Neglected Colds Threaten Life.
(Chicago Tribune)

"Don't trifle with a cold," is good advice for prudent men and women. It may be vital in the of a child. Proper food, good ventilation, and dry warm clothing are the safe guards against colds. If they are maintained through the changeable weather of autumn, winter and spring, the chances of a surprise from ordinary colds will be slight. But the ordinary light cold will become severe if neglected, and a well established ripe cold is to the germs of diphtheria what honey is to a bee. The greatest menace to a child life at this season of the year is the neglected cold. Whether it is a child or adult, the colds light or severe, the very best treatment that can be adopted is to give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is safe and sure. The popularity and immense sale of this preparation has been attained by its remarkable cures of this ailment. A cold never results in pneumonia when it is given. For sale by F. G. Fricke & Co.

The General Demand

of the Well-Informed of the World has always been for a simple, pleasant and efficient liquid laxative remedy of known value; a laxative which physicians could sanction for family use because its component parts are known to them to be wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, acceptable to the system and gentle, yet prompt, in action.

In supplying that demand with its excellent combination of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, the California Fig Syrup Co. proceeds along ethical lines and relies on the merits of the laxative for its remarkable success.

That is one of many reasons why Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is given the preference by the Well-Informed. To get its beneficial effects always buy the genuine—manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., only, and for sale by all leading druggists. Price fifty cents per bottle.

SOLDIERS TO KEEP THEIR MONEY

Court Rules Intention of Law is That Care Shall be Given Veterans Regardless of Their Pensions---A Righteous Decision.

A special from Grand Island, under date of February 12, says: "Judge Hanna and Paul, in the district court today overruled the demurrer filed by the state to the petition of R. B. Howell of the Soldiers' and Sailors' home, restraining the state board from interfering in any way with the pensions of the members of the two homes in this state. In the absence of any representative of the state board, an exception was filed for them, both judges further concurring, and it was indicated that time would be given them to indicate if they desired to stand on the demurrer, or have further hearing. The allegations in the petition were sustained and the injunctions remains, preventing the state board from carrying out the order to take part of the pension monies of all receiving over $12 per month, and also restraining the commandants of the Grand Island and Milford homes from interfering in any way with the members thereof, owing to noncompliance with the enjoined rule. It is expected, as was announced from Lincoln today, that the state board will immediately appeal the case from the district to the supreme court. Judge Paul commented upon the modifications of the Nebraska act and for the establishment, maintenance and government of the home. It had first placed the power of passing upon applications and membership in a visiting and examining board; it later changed it and placed it in the hands of the county commissioners of each county. That disposed of one question. The act provided that the state maintain a home. It made appropriations therefor. It did not provide for the appropriation of monies therefor in any other way than through the legislature. Judge Paul also held that the intention of the legislature was clearly inimical to such power, for a moral obligation was admitted by the public generally as going out to the veteran soldiers. Society, generally, acknowledged this obligation to the men who had given three of four of their best years—years in which, ordinarily, men educate themselves for the battle of life, or become established in business—for the common benefit, as is demonstrated by the pension act, and it was not the intention of the legislature of this state to appropriate any part of this money."

AMAZING BLOODLESS CURE.

As great as were the recent cures in Europe they are greater in America today. The cure of Rupture and other diseases without the knife is now an accomplished fact as can be proven by The German Specialists, of Council Bluffs, Ia.

With special instructions used by no other doctor they can diagnose diseases so accurately that patients are astonished, especially because they do not ask a single question in finding the cause of diseases.

The validity of their claims can be tested by all who write for appointment card. Their ad stating time to cure various diseases appears elsewhere in this paper.

A NOVEL BURGLAR ALARM DEVICE

Awaken From Your Peaceful Slumbers to Hear Sweet Music That Tells You That Burglars Are Around the House

A great many people have planned different sorts of receptions for burglars, but no one has ever given consideration to the musical sense of that fraternity until C. R. Lerch, of Winthrop street, Brooklyn, arranged a lyre-shaped harp upon his door to serve the double purpose of welcoming friends with harmonious sounds and providing an agreeable surprise to burglars says the New York Tribune. When a burglar opens the door the same musical tones which greet him acquaint his intended victims with his presence before he has had even time to think of spoons. The harp will vibrate loudly enough to awaken any sleeper of the average sort. Of course there are sleepers who never blink an eyelid at the most resounding nocturnal noises. Such sleepers would need the report of a cannon to awaken them to the fact that burglars were appraising their jewelry and biting their silver to learn whether or not it was plated. The ordinary person, however, whose nerves respond more or less to unusual sounds in the night, will immediately awaken at the vibrations of the harp burglar alarm and secure the necessary weapons to welcome the uninvited guest should he fail to take the musical hint given upon the threshold of the house and leave for more silent domains. The cadences of the harp are much more resounding when it is strung with piano wires. These keep in tune and require less tightening up than do mandolin wires, which are so used for this instrument.

Mr. Lerch's musical burglar alarm has a sounding board made of white mahogany, and curved sides of cypress, to the upper ends of which are attached small ornaments carved in the shape of harps. It is strung with mandolin or piano wires and has a key which will tune it up to an octave. To the crossbar at the top of this lyre-shaped instrument are attached silken strings of different lengths, weighted with metal balls a little larger than marbles. The strings are so arranged that the slightest movement of the door will set the balls to vibrating against the wires in a pleasant concord of sweet sounds. The vibration will continue for 60 seconds, when the musical chords will softly die away into silence.

Visitors are inspired with a pleasurable feeling when greeted at the door by weirdly sweet sounds, the source of which they do not always see. The burglar, on the contrary, nonplused.

He does not know what the sounds mean—whether they will increase or diminish in volume, nor whether they serve as a gentle hint that a trap has been sprung or something more violent placed near at hand for his entertainment. He seldom feels encouraged to investigate, especially 'as he knows that only an unusually sound sleeper, or a deaf person, could continue to slumber after the harp had begun to play.
