COPPER THIEVES AT WORK AGAIN

Booty Found Hidden in End of Sewer by Citizens Who Notify Company, Who Recover Stolen Goods.

This morning while coming to town James McKinney and Nelson Jones observed something sticking in the end of the sewer, near the junction of Third street and Lincoln avenue, and getting out of their wagon to examine it, found it to be copper, a portion of a consignment which the Burlington railway company had just received from the east. They immediately notified Master Mechanic H. J. Helps and Storekeeper Joselyn, who, with some workmen accompanied by the parties who found the stolen property, went and removed the same to the shops. The copper had not been missed and had it not been discovered, would have been taken away when night came again in all probability, if the parties had not been frightened away from it before. The coppers are sixteen pounds in weight and were seventeen in number, making two hundred and seventy cents per pound, as that is the price of it in that shape, makes the amount of the stolen property $54.40.

Parts With His Cash

Clarence Ford of Carlinville, Ill., arrived here Thursday morning and will work for his uncle George Ford. Mr. Ford had an experience in coming out here that he will not soon forget. This was his first trip away from home and he had a little money, which he unthoughtfully exhibited on the train, and some of the lightfingered gentry got $50 of it. Then he bought a book from a train newsboy, giving him a $10 bill from which to make the change. This class of fellows are noted short change artists, and in the hands of this fellow it only proved a $1 bill. He is sixty short but a much wiser fellow. It always pays while traveling to keep your money out of sight and to make your own change.—Nehawka Register.

WAS A HOTLY CONTESTED GAME

The Lovers of Basket Ball Were Treated to a Fine Game Last Evening at Coates' Hall.

With a determination that they would play basket ball as it should be played, and win out in the end, the Nebraska City High school team came up last evening. When the game opened they demonstrated that their belief in good playing was what they were relying upon for victory. In the first half the home team was out-played at almost every point. In the second half the home team demonstrated their ability by some remarkably fast work, and met the boys from down the river at every point, and many and exciting were the plays which fairly made the onlookers howl with delight. The star player of the game was Clarence Beal, whose work was fine. The game from the beginning to the time when the last pass had been made was one well worth looking at and while the visitors carried off the victory, the home team can well be satisfied with the game put up. The score was Nebraska City, 32; Plattsmouth, 24.

RAILROADS WIN IN CONTEST

In the Discussion Yesterday The Private Ownership Won Out

In the contest held at the high school building yesterday afternoon to determine who should take part in the inter-high school contest, the ones supporting the negative were given the honors. The ones striving for the honors were Bennie Windham and Mattie Larson on the affirmative, and Josephine Hall and Marie Douglas on the negative. All acquitted themselves very creditably. In the absence of C. A. Rawls and W. C. Ramsey, who were detained by court business, E. H. Wescott was substituted, making the judges only two instead of three.

The honors easily went to Misses Hall and Douglas, who have devoted much time and study to the subject. They cited many authorities in a convincing manner that won the day.

We look for these young ladies to make a splendid showing in the inter-high school contest which is to take place in the near future.

We expect our girls to win and have good reason for the belief.

Our Worst Tyrant.

We hardly notice what a tyrant our unsatiable desire for too much and too rich food is. Many assured us that they tried hard to overcome this desire, but did not succeed. If this is true, we have to look for something that would make our digestive apparatus so strong that it would easily stand the hard work without damages. Such a remedy, that is, such a tonic, is Triner's American Elixir of Bitter Wine. Take a dose of it before each meal, even if you do not feel real sick, and notice the strengthening effect it will have on your body. If you have some difficulties after meals like heaviness, eructations, nausea, diarrhoea, or if your appetite is not right, if you cannot eat, although feeling hungry, if your digestion is not complete, Triner's American Elixir of Bitter Wine will cure you. At drug stores. Jos. Triner, 616-622 South Ashland ave., Chicago, Ill.

Who Can Beat This

This freak may be nothing new or strange to some people, but it is a new one to the rabbit editor, and lest some may jump to a conclusion that this is a "dream" we will state that the scalp of a six-eared rabbit is at this office for inspection. The rabbit was killed Monday morning by Chas. McKean and Wes Woodard between here and Nehawka.

The rabbit has all the appearance of a common "cotton tail" in size and color about the only difference being the surplus ears. One pair of ears show nothing unusual, but on the right side there are two additional ears behind the first one, while on the left side the two "extras" are in front, and the surplus have no fur covering but are as long as the others. Our freak is not as ferocious as the famous "dog killer" of Mt. Pleasant was said to be, but will bear some closer inspection—Union Ledger.

LABOR UNION OBJECTS TO TAFT

Says His Record is Not Good---Is the Foe to Organized Labor, Actions Antagonistic to Workingman, But the Close Friend to the Trusts

Because his record on injunction matters is bad.

Because he is antagonistic to the workingman.

Because he has shown himself a foe to organized labor.

Because of his proclivities for trusts. For these reasons, embodied in a short resolution, the Central Labor union of Omaha last night, at its regular meeting, went on record as being unalterably opposed to the candidacy of William H. Taft.

The resolutions were introduced by Charles McDonald of the carpenters' union. They were read and immediate action called for. One or two men made short talks, a member of the socialist party desiring to amend the resolution so that all republican candidates would be included.

The resolution was put to a vote, however, without amendment, and it passed without a dissenting voice.

President Donahoe of the Central Labor union, states that the resolution is simply the crystallization of the sentiment of organized labor in Omaha.

"The labor unions are opposed to Taft," says Mr. Donahoe. "This resolution is the expression of the attitude which organized labor in Omaha, as well as all over the country, will bear toward Mr. Taft in the campaign. His record on injunction questions, and his entire attitude toward organized labor, is such that no member of a labor union can consistently support him.

Will Robertson Is Elected Editor-in-Chief of the "Cornhuskers"

W. A. Robertson secured the election as editor-in-chief of the Cornhuskers for next year at the meeting of the junior class held yesterday morning. But two ballots were taken, though it had been thought that more would be necessary. The meeting was well attended, as 232 votes were cast on the first ballot. The four names—E. D. Drake, W. A. Robertson, S. P. Dobbs and E. M. Rutledge—were placed before the meeting by the president of the class, according to the constitution of the Cornhuskers' publishing board. On the first ballot Robertson received 91 votes, Rutledge 53, and Drake and Dobbs 44 each. On a motion of Mr. Drake, which was seconded by Mr. Dobbs, the two low men dropped out and a second ballot was taken. At this time a large number of the juniors left the room, some of them voting before leaving. Two hundred and ten votes were cast, 113 of them being for Robertson. His election was then declared. Mr. Robertson is a member of the law school and the students in that school turned out for his support. A report of the chairman of the junior promenade committee, Amos Thomas, showed that all expenses of the prom had been paid and that $4 remained, which sum was turned over to the class treasurer. The chairman of the cap committee reported that the caps would soon be made. They are to be brown with yellow ribbons and yellow class numerals.—State Journal.
