowledge, however, that Bryan's wishes and judgment will control the issue.

"The two-thirds vote to nominate has been the rule of Democratic conventions during the long life of the party. But only in one instance, that of Van Buren, in 1844, has the candidate receiving a majority vote failed of nomination.

The Van Buren case resulted from a peculiar conjunction of circumstances, not likely to be repeated. A Majority of the convention, though instructed, it so happened, did not represent party sentiment at the time of the convention. New events had molded new opinion, and Polk was nominated."

the hands of those who had won it without an effort at defense or even a suggestion of protest or resistance. Four years later Garfield—battered upon the money power, and the whole tremendous influence of the Federal patronage machine—defeated Hancock, and made the night darker and darker for the Democracy. It rallied however. Patched as best it could its tattered old garments. Dressed as best it could its tattered old rank. Gathered as best it could about ragged old banner, and rushed once more to the assault upon Radicalism as though Jefferson had written its platform and Jackson was leading it columns to the fight.

This time the hero was destined to enjoy the victory and the martyr to wear the crown. Not a hand was lifted to stay the inauguration of Cleveland. After renewing youth the party was back again in the house of its father—serene, unconquerable, and healed of all its grievous and manifold wounds, even as Lazarus was healed in the bosom of Abraham.

After Cleveland then came the peerless Bryan in 1896, and made the greatest campaign that was ever made in the "land of the free and the home of the brave" Realizing this great argument in favor of the people, the money power became engaged to the extent of furnishing Mark Hanna with millions of dollars to buy votes, and where he couldn't buy to steal them. This again another democratic president was defrauded out of his seat in the White House. The same was repeated in 1900.

This year Mr. Bryan will again be the standard-bearer of the peoples' party, and if he is not elected it will be because the money power will again furnish millions of money to buy the votes, and that the people will be so many cattle. Whatever the result of the election, the principals of the democratic party will never cease to be an inspiration and a trumpet call to millions of men who believe in honesty and fair dealing between man and man. No man, or any set of men, is strong enough to bring the slightest hurt to a party that stands for liberty, honesty and right.

Look Good to Everybody. One of Plattsmouth's citizens broke into print the other day and criticised the action of the county commissioners for not being more charitable to a destitute says he owns twelve head of horses and cattle, has rented a farm and is not asking aid from the county. Another feature of the investigation is a financial showing of Cass county that ought to look good to democrats as well as republicans.—Weeping Water Republican.
