Send Thanks for Flowers.

At the time of the death of Mrs. O. G. Horne, nee Miss Grace Montgomery, the class of 1904 sent flowers as a token of the love the class bore for their teacher. In recognition, and bearing the thanks of the bereaved husband for the feeling the class cherished for their former teacher, yesterday Roy McKinney received a letter from Mr. Horne bearing his thanks for the kindly feeling expressed.

AMAZING BLOODLESS CURDS.

As great as were the recent cures in Europe they are greater in America today. The cure of Rupture and other diseases without the knife is now an accomplished fact as can be proven by The German Specialists, of Council Bluffs, Ia.

With special instructions used by no other doctor they can diagnose diseases so accurately that patients are astonished, especially because they do not ask a single question in finding the cause of diseases.

The validity of their claims can be tested by all who write for appointment card. Their ad stating time to cure various diseases appears elsewhere in this paper.

EASILY DECIDED

This Question Should Be Answered Easily by Plattsmouth People.

Which is wiser—to have confidence in the opinions of your fellow-citizens, of people you know, or depend on statements made by utter strangers residing in far-away places? Read the following:

Mrs. Claude Butler, of 613 South 10th street, Plattsmouth, says: "My two little boys were troubled with a weakness of the kidneys and auxiliary organs. The older child complained much of backache and headache. We were kept busy in trying remedies, hoping to find something that would overcome the difficulties but with little success until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Gering & Co.'s drug store. The use of this preparation soon made a marked improvement in both cases. It is needless to say that our appreciation of Doan's Kidney Pills which brought about such positive results, is exceedingly great."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Married in Plattsmouth.

Arthur I. Cleghorn of the Nebraska metropolis, and Miss Nina J. Blue hailing from Council Bluffs, stepped off the train at this place this morning, and notwithstanding the deep snow, and the absence of the county judge from the city, secured a license from the clerk, Miss Gertrude Beeson, who can issue as good a license as the judge, and were soon made one. With the necessary papers in their hands they immediately found the office of Judge Archer, who tied the knot that made them happy. The groom was 23 years old and the bride 19. The young man was formerly a resident of this county, having lived for a number of years near Weeping Water, and went to Omaha a few years ago, where he has a good position.

The young couple were accompanied by W. L. Phillips, who with John R. Denson witnessed the ceremony. They will make their home in Omaha. The Journal extends best wishes for their future welfare and prosperity.

Getting Into Clear With Lines

The Burlington electrician, J. A. Collins of Ashland, was in the city this morning placing a telephone on the coach shops, which is attached to the system which has been installed in the shops. Mr. Collins says that he will go to work immediately in the installing of 'phones at Gilmore, Ft. Crook and Pappio, which will be connected with Oreadpolis, from which place there is a line connecting Oreadpolis and Plattsmouth. The Missouri river bridge and Pacific Junction.

In this line will also be placed Cedar Creek. The new arrangements will solve the problem for the company of operators at Cedar Creek, Pappio Ft. Crook and Gilmore Junction. Mr. Collins says that it is the intention to make the lines metallic circuit, and that the company will have them in operation before the law becomes effective March 4th, next.

Snow Stops Work in Planing Mills.

The planing mills at the Burlington shops are taking a rest on account of the lack of lumber to do the work which is crowding very much. The recent heavy snow is so great and the facilities for getting away with it is so limited that the lumber, while in the yards, cannot be gotten to the mills until the snow is disposed of.

ALLEYS MAR CITY

PLAQUE SPOTS STILL EXIST IN THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Situation Not as Bad as It Used to Be, but There Is Yet Necessity for Removal of Slums.

The national capital, with all its pride of marble and bronze, its broad avenues and green circles, is nevertheless declared to be "rotten at the core." The phrase is Jacob Rills'. He "turned Washington inside out" a few years ago and went back to New York's east side for a breath of fresh air, says the New York Sun.

Things have taken a turn for the better since then, but the whitened sepulcher is still a likely metaphor to be used in connection with the nation's City Beautiful. Last spring President Roosevelt got so stirred up over some reports of the Washington alleys that he appointed a commission to devise a way of removing the literal and moral stench from the people's nostrils.

These alleys are without a parallel in any other city. There are 286 of them, and they harbor a population of 20,000 persons. When Jacob Rills declared that Washington had a rotten spot at the core he added:

"I mean that, for I have in mind the hidden back alleys, so well hidden that I passed them day after day, pleased with the fine front the block was making and without the least suspicion of what it harbored within."

Perhaps if he had known the names of some of those pestilential byways he might have suspected their nature. Ambush court is one, Blood alley is another, Jonah row is another, and there are Pig alley, Splash alley, Cat alley and other names full of significance.

But the name is not an unfailing guide. Otherwise Snow alley would not be the tortuous, filthy lane which it really is. And as for Queen's court—not two blocks from the British embassy—it would scarcely have shown itself to the shocked investigators, as it did for years, a labyrinth of dirt, disease and immorality.

"The alleys," says Charles F. Weller of the Associated Charities of Washington, "are hidden inner worlds, standing often in close proximity to the chief centers of the city's wealth and culture. Chinch row, not seven blocks from the White House and only three blocks from Dupont Circle, was indescribably bad."

Chinch row was an arm of Queen's court, and it was only recently that, after years of war upon it, its hovels were torn down. Some of the deplorable houses remain, however, so near the fashionable center of the city that the contrast is startling.

The ordinary newspaper does not print the sort of reading which the descriptions of many of these alleys make. It is hardly fit for anything but the reports of charity committees, and even they furnish an apology with each report. Very few of the alley houses have either water or sewerage connection, and it is hardly to be wondered at that the health authorities of the city are always fighting typhoid.

Prior to 1903 the government bureau of labor collected for several years official statistics of cities. In its bulletin for 1902 Washington was shown as having the highest death rate among the 39 largest cities in the country.

It was particularly strong in typhoid fever, tuberculosis, grip and malaria. Some of the causes certainly are not far to seek, no further in fact than the inside of many fair appearing city blocks.

He Cleaned the Oysters.

Three well known young men from Washington went out on a hunting trip recently, and, as they intended to make a day of it, a quart of nice, large oysters was taken along for the noonday meal. When noon came the party made their way to camp with no game, and the one that had been elected cook set about preparing the oysters for frying.

He had just started to roll them in the cracker crumbs when one of the others butted in with the question: "Well, aren't you going to clean those oysters? Or do you expect us to eat them without being cleaned?"

His companion immediately got wise and backed up the first speaker, declaring that no oyster would pass his lips without first being cleaned. The cook looked up with mild surprise, and declared that he had never heard of oysters being cleaned, but if it was customary he was willing to do so. And he carefully cleaned the oysters.

The White House Plate.

The fact that the White House is equipped with a service of solid gold plate for use on state occasions is not talked about too loudly, as it seems, somehow, to jar on democratic simplicity. But the fact that the service is there is recalled by the fact that it needs refurbishing, and jewelers from New York, Baltimore and Philadelphia are bidding for the work. The plate was bought during the Van Buren administration. It is made up of four large candelabra, five fruit dishes, and eight table mirrors, which are so fashioned that they can be formed into one large centerpiece. It is claimed that this service of plate is one of the handsomest in the world, and impresses even those diplomats who have seen the plate of the wealthiest European courts. The value of the White House plate is not generally known.

Habitual Constipation

May be permanently overcome by proper personal efforts with the assistance of the one truly beneficial laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, which enables one to form regular habits daily so that assistance to nature may be gradually dispensed with when no longer needed as the best of remedies, when required, are to assist nature and not to supplant the natural functions, which must depend ultimately upon proper nourishment, proper efforts, and right living generally.

To get its beneficial effects, always buy the genuine Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna manufactured by the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. ONLY

GENUINE VOICE / GREAT CHARM.

One of the Most Powerful Attractions in a Woman.

Very few women realize what an effect a sweet voice has on a man. A woman may be very pretty to look upon, may be faultlessly and bewitchingly attired and attractive in every way, and yet directly she opens her mouth and speaks the spell is broken, the charm is gone. And this need never be.

Very few voices are so naturally bad that they will not succumb to training, and the voice can be trained to be just as sweet and gentle as one pleases to make it.

A woman should speak in a low voice. She should not allow her voice to raise itself to a high pitch.

A shrill-voiced woman is terrible. She should not shout her orders to the servants down the stairs, nor call to any one who may be in another part of the house. This shouting and raising of the voice spoils the tone and quality of the voice and tends to make it harsh. A pretty voice is a powerful attraction in a woman and she who would add to her charms a wondrous fascination should cultivate a voice "ever soft, gentle and low."

MOTHER INSTINCT WAS STRONG.

Old Lady Ready to Aid Any One She Thought Needed It.

A woman who looked as if she had a commutator's ticket in her handbag kept a long line of customers waiting in a New York bank one morning recently. She was writing something and was in no hurry. She was not one of the fashionable "no hips" creatures, but was of such generous proportions that she could not be circumnavigated. There was nothing to do but wait and wonder what her business was. The cashier himself was in doubt, but waited politely to see.

"There, young man," she announced triumphantly to the cashier after putting her pencil in her mouth for the fiftieth time, "there is a prescription that has been in our family for 50 years. It will knock that cold of yours endwise. Hustle right out and get it filled and be sure and soak your feet in hot mustard water to-night. Don't let your cold run on."

The smiles that went round were kindly ones, it seemed so good to meet a universal "mother" ready to coddle any human being that she thought needed her ministrations.

Ignorance of South America.

One of our contemporaries referred yesterday to "Little Paraguay." That republic is four-fifths as large as Germany.

Many persons have erroneous notions as to geographical sizes and lengths in South America. They have not the slightest idea that Brazil is nearly as large as the whole of Europe, that the distance between the north and south ends of Chile is as great as that between the North Cape of Europe and Gibraltar, and that steamers ply almost straight north and south on the Parana and its Paraguay affluent for a distance about equal to that between New York and Omaha.—New York Sun.

Model of Economy.

A certain farmer, who is noted for his closeness in money matters, has a 12-year-old son, who is as industrious as his father is penurious.

Recently the father and son made a compact whereby the latter would receive ten cents for every cord of wood he saved and piled in the woodshed. Immediately the boy became very busy at the woodpile and his earnings have been piling up at a rapid rate, his mother keeping her son's hard-earned savings for him.

"What are you going to do with all your money?" the thrifty youth was recently asked.

"Goin' to buy a new saw with it," was the reply.

When Using Strong Acid.

When using strong acids to take out stains—oxalic acid, for instance—dissolve the acid and then apply with a medicine dropper. This will cover just the surface desired.

Brightening Mahogany.

An easy way to keep mahogany bright, and one that is seldom thought of, is washing the wood at frequent intervals with cold tea.
